Action-Packed Fair Set to Open Gates

"Showcase '68," Missouri's 66th State Fair, goes into full swing Saturday morning for nine days with full programs for each day. Tonight at 5 p.m. Missouri's newsmen will get their annual preview of the fair.

The group will meet at the Administration building on the grounds, board the several shuttle busses and tour the entire fair installation to see the many improvements which have been made over the past year. The tour will conclude at 6:30 p.m. on the lawn of Secretary of the Fair and Mrs. W.C. Askew.

The visitors will be the guests of Commissioner of Agriculture and Mrs. Dexter Davis and Secretary and Mrs. Askew at a buffet dinner. A large tent has been erected where they will have ample seating and where they will be entertained by many of the entertainers from the W.T. Collins midway shows.

Later they will return to the main area of the fairgrounds where they will be given a tour of the more than a mile-long midway of the Collins shows, and also be given an opportunity to attend the Thrill Show in front of the new half-million dollar grandstand.

The program for Saturday, which is Armed Services Day, is a full one, with judging in the Youth Division, 4-H and Future Farmers of America division and several other departments.

More than 20 entertainment features are free, as well as the hundreds of exhibits throughout the grounds.

In the afternoon Big Car racing will take over the half-mile oval in front of the new grandstand and that night on the track the Super-Modified cars which have replaced the old Jalopy racing will spin the track.

Also at the Coliseum in the afternoon will be the Appaloosa Halter division of the Horse Show and that night the Missouri State Fair Championship Horseshow gets underway. The horseshow this year has drawn to the fairgrounds nearly 400 more entries than ever before, with all classes being larger than ever and including some of the finest horses in the country. Kicksville, which was opened for the first time in 1967 and became one of the big attractions for the young people, will open with one of the top-notch bands of the area playing. Daytime entertainment at Kicksville is free.

Something new in entertainment is Gene Holter's movieland animals, a daily feature. They have racing ostriches and camels plus

Wallace Petitions Given To Missouri Secretary

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Supporters of former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama presented petitions to Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick today to get Wallace on the ballot as a presidential candidate in Missouri.

Tom Turnispeed, national coordinator for Wallace, said the petitions contained 61,839 names — far more than the 17,896 which Kirkpatrick said were required.

Wallace fans, including pretty girls dressed in red, white and blue, crowded into Kirkpatrick's office for the brief ceremony.

Turnispeed said if the petitions are accepted and Wallace's name is certified in Missouri, he would be on the ballot in 40 states. Before the campaign is over, he said Wallace would be on the ballot in all 50 states.

Wallace will run in Missouri as the candidate of the American Party. A new party must be formally established under Missouri law before a third party candidate can get on the ballot.

Kirkpatrick said his first job will be to check the validity of the signatures with the help of local election officials wherever voter registration is required.

Kirkpatrick said there is no plan for a test suit. The Missouri Supreme Court ruled several years ago the secretary of state's task is purely ministerial and he is required to accept any such nominating petitions if the signatures are found to be valid.

Accompanying Turnispeed to Jefferson City was Floyd G. Kitchen of Kirkwood, state campaign manager for Wallace.

Turnispeed said actually the Wallace people got more than 120,000 signatures but filed only the number presented today in bound volumes that covered Kirkpatrick's desk.

Under Missouri law, a petition candidate must get enough signers to equal 1 per cent of the last vote for governor in all 10 Congressional districts or 2 per cent in five of the districts. Turnispeed said both those figures had been exceeded in every Congressional district.

If the petitions are accepted as expected, Wallace would be the first third party candidate on the Missouri ballot since 1948.

Big Toll of Enemy In a Frontier Clash

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese forces, striking with tanks, artillery and planes to support the infantrymen, today reported killing 234 North Vietnamese in the hardest fighting in nearly a month along South Vietnam's northern frontier.

Spokesmen said three South Vietnamese soldiers were killed in the clashes Thursday while 15 government troops and 15 U.S. Marines were wounded.

Vastly superior allied firepower was considered responsible for the big difference in casualties.

The flareup along the northern edge of South Vietnam resulted from vigorous patrolling by the allied forces. Elsewhere across the country, the lull in ground action continued, and there was no sign of the start of the major enemy offensive which American officers expect before mid-September.

An enemy artillery barrage of 250 rounds, fired from inside the demilitarized zone at a South Vietnamese armored patrol, was the prelude to the heaviest action on the DMZ front Thursday.

The barrage destroyed one medium tank and an armored personnel carrier, and damaged another tank and three more personnel carriers. But the government troops moved out and found a main body of enemy troops several hours later north of the Gio Linh outpost and about one mile south of the DMZ, near the east coast.

A spokesman reported 165 enemy soldiers killed in a day-long battle, 50 of them by fighter-bomber strikes, before the remaining enemy escaped.

South Vietnamese headquarters said the action was in the same area where government troops killed 107 enemy soldiers a week earlier.

To the west along the DMZ, U.S. Marines reported killing 69 North Vietnamese in three clashes, one three miles north-east of the U.S. artillery base at Camp Carroll and the other two southeast of the Con Thien outpost, which is two miles below the DMZ.

In the fight near Camp Carroll, enemy troops dug in on high ground north of the Cam Lo River fired mortar shells on approaching Marines. The Leathernecks called in tanks, artillery and air strikes that drove the North Vietnamese from their positions. Then they pushed the enemy down the back side of the ridge.

The Marines reported 41 enemy soldiers killed and 13 Marines wounded in that battle.

Another unit of Marines near Con Thien spotted enemy troops setting up an ambush and called in air strikes to drive the enemy into a trap the Leathernecks set up. They reported killing 11 North Vietnamese and said there were no Marine casualties.

Several hours later in the same area, a Marine patrol spotted an enemy unit and called in reinforcements, tanks and helicopter gunships. The Leathernecks said that time 17 North Vietnamese were killed and two Marines were wounded.

Transit Tie Threatened In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Twin labor disputes involving a major share of the city's public transportation moved close to showdown today as preparations for the Democratic National Convention entered final stages.

Drivers of the 3,500 taxis operated by the Yellow and Checker Cab companies threatened to strike at midnight tonight unless agreement on a new contract is reached by then.

Dissident drivers of Chicago Transit Authority buses Thursday night voted down a compromise move by their union to avert a wildcat strike set for Aug. 25, the day before the convention opens.

While none of the smaller independent taxi companies would be affected by a cab strike, they have only a few more than 900 cabs among them.

Negotiators for the cab drivers and Yellow and Checker were to meet at midday with a federal mediator in final efforts to come to terms.

The drivers, represented by the Democratic Union Organizing Committee of the AFL-CIO Seafarers International Union, are seeking higher commissions on fares. The companies have offered 47½ per cent of the fares, compared with a union demand of 50 per cent. Drivers now earn around $20 a day.

Several minor issues also are at stake, including a union demand for protective shields between the front and back seats of cabs to protect drivers from would-be robbers.

Payments Balance Improves

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. balance of payments position in the second quarter of the year was the best it has been in two years, the government reported today.

Much of the gain shown by the figures was due to special factors, however, officials said, indicating that the basic situation was much the same as that for the first quarter.

The dollar drain slowed to about $150 million during the April-to-June quarter.

This was a sharp reduction from the first quarter, when the figure was $660 million.

The figures measure the adjusted difference between what Americans and their government spent in dealings with other countries, and the return flow to this country from other nations.

While the total deficit for the two quarters, $810 million, gave promise that 1968 will be a substantial improvement over 1967's adverse balance of $3.57 billion, government economists advised caution in interpreting the figures.

Among special financial transactions they noted $800 million in investments by foreign official organizations, including purchase by Canada of $500 million of special U.S. government securities and a special sale of securities to Germany to offset U.S. military expenditures there.

"Apart from the special financial transactions by official agencies and various temporary developments," a Commerce Department spokesman said, "the second quarter balance of payments measured on the liquidity basis on all other transactions was probably not much different from that of the first quarter of 1968, but somewhat improved from that of a year earlier."

The report noted that although the Canadian and German transactions improve the U.S. balance of payments, they occur infrequently and cannot be counted on for long-term help.

Payment to Sedalia By Phone Company

Jack Spilker, manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., in Sedalia presented a check Friday to the city collector, Opal Hugelmann, for $8,388.67.

This amount represents the gross receipts tax paid quarterly by the telephone company to the City of Sedalia, and covers the period of April 1, 1968, to June 30, 1968, inclusive.

Discount Rate Cutback Viewed as Hopeful Sign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board describes its vote for a slight cutback in the discount rate as primarily technical. But the action offers hope this key economic indicator has begun its long slide back to normal.

"I am pleased," said President Johnson Thursday after the Fed's board of governors acted. "It should help to assure the availability of funds to finance a needed increase in the pace of homebuilding."

The discount rate is the rate of interest Federal Reserve banks charge for loans to their member banks. Since they'll be getting money more cheaply, these banks can be expected to make some downward revisions of the charges they make for loans to the public.

The cutback is from 5½ per cent to 5¼ per cent, enough to signal the board's belief that the crisis that faced the dollar in April, when the rate rose from 5 to 5½, has subsided considerably.

Even at the new level, one source noted, the rate is high, considering levels of the 1950s and 1960s. Thus, he said, it should still have an impact on inflation and the continuing bal-

Campaign is Urged Against Cigarettes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A national task force today recommended stepped-up federal and private efforts to combat use of cigarettes and "stem the rising tide of early deaths and disabilities associated with smoking."

The report was immediately attacked by the Tobacco Institute as a "shockingly intemperate defamation of an industry which has led the way in medical research to seek answers in the cigarette controversy."

Among the recommendations of the task force report to the U.S. Surgeon general: —Tighter restrictions on cigarette advertising and promotion.

—Better instruction in schools to influence youngsters to refrain from smoking.

—Greater antismoking efforts by doctors and other health professionals.

—Use of group approaches to prevent or reduce smoking.

—More insurance plans which give reduced rates to nonsmokers.

—Development and promotion of safer cigarettes.

The task force, which was appointed in 1967, said it is encouraged with early results of anti-smoking efforts.

It noted that cigarette consumption per capita declined sharply after the surgeon general's 1964 report on smoking and health, that it rose again in 1965 and 1966 and again is declining.

But the task force said "The problem remains, still, bigger than the efforts to combat it. Cigarette smoking is one of the foremost preventable causes of death in the United States as well as in other parts of the world."

On cigarette advertising the task force said it "is unable to see how, in the long run, a product involving the health hazards of cigarettes can continue to be advertised."

Anti-Bomber Missiles Will Be Deactivated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced today the Army will shut down 23 anti-bomber missile batteries in 12 states to save money.

The action is the latest in a series of economy measures being taken by the Pentagon to cut fiscal 1969 spending by as much as $3 billion.

The Pentagon said deactivation of the 23 Nike-Hercules firing sites and seven headquarters installations will save $18.8 million in the current budget year, $54 million in succeeding years.

The Pentagon is expected to bear the brunt of a demand for spending reductions totaling $6 billion which the Congress made in return for passing President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Closing the sites also will drop active Army strength by 4,200 men. Eight of the missile units are operated by the National Guard.

"After careful study, these sites, in 12 states, were found to contribute least to the effectiveness of the defense of the continental United States," the announcement said. "It was originally planned to close some of these sites by the summer of 1970."

The Nike-Hercules is a 39-foot missile capable of shooting down 2,000 mile-an-hour bombers.

The first batteries became operational only 10 years ago, but the entire air-defense system has been undergoing considerable streamlining in recent months.

Partly cloudy, warm and humid tonight with chance of showers and thundershowers. Partly cloudy and a little cooler with showers ending Saturday. Low tonight 70 to 75. High Saturday in the 80s. Precipitation probabilities tonight 40 per cent, Saturday 20.

Lake of the Ozark stage: 55.1 feet; 4.9 feet below full reservoir; up 0.1. Pomme de Terre 87.8 up 0.2.

Sunset Friday will be at 8:06 p.m., sunrise Saturday will be at 6:28 a.m.

Rooms Still Available For Visitors

Although Sedalia's hotels and motels — with a few exceptions — are filled to capacity, "plenty" of rooms in private homes are still available, according to Mrs. Vivian Warren, Chamber of Commerce secretary.

The secretary said she has placed more State Fair visitors in private homes this year than any other year.

The Chamber is not accepting any more listings of rooms for rent, Mrs. Warren added.

Many campers have already set up their tents on the State Fairgrounds, where additional camping space has been made available this year.

Easy on the Ruffles

If you are a bit on the chubby side, use ruffles with restraint. A charming substitute for those romantic, frilly blouses can be a crisp, cool tailored blouse made of the same fabric, minus the ruffles.

Encyclical Could Be Factor For Elections

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — History records numerous instances when decisions by the papacy have provoked broad repercussions. And sometimes, teaching pronouncements eventually have been changed.

Such cases were being cited by church scholars this week as discussion continued over Pope Paul's encyclical upholding the church's prohibition against contraception.

However, in the present era, no parallels were seen to equal the current wave of controversy among Catholics themselves.

Despite comparisons with the past, however, circumstances presently were not regarded as offering much prospect for early modification, at least not until other conditions or leadership come about.

"I don't see how the Pope could ever change his views after making a statement as strong as this," says Msgr. Austin Vaughan, of Yonkers, N.Y., president of the American Catholic Theological Society. "It would be easier for the Pope to resign than to change this statement."

The National Catholic Reporter published speculation that the issue might be a factor in the next papal election. Scholars also noted that at various times in the past, firm papal teachings have ultimately been altered or reversed by later church leaders after the passage of years.

"It is plain that the fallible statements of earlier popes have been refuted in the course of time by the criticism and rejection of the Church," says John T. Noonan, a Catholic law expert of the University of California.

He and others, including the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Tracy Ellis, a noted church historian, cited various examples in which papal pronouncements eventually were reversed, including:

—An 1185 ruling by Pope Urban III, in his ban against usury, holding that the charging of interest on loans and credits was immoral—a practice now accepted by church and society as a useful economic measure.

—Pope Gregory XVI's 1832 encyclical condemning the idea that everyone is entitled to freedom of conscience as "a delirium" and a "pestilential error"—a view strongly rejected by the Second Vatican Council in its declaration on religious freedom and rights of conscience.

The Church, since its early years, has opposed contraception, a conviction that arose when populations were sparse and infant mortality high. The Vatican pointed out that Pope Paul's reiteration of the teaching was not specified as being infallible.

King's Widow In Call For Rededication

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. has told the organization he headed that "We must rededicate ourselves anew to the principles of love and non-violence" in the civil rights movement.

At a banquet Thursday during the annual convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Coretta King said, "The road ahead will be extremely difficult."

King's successor as SCLC president, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, opened the convention's Thursday session by saying that neither political party may take for granted the Negro vote.

Abernathy said unless there is a candidate "who is free to serve the people and meet their needs," Negroes might boycott the presidential election.

Factors Contributing To Catholic's Turmoil

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) Several unusual factors are contributing to the continuing turmoil over Pope Paul's action reaffirming Roman Catholicism's ban on contraception.

With the controversy still gathering volume, some of the special conditions adding to the upheaval over it included:

—It came amid growing emphasis in the church on the rights of religious liberty and the primacy of individual conscience.

—It was issued individually by the Pope at a time when the church has been shifting from centralized monarchical rule to broader collegial or collective government.

—It came when many priests and some bishops, particularly in Europe, have been advising Catholics to follow their own consciences about methods of birth control.

—It was based mainly on traditional philosophical concepts of natural law although the recent Vatican Council put new stress on the Biblical basis of divine revelation.

—It conflicted with widening opinion expressed both by theologians and lay organizations in the church, including last year's international lay congress in Rome.

—It was contrary to the majority recommendations of a papal commission of theologians, doctors and other experts which had studied the question for five years, and which said responsible use of "mechanical or chemical means" of contraception should be allowed.

—It recognized the changed church view that sex relations serve values both of uniting couples and producing children, rather than using the old formula that children are the "primary" purpose. But, at the same time, it said each marital act must be open to reproduction without interference.

Under these varied circumstances, Pope Paul himself foresaw in his July 29 encyclical that its view would "not be readily received by all" and he repeatedly since has pleaded for its acceptance.

However, debate about it in the church, rather than easing off, has generated increasing steam.

A noted moral theologian, the Rev. Bernard Haring, said if it were simply a personal matter he would silently accept the teaching, "but in this case the whole credibility of the church is at stake."

While church scholars differed sharply over the encyclical's position, both criticizing and approving it, bishops generally voiced support for the Pope. But some of them said the matter needs further examination.

American bishops urged Catholics to receive the decision "with sincerity" and "to form their consciences in its light."

Although fears were expressed that the encyclical might cause wide defections from the church, a Dutch prelate, Bernard Cardinal Alfrink, noted that the document was not presented as infallible and requires only that Catholics consider it "in forming their consciences."

Archbishop Denis Hurley of Durban, South Africa, said the encyclical had made conditions ripe "for a full and searching discussion as to how papal authority should be exercised." He said "there must be an increase in the scope and openness of consultations" on such important matters.

The key question for millions of Catholic couples was whether or not the teaching is binding, and they got varied answers. But there was no sign of episcopal crackdowns of differences about it.

Blackwater Homecoming Is Held

The 52nd Annual Homecoming of the Blackwater Chapel United Methodist Church was held Aug. 4 with a basket dinner served in the church basement.

Louis Staples led the afternoon program which began with an invocation by the Rev. George Scott, pastor of the congregation. After a solo by Mary E. Tevebaugh, "How Great Thou Art," the Rev. Dr. Thomas D. Hall, a former superintendent of the Maryville District and presently pastor of the Wesley United Methodist Church, spoke to the assemblage.

Lula Wheeler presented the "moments of commemoration" which was followed by the "memorial anthem," presented by David Hurd and Kathy Higgins.

A short history of the church, cemetery and first homecoming was given by Mrs. Mollie Epple, which was followed by a list of church pastors from 1916 until the present.

Lula Wheeler was recognized for her perfect homecoming record and Mr. and Mrs. Will Osborne, Sweet Springs, were recognized as the oldest living members of the church. Mrs. Osborne and her daughter, Mrs. Luke Bryan, were present.

Mrs. Epple read a selection of poetry entitled, "Faith," which was followed by the closing hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Pianist for the occasion was Mrs. Earl Clevenger.

Jimmie Dale Forsyth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Forsyth, Mike and Douglas Staples, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Staples, and Phillip Clevenger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clevenger were baptized and confirmed in the worship service which preceded the homecoming.

Envoys On Mercy Trip Aren't Met

LONDON (AP) — A 9-year-old American schoolgirl and a Roman Catholic priest flew to London today to appeal to the Archbishop of Canterbury on behalf of the children of Biafra, but no one came to meet them at London airport.

Melanie Nix arrived from New York with the Rev. Aloysius Dempsey.

"I do not know what to do," said Father Dempsey. "We only have 24 hours in which to see the archbishop before going on to Rome I was promised by the committee that we would be met here."

Taylor Chapel Holds Annual Homecoming

The annual homecoming of the Taylor Chapel M.E. Church in Otterville was held Aug. 4 with the Rev. O. W. Lacey, Mt. Zion Baptist Church, Buncheon, delivering the afternoon address. The following ministers also took part in the program: Rev. W. H. Coleman, Rev. Lawrence Webb, Rev. Hayes, Rev. Washington and Rev. Donald Frank.

Collection for the afternoon was $215.

St. Louis Spared By Two Tornadoes

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis area was spared Thursday when two tornadoes passed over. One skipped down to uproot trees, roofs and porches but no one was injured. The first tornado was sighted near Kirkwood, a west St. Louis County suburb, about 3:30 p.m. It bounced over neighboring Ladue, leaving 2,000 homes without power, and then continued its northeastward zig-zag path across north St. Louis. A heavy accompanying rain caused numerous auto accidents. Mrs. Albert Clark pulled her 7-year-old daughter from the rear porch of their house seconds before bricks tumbled on it. The porch from the second floor of the building had blown off. Several hundred persons reported seeing the twister before it crossed the Mississippi River and dissipated. A limited all-clear was given but at 6 p.m. a second twister was sighted west of St. Louis. It apparently never touched down.

Nigerians Run Into Opposition

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN Associated Press Writer

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigerian forces were reported 10 miles south of Biafra's temporary capital today, but informants said elements five miles to the east were running into stiff opposition. Col. Benjamin Adekunle, whose 3rd Marine Commando Division is driving up from Port Harcourt toward Aba, urged that troops guarding the northern line of the secessionist state be sent in to relieve the pressure on his men. Adekunle's two commando columns reached the Imo River Wednesday in their drive northward. The column on the west reportedly occupied a village 10 miles south of Aba. But the second prong hit strong opposition in the densely populated Ibo heartland. Radio Biafra claimed the rebels had pushed Nigerian forces back across the river from Akwete, a settlement on the north bank, destroying three boats and killing 65 men. But the Nigerian command said that it held Akwete. In Addis Ababa, peace talks continued in a stalemate, and the Nigerian negotiators rejected new proposals for relief flights of food and medicine to the millions of starving Biafrans. The Lagos government turned down a plan for flights to an air strip on Biafran soil that would be controlled by the International Red Cross.

Discount

(Continued from Page 1) ance of payments problem. The reduction had been widely predicted in the financial community because of a steady easing of conditions in the money market. In effect, the board followed the market because its reason for staying at 5½ per cent had largely evaporated. The board itself described the change as "primarily technical to align the discount rate with the change in money market conditions which had occurred chiefly as a result of the increased fiscal restraint and a lower Treasury demand for financing resulting from the enactment of the tax increase and its related expenditure cuts." The rate cut was proposed to the board by the directors of the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank and takes effect in Minneapolis today. The change will occur at the other 11 Federal Reserve banks around the nation only as their directors meet and vote to follow suit—a process that can take days or even weeks. The last downturn in the discount rate, from 4½ per cent to 4 per cent, occurred April 14, 1967. It climbed back up to 4½ per cent on Nov. 20 and rose to 5 per cent March 15. Tinkering with the rate is one means the government has of making sure that the intentional cooling off of the economy that is expected to occur in the second half of 1968 will not be too severe. Economic indicators for July show, so far at least, no signs of a recession-inducing nosedive. Industrial production figures were once again on the upside, despite the beginning of the tax surcharge during the month.

Fair

(Continued from Page 1) elephant and camel rides. There are 60 animals and exotic birds on display. Opening the Sunday program will be religious services, with Catholic services at the Colegium, Lutheran services at the Highway Gardens, and Protestant services in the new grandstand. All services will be from 8-9 a.m. during which time activity on the fairgrounds will cease. Sunday at 2:30 p.m. late model automobile races will run on the half-mile track. The night program Sunday in front of the grandstand will be the Grand Ole Opry Spectacular. Every afternoon at 2 p.m. one of the most interesting demonstrations is that of the volunteer firefighters who man the State Fair Fire Department, just east of the Highway Gardens. This is the location of the new fire station which was completed this summer and has two bays for fire fighting equipment, a training tower and other equipment used in training.

A 1960 Dodge, owned by Opal Moon, 63, 1401 Cedar Drive, was involved in a hit-and-run accident while parked in the 600 block of East 13th at 3:13 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Moon told police that another woman backed her car into the left side of the Dodge and drove away.

Two persons complained of injuries as the result of a four-vehicle chain collision in the 2800 block of South Limit at 10:40 a.m. Thursday.

Involved were a 1967 Buick, driven north on Limit by Wanda Rose Ellis Sorrell, 35, 2805 Southwest Boulevard; a 1964 Ford, driven north on Limit by Clarence Benjamin, 48, Cottage Grove, Ore.; a 1955 Chevrolet, driven north on Limit by Michael L. Gehlken, 17, 711 West Sixth, and a 1966 Chevrolet tractor-trailer unit, driven north on Limit by Robert Edward Leonard, 21, Des Moines, Iowa.

According to the police report, the Sorrell auto was stopped in the line of traffic waiting to make a left turn, while the Benjamin and Gehlken autos were stopped or apparently stopping behind hers. Leonard told police that he could not get stopped and his truck struck the rear of the Chevrolet, starting the chain reaction accident.

Lillian Yancey, 63, and Grace Bartlett, 68, both of the Quincy Apartments and passengers in the Benjamin auto, were taken to Bothwell Hospital by the Sedalia Ambulance service complaining of neck injuries. They were treated and released. Damage was to the rear of the Buick, the rear and left front of the Ford, the rear and left front of the Chevrolet and the front of the truck.

The Ford was towed from the scene by Darnell's wrecker.

No injuries were reported as a result of an accident on South Highway 65 in front of the Leonard's Service Station about 7:10 p.m. Thursday. Extensive damage resulted to one car and minor damages to another.

Involved was a 1967 Mercury sedan driven north by Robert L. Turner, 43, 230 Rainbow Drive, and a 1967 Mustang driven north by Dr. Gerrol D. Briggs, 50, of Wheatland, Mo.

According to Trooper Charles Pieper of the State Highway Patrol, the Mercury struck the rear end of the Mustang. The rear of the Mustang was damaged and the front end of the Mercury smashed in. Trooper Pieper reported he issued a patrol summons to Turner for following too close to another automobile. The Mercury was towed to Sedalia by Parks wrecker.

Make Film On Career Of RFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 20-minute motion picture depicting the public life of Robert F. Kennedy is being prepared for the Democratic National Convention—but party officials refuse to say when or if it will be shown.

Charles Guggenheim said in an interview that his Washington production firm was commissioned by the Kennedy family to make the film. He said the project is 60 per cent completed.

Four years ago, Kennedy—then attorney general and a candidate for the Senate—stood head bowed and eyes moist before the Democratic convention in Atlantic City and introduced a similar film of highlights in the life of his brother, John F. Kennedy, slain nine months earlier by an assassin.

For 13 minutes, the thousands in convention hall cheered Robert Kennedy. When the lights went on after the film, thousands were weeping.

Guggenheim's firm, which made a documentary for Kennedy of his 1964 Senate campaign, has asked for film footage from television networks and television stations and for still pictures from news media.

The film will be in black and white. The narrator, Guggenheim said, will be someone well known.

Guggenheim was reluctant to discuss specific scenes because the movie is subject to approval by the Kennedy family.

"This will not be a definitive biography, but rather the quality of a man's life," he said. "I don't think we have to trick it up to get an emotional response—the loss people feel is the quality the man communicated."

The Democratic National Committee has refused to say if the film is scheduled. In 1964, the John Kennedy movie was rescheduled from the second to the fourth day of convention week until after a vice presidential candidate had been nominated.

Businessmen Say Jobs Obtained For 140,000

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — An executive of the National Alliance of Businessmen has told President Johnson that 140,000 jobs have been found for the hard-core unemployed.

But the report from Leo C. Beebe, NAB executive vice chairman, indicated the campaign met difficulties from both right wing and left wing elements and from politicians. Beebe was cautiously optimistic concerning the long-range effects of the program.

"We are under no illusions about the difficulty of closing the gap between the jobs and the jobless," said Beebe, a Ford Motor Co. vice president. "Success hinges on our ability to change human habits, those of the hard-core and our own. Nothing could be more difficult. There is no formula for success. Progress is obstructed from the right by those who resist change and from the left by those who expect change to occur overnight."

In a report to the President on the first six months of the NAB's jobs campaign, Beebe said the alliance had obtained 310,000 job commitments and placed 140,000 people on the job. "The alliance is well ahead of schedule in its basic assignment," Beebe said.

Say International Laws Needed For Satellites

VIENNA (AP) — A United Nations agency reported today that satellites "represent a turning point in the history of communication" but warned that international laws are needed to control them.

UNESCO—the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization—said that agreements must be made to ensure the use of satellite communications in the public interest for peaceful purposes and for better understanding among nations.

The agency said satellite communications should be readily available to all nations and there should be agreement on assignment of available radio frequencies.

The report was presented at the first U.N. conference on peaceful uses of outer space, which opened Wednesday with delegates attending from 74 nations.

UNESCO cited direct broadcast satellites as a potential for trouble. These satellites, expected to be developed by the mid-1970s, will contain such powerful transmitters and antennas that they will beam directly to home television sets without the need for a ground relay station.

"The more international communications the satellites carry," the report said, "the more necessary it will become to surround the satellite system with a pattern of law and orderliness."

Virgil Winge Is Promoted By Orscheln

Virgil O. Winge, manager of Orscheln Farm and Home Supply, West Main Street, will on Sept. 1 become district manager of all present Orscheln Farm Stores in Missouri, according to announcement by Howard A. Hils, vice-president and general manager.

Virgil Winge

Winge became manager of the first Orscheln Farm and Home store in Sedalia in Nov. 1960. He started with the Orscheln Motor and Equipment Co. at Moberly in the Advertising and Purchasing Department in 1959. He was promoted to store manager of the Orscheln International Harvester dealership in Paris, Mo., in September, 1960.

Winge's promotion will make it necessary for him to move back to Moberly, where at one time he was secretary of the Kiwanis Club. While in Sedalia he was active in community affairs and was a member of the Kiwanis board of directors. Mrs. Winge is manager of the S & H Green Stamp Redemption Center. They reside at 1619 West Ninth St.

On Draft Board

TIPTON — Norbert Knipp of Tipton has been appointed the third member of the Moniteau County Selective Service Board. The other members are John Ziehrer and Mrs. Lee Jane Meyer, both of California.

Businessmen Say Jobs Obtained For 140,000

The NAB, launched last January, hopes to put 100,000 unemployed in jobs by next June and 500,000 by the summer of 1971.

Beebe said the employer who pledges a job for a hard-core worker in a suburban plant will be confronted with the problem of transportation from the city center to the suburb.

"In time, commuting will prove to be impractical and the employer will see that the only solution to the dilemma is either to set up shop in the city or move the worker and his family to the suburb," Beebe said.

He said the gap between the jobs and the jobless is what the alliance is all about," Beebe said. The NAB has not officially released Beebe's report, but a copy was made available to The Associated Press by an official of the organization.

"The alliance was anathema in some cities," the report said. "Mayors and civic groups had programs of their own. Some openly opposed the alliance, others resisted more discreetly."

"Some of the opposition was political in nature, and the fact that we are in an election year continues to complicate the task."

Say International Laws Needed For Satellites

and some institutional arrangements to manage the control problems. If these arrangements are not in working order by the time we begin direct broadcasting from satellites, then we shall face a very dangerous situation."

Without regulation, one U.N. official said, individual nations could use satellites as a powerful propaganda tool.

"Suppose, for example," he said, "there was a race riot in an American city. An unfriendly nation could beam television or radio messages of encouragement directly into the home of the rioters, sympathizing with their cause. The same thing could be done to influence an election on the eve of voting."

The report envisioned "satellite technology which would make worldwide electronic distribution of news, newspapers and any other printed or visual information material possible for reception on individual sets."

"Without control, you can see the propaganda possibilities here," the official said.

If properly used, UNESCO said, "education by means of television can be vastly improved. Natural barriers to cultural exchange between peoples can be overcome. Technical obstacles to the free flow of information can to a large extent be removed."

Tensions A Danger, Club Hears

Although individuals are inclined to place more emphasis on physical health, attention to mental health is just as sound an economic investment, according to Dr. Henry V. Guhleman, Jr., Jefferson City, a noted neuro-psychiatrist, speaking before the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

The speaker noted that many business and professional persons burn themselves out mentally by persisting in tension battles related to their social and business activities.

Dr. Guhleman was introduced by James Sandford, program chairman.

Attorney Adam Fisher, on behalf of the Jaycees, spoke to the club on that organization's current project of obtaining signed petitions of registered voters to call for an election on the home rule study commission. He explained that this is the first step to be taken before a second election can be called to approve or reject recommendations of the elected commissioners concerning home rule as a replacement of third class city government, now regulated by state statutes which are not abreast of current times for such cities as Sedalia.

Invocation was by the Rev. Arthur Schmidt, Lehigh, Fla., a former member of the Sedalia club. Singing was led by Abe Rosenthal with Mrs. Lillian Maynard accompanist. Birthday greetings were extended to Bill Burkholder.

President William Dugan presented Wendell Smith at the head table as Kiwanian of the Week.

Announcement was made that there would not be a regular program next Thursday so that members may attend the Missouri State Fair earlier than usual. There will be a luncheon meeting.

Kiwanis Governor Joe B. Chumley, Jr., will make his official visit to the local area division at a dinner meeting at the Versailles Methodist church at 6:45 o'clock Monday, Aug. 26. Sedalia club members will attend.

Guests Thursday were: Kiwanian Cliff Bemiller, Mount Vernon, Ohio; Dr. Fred Tweet, Kansas City with his uncle, Tom Foster; the Rev. Mr. Schmidt; and Dr. Steve Poort, with Dr. Tom Norris. Dr. Poort is acting dean of the State Fair Community College, and a prospective member of the local club. He was a director of Kiwanis in Ottawa, Kan., before coming to Sedalia.

Courthouse Offices To Relax Hours

Offices in the Pettis County courthouse will observe their customary practice of closing all day Tuesday and Thursday and being open only until noon on Monday, Wednesday and Friday during the State Fair.

However, the motor vehicle registration office will be open as usual every day except Thursday. Driver's license examinations will be conducted, as scheduled, according to Kenzie Miller.

City offices, according to Clerk Ralph Dedrick, will be open throughout the fair with the exception of next Thursday.

U.S. Forces Sees Lull As Prelude to Attacks

Editor's Note—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says there is an argument in the U.S. government whether the recent lull in Vietnam is a signal that North Vietnam wants to de-escalate the war. Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford says the United States awaits a clear signal that Hanoi is responding to a cutback in the area of U.S. bombing. The situation as seen by authoritative military sources in Saigon is reported in this dispatch by the AP's chief correspondent for Vietnam.

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — It is the official view of the U.S. Command in Vietnam that Hanoi at present is not planning a de-escalation of the war but remains determined to attack with greater force when the time is ripe. This assessment has been conveyed to President Johnson by Gen. Creighton Abrams Jr., the U.S. commander.

The current lull in the fighting, U.S. headquarters believes, was decided upon by Hanoi to enable its forces to bind the serious wounds sustained in this year's battles.

The lull of almost two months is no olive branch, senior officers say, although Hanoi might wish it interpreted as such in the Paris peace talks. If the slackening in the war was dictated by political decisions in Hanoi, there is little evidence of this on the battlefields of South Vietnam the officers say.

"The evidence is overwhelming that they are still determined to carry out and win the military third phase of their classic guerrilla doctrine," a ranking U.S. authority stated.

If many Vietnam watchers now believe that Hanoi is engaged in quietly de-escalating the war, Abrams does not agree. His headquarters vigorously defends intelligence reports of increasing North Vietnamese infiltration into the South.

As a result of the slackening war and increased infiltration since June, responsible authorities say, the over-all enemy troop strength in South Vietnam has increased. They say infiltration this month, while declining, will probably come close to July's figure of almost 30,000.

It is at this point, however, that the command's figures come into question.

There has been great confusion about the rate of infiltration, with some military estimates differing from civilian figures.

The present Viet Cong and North Vietnamese strength in South Vietnam is carried in weekly communiques as 222,000 soldiers and 85,000 political cadre, at most. Of these, some 95,000 are reported to be North Vietnamese regulars.

This figure, released weekly to the press, has remained constant for months. It is an "evaluated" figure, incorporating information over many months. It is also smoothed out to avoid fluctuations which might, or might not be inaccurate over a long period. It was not designed for day to day accuracy, officers explain, but to give an over-all picture.

Thus, like American political polls, the weekly statistics have to be assessed and are open to different interpretations. The U.S. headquarters insists that the figures are accurate.

Nonetheless, these are not the figures that the military intelligence community furnishes Abrams each Saturday in his personal weekly review of the war. Those figures are classified, along with the weekly infiltration report he also receives.

In these briefings, Abrams demands figures on enemy strength and infiltration that are almost up to the hour. Admittedly, much of this is based on estimates.

As recently as one year ago, Abrams' predecessor, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, admitted that it took six months to get an accurate estimate on infiltration at any given moment. Nowadays the U.S. headquarters claims, quicker and more accurate estimates can be made, partly because of new electronic sensors dotting infiltration routes.

In the current battlefield lull, it is also impossible to determine accurately how many enemy troops have withdrawn to sanctuaries outside South Vietnam.

The U.S. Command says that "most" of the 222,000 soldiers in the enemy force are now actually in South Vietnam—in traditional hiding places like jungled War Zones C and D above Saigon. Others are just across the Cambodian or Laotian borders, only three or four days march from prime objectives.

However, if much of the enemy force is actually outside South Vietnam or at least distant from major cities or installations, this adds up to a slackening of the war.

Whether this is de-escalation or regrouping depends on political and military interpretations. The U.S. Command in Saigon is convinced the enemy is girding for another blow.

For the moment, the U.S. Command feels that intensified patrols, artillery and, above all, air strikes, have disrupted the Hanoi timetable for renewed attacks.

The assaults, it is generally believed, will now be in late August or early September. But responsible officers qualify this by saying that there is no evidence of a hard target date set by Hanoi.

"They want to pull the plug," a ranking officer said. "The overwhelming weight of intelligence shows they have been steaming up their troops to do so."

In recent weeks, however, the enemy has not built his force up to the level that would counter earlier losses.

"Basically," a ranking officer said, "Hanoi has kept its forces in the field, in a high state of readiness, to attack at a time and in places considered appropriate under the circumstances."

"No matter where it starts, Saigon is where it will end up, if he can do it. That is the quickest way to make this government fall and that is what he is after."

Bogota Capital Sparkles Before Visit By the Pope

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — "Bogota isn't ugly. All it needs is a bit of makeup."

With that thought in mind and an eye out for the approaching visit of Pope Paul VI, city fathers are pushing a multimillion-dollar facelifting that has given this gray, chilly, 8,600-foot high capital a sparkle it probably has never known in its 430 years.

Caught up in the spirit of things, homeowners are painting their house fronts, trimming gardens and trees. Businessmen are tidying up their establishments. The grime of years is being removed from the aging fronts of the National Cathedral, the Municipal Palace and the Capitol.

Streets are being cleared of prostitutes, pickpockets and beggars. Police are everywhere and a legion of traffic cops is making it possible for people to walk—not dash desperately—at pedestrian crossings.

Many of the public works projects—new sewage and lighting systems and expressways—now completed or under way had been in the planning stage for several years. They were accelerated by the selection of Bogota for two important religious meetings, an International Eucharistic Congress and the conference of the Latin American Episcopal Council, and finally by the definite news that the Pope would be a visitor Aug. 22-24.

Estimates of the cost of the papal visit alone, exclusive of the public works programs, range as high as $10 million in new installations and preparations. The city and national governments, as well as the Catholic Church, are financing it.

The Pope's visit has aroused glowing pride among most Colombians but there are dissidents. Some express disappointment the Pope will stay at the papal nunciature instead of the home of a Colombian priest. Others say state funds—derived from taxes on Jews, Protestants and non-Catholics as well as Catholics—should not have been used in the preparations.

A sociologist sees Bogota's urban problems worsened by the papal visit which may increase the city's 2 million population by 10,000 or more visitors who stay in the city.

"The poor will sell pig or cow or whatever they own just to make the pilgrimage," he says. "And once here with no place to go, they'll stay."

Court's Findings Are Upheld

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal appeals court has upheld a lower court finding that electronic eavesdropping by the government did not aid in the 1964 conviction of James R. Hoffa, imprisoned Teamsters union president.

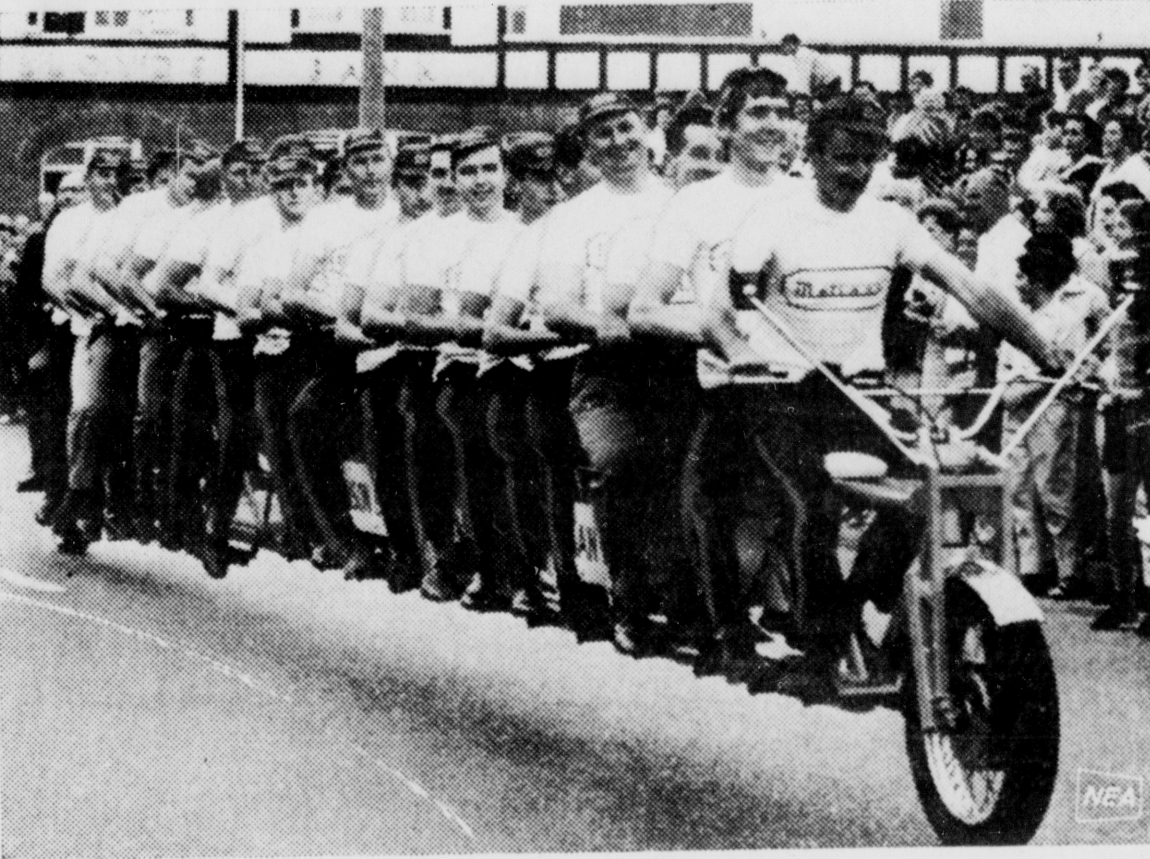

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals agreed Thursday with a finding by U.S. District Judge Richard B. Austin that "the government obtained no new information from the electronic eavesdropped hearings."

One of the three judges dissented. Hoffa was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $10,000 in the 1964 conviction for fraud and conspiracy in using $1 million in union pension funds to finance a Sun Valley, Fla., real estate project.

The sentence was vacated by the U.S. Supreme Court, which ordered a hearing to determine whether admitted government wiretapping aided in the conviction.

Austin issued the finding Aug. 22, 1967, against Hoffa after the Teamsters official and five co-defendants contended the government had based its 1964 case on a wiretap of the telephone of S. George Burris of New York, one of the co-defendants.

Austin ordered the five-year term to run consecutively with an eight-year sentence imposed in Chattanooga, Tenn., on conviction of jury tampering. Hoffa is serving in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary.

Upholds Marines' Charges

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — A reviewing officer has upheld murder charges and ordered trials for seven U.S. Marines being held in the killing of five Vietnamese civilians.

An investigation of the deaths, which occurred last May, said two of the civilians were executed by a firing squad, one was hanged and two more were taken behind a building and shot. All the civilians had been taken prisoner as Viet Cong suspects, the report said.

Maj. Gen. Carl A. Youngdale, commander of the 1st Marine Division, has reviewed the charges brought by a preliminary investigation and ordered a general court martial for the seven Marines, a spokesman said. A total of 21 murder charges was brought.

No date has been set for the trials. The first will probably begin next month.

Court Decision Due in Orphan Children Case

MADERA, Calif. (AP) — More than 100 families have offered to adopt the 10 Morris orphans, but guardianship will go to their maternal grandparents or a paternal aunt.

Superior Court Judge Jack Hammerberg was studying his selection between applications filed by the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Boris Lachawicz, or the aunt, Mrs. Gloria Graves of Concord, Calif. The grandparents moved from Fresno to Madera to help care for the children.

The judge's decision is due today.

The six girls and four boys, ranging in age from 3 to 17, won widespread sympathy when they appealed to be allowed to remain together in Madera.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Morris, were killed in a traffic accident July 2 near Fresno. The father earned $480 a month as manager of a chain shoe store and the mother earned $20 a week cooking in a convent.

"Don't let them separate us, don't let them take us apart," sobbed 17-year-old Kathy, when told of the tragedy.

Officer Suspended For Three Months

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Patrolman Robert C. Mathis will be suspended three months without pay for shooting a fleeing traffic violator to death, the Kansas City Police Board decided Thursday.

Police Chief C.M. Kelley had recommended that Mathis be fired for using unnecessary force in a misdemeanor case.

Kelley said the policy is that firearms must not be used in a misdemeanor case unless a person is using actual force and violence against an officer in resisting arrest.

Mathis had been under suspension since the night of May 17 when he fired three shots and killed William Griffin, 20, a Negro.

Mathis said he tried to stop Griffin for speeding, but a 39-block chase resulted. Griffin stopped his car on a dead-end street, jumped out and started running. The shooting followed.

Nearly $14,000 Goes to McCarthy

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Nearly $14,000 was raised at a rally for Sen. Eugene McCarthy attended by about 2,000 persons at Municipal Auditorium Thursday night.

It was one of 49 rallies in cities across the nation for the senator. He was in New York and spoke on a closed circuit television program.

Burt Lancaster, actor who is working on a film in Wichita, spoke briefly to the Kansas City group. He said the Republican Nixon-Agnew ticket was a "bow to the racists and a curtsy to the war hawks ... an unqualified disaster."

For What Good Purpose?

Sen. George McGovern's late, late entry into the presidential race scarcely stands out as yet another of the dramatic shifts in a surprise-packed campaign.

With all due respect to the South Dakotan's commendable record as an intelligent legislator, his impact on the public consciousness has been such as to make Spiro T. Agnew's stature as a national figure monumental in comparison.

McGovern has come forward as the torchbearer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's cause and heir of that portion of Kennedy support not yet recommitment to either Vice President Humphrey or Sen. Eugene McCarthy, a recommitment McGovern's more obvious backers apparently have been too disgruntled for a variety of reasons to make themselves.

McGovern himself appears to take his candidacy considerably less seriously as a genuine bid for the nomination than as pressure for a strongly peace-oriented plank on Vietnam in the Democratic platform. But his initial pronouncements on the issue — a call for a bombing halt and broadening the base of the Saigon government — have a me-to ring, echoing not only the late Senator Kennedy but McCarthy as well.

The question raised is exactly what pressure McGovern is capable of applying that McCarthy, still a very active candidate with a well-organized campaign and significant delegate support, cannot.

Political parties perform most valuably in the American system for selecting a president when they are presented the opportunity of choosing their standard bearers from among clearly defined alternatives, as was the case with the Republicans in convention assembled at Miami Beach.

The Democrats would seem to be reasonably well-served already with Humphrey and McCarthy. If not, Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox's suggestion that he might present himself as an additional alternative makes more sense in this respect than does the McGovern candidacy.

Under these circumstances, it is difficult to see what the McGovern effort can be expected to accomplish on the road to Chicago beyond a muddling of debate and the squeezing of a few sour grapes.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Two Old Friends Run Against HHH

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Hubert Humphrey is a believer in competition. In fact he has trained and educated his competition. Sometimes, however, he wishes that the men he has trained wouldn't decide to compete with him just as he is reaching for life's biggest goal.

It was Humphrey, then Mayor of Minneapolis and a founder of the Democratic Farmer-Labor Party, who saw the political appeal of a young professor at St. Thomas College in St. Paul and helped him get elected to the House of Representatives in 1948. Ten years later, Humphrey helped the young congressman get elected to the Senate.

Today that young professor, Eugene McCarthy, is running against Humphrey for president.

In 1957 another young professor, this time from South Dakota, got elected to Congress and because he admired Humphrey, they both being natives of South Dakota, he asked Humphrey's advice about getting a house in Washington. Hubert recommended a modest neighborhood in Chevy Chase where prices were not too high.

So young Congressman George McGovern took a mortgage on a house next door to Hubert's at Coquelin Terrace.

At that time the hedge between the McGovern's and the Humphreys' back yards was so low that you could step over it; so the Humphrey and McGovern children grew up together. There wasn't even a family row when the Humphrey dachshund infiltrated the McGovern's yard to kill the McGovern children's pet Easter rabbit.

Later, when the young congressman from South Dakota wanted to run for the Senate, Humphrey persuaded Lt. Gov. Frank Lindley not to run in the Democratic primary against him. This was in 1962 after Sen. Francis Case died and there was an excellent chance of electing a Democrat. Thanks to Hubert, McGovern was nominated without Democratic opposition. Hubert held a fund-raising reception for him and also approached Mary Lasker, the Democratic angel in New York, to get some campaign funds for McGovern. McGovern was elected to the Senate.

Today the ex-professor from Dakota Wesleyan University is running for president against his old neighbor.

"You work with a fellow for years," Hubert mused to a friend, "then, bingo, he runs against you. However, I'm not going to get mad about it."

—What Makes Georgie Run?—

Out in California at the Democratic caucus last week, Pierre Salinger, former press secretary to President Kennedy, confided to friends that Kennedy family supporters were putting Sen. McGovern in the race because of the snide speech Eugene McCarthy had made as a eulogy to Bobby Kennedy. They were down on McCarthy, Salinger said.

Two weeks earlier, Sen. McGovern had been in California, conferring with Speaker Jesse Unruh, leader of the Kennedy forces, who aspires to be governor of California. McGovern was quoted as saying he probably could not support Hubert Humphrey.

Back in Washington McGovern came to see his old neighbor, the Vice President, said he had been misquoted.

A week later he was in Chicago at another meeting, also attended by Speaker Unruh and Kennedy family supporters. They persuaded him to run. McGovern's will be a holding operation in the hope of tying up the Democratic convention. If so, it's barely possible, though not probable, that the Kennedys can pick their own candidate.

—Higher-Priced Cars—

It looks as if the auto industry is getting ready to follow the steel industry in bucking the White House for a price increase on 1969 cars.

The excuse will be added safety features, though actually the only safety features next year will be two head supports, to prevent neck injuries from rear-end collisions. The head supports will cost around $10. Despite this, government experts have word from Detroit that new car prices will be upped around $100.

Actually, increased auto profits and increased productivity should lead to decreased prices. However, all signs indicate that General Motors will increase prices across the board and that the others of the Big Three will follow.

Some people are wondering what happened to Sen. Abe Ribicoff's hearings which began last February with a demand that the motor moguls make public the details regarding the cost of safety devices. The Ribicoff hearings have now petered out into a plan whereby the auto industry gives cost data to the Bureau of Labor Statistics which promptly treats them as if they were a military secret. Even the Highway Safety Bureau has not been able to get a look at these cost figures.

This is a strange anti-climax for Senate hearings which began with such a flourish. However, the fact is that Ribicoff, an excellent senator, faces a tough reelection battle in Connecticut. If he bucks the auto industry, it can send money into Connecticut to defeat him.

—Papa Agnew—

The original name of the GOP nominee for vice president is Anagnostopoulos, which means "the son of a reader."

In Greece, a reader is a lay officer of the Greek Orthodox Church. His job is to read to the congregation.

"Papa" Anagnostopoulos, father of Spiro T. Agnew, the governor of Maryland, was a restaurant owner in Baltimore, and exceptionally well educated for an immigrant. He was active in Ahepa, The American Hellenic Organization, where he wanted more scholarship and was one of the first to urge that Greek immigrants look upon the United States as a permanent home, not a temporary resting place.

"If we follow this path," said Papa Anagnostopoulos, "we will see the day when one of our descendants is in the White House."

How prophetic was Anagnostopoulos?

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER: Gains in Grain.

— Agronomists have been so successful in developing new varieties of high-yield wheat and rice and improved farming methods that optimism is running high for winning the battle against world hunger.

But U.S. Agriculture Secretary, Orville L. Freeman warns with justification that the abundant yields produced by the "miracle" rice and wheat varieties will create new problems.

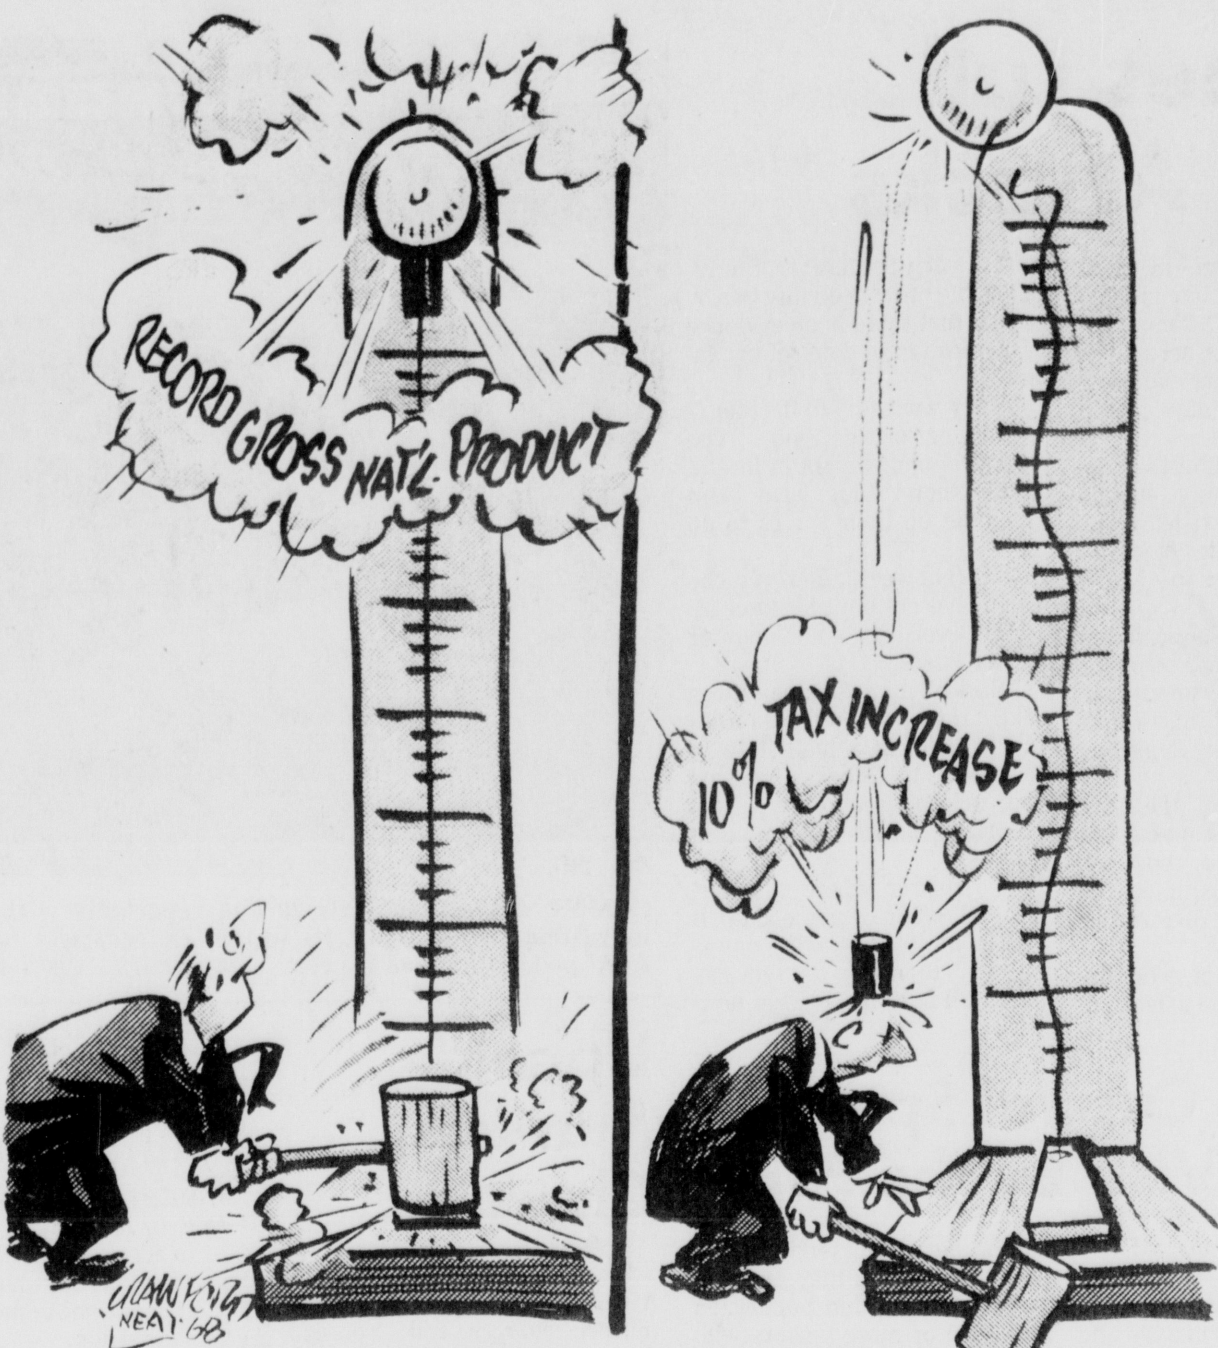

Increased harvests will require better methods of storage, distribution, marketing and handling if hunger is to be conquered.

To continue his incentive to produce, the farmer will have to be guarded from a disastrous price drop arising from a glut of grain output.

And to make any long-term progress in the attempt to achieve a balance between food production and population, greater efforts will be required in birth control.

MONEY CLIPS

A Coin Collector's Stamp . . .

The withdrawal of silver from circulation has made it available to the silver industry and now we are getting it back in the form of hollowware, jewelry and conversational pieces.

The newest and most unusual of these pieces to make the scene has to be this beautiful silver reproduction of a Canadian five-cent postage stamp—the Royal William.

First in a series of five "silver stamps" to be minted by a Canadian firm, the Royal William measures 1x1 3/4 inches, is .999 fine silver and roughly equivalent to four U.S. silver dimes in weight.

The set will consist of stamps issued by Canada commemorating famous ships in her history, and in the order of their availability, they are: The Royal William, the Royal Yacht Britannia, John Cabot's ship Matthew, schooner Bluenose and Arrival of Cartier at Quebec. All are mounted in attractive display cases.

Reproductions of this nature are rare indeed, since few governments, including our own, allow facsimiles of stamps or currency in any form for any reason. Since one of the requirements stipulated a slight difference between the original and the reproduction, the silver stamp is essentially smaller than its paper prototype.

Jerry Parker, of Jerry Parker Limited in Ottawa, advised this column that the mintage was too small to reserve any pieces. They are being sold on a first-come first-served basis at $4.50 each, and when 4,000 have been struck the dies will be destroyed, making it a real collector's item.

Miss PS, Halifax, Nova Scotia (Halifax Mail-Star): It is nice to know you are interested in the Buffalo nickel. Chief John Big Tree was a very colorful person. His widow, Cynthia, still lives on the Onondaga Reservation in New York. If you would write Ralph C. Leete 721 Maple St., Syracuse, N.Y., I am sure he would be glad to tell you anything you want to know about this five-cent coin. Leete was a long time personal friend of the man who graces the obverse.

Mrs. K.G.K., Canton, Ohio (Canton Repository): The letters FS on the face of the Jefferson nickel are the initials of Felix O. Schlag, the designer of the five-cent piece. Mr. Schlag won $1,000 for his design in a competition with 390 other artists.

Mrs. K., Corry, Pa. (Erie Times-News): The V in Trust on the face of the Peace dollar is actually a Roman-style U. The U in United on the reverse is the English style. If there are arrows on each side of the date on your 1853 quarter, it lists at $5 in fine condition to $25 uncirculated. If there is a mint letter O on the reverse, the value rises to $10 fine and $35 uncirculated.

Wising Up

"Break out the Bach," my daughter called from the living room window. "Here comes Mrs. Hefron."

"Rudeness will get you a trip to your room," I answered, but I pushed the reject button on the phonograph.

"A gutless gesture," my son remarked.

"I am an adult and do not have to prove anything. I can live for awhile without hearing the rest of my album and I do not care to make Mrs. H. feel uncomfortable."

"Maybe she would like The Ventures," he said, as she came into the room. "Mother was listening to her favorite record . . . wouldn't you like to hear 'Tequila'?"

"A Mexican symphony?" Mrs. H. asked.

"Not exactly," I said.

"One of those GROUPS? With the long hair and yelling?"

"Only one word is said on 'Tequila.' Would you care for some iced tea?"

"Mother's favorites in this album are 'Telstar' and 'Wipeout,'" my daughter said, obviously with malice aforethought.

"What's the country coming to?" Mrs. H. exclaimed. "Children in all that Paisley and boys with beads around their necks and playing that terrible music!"

"Oh, I don't think it's all terrible and wouldn't you like some iced tea?" I pleaded.

"They should all be run out of the country. All this trouble is Communist-inspired! They are making fun of the American way of life!"

"We can't blame songwriters. I think they just take a poke at our attitudes—like yours, and MINE," I added hastily, explaining I had taken off the record because I didn't want to offend her and yet I still liked the music I'd been playing.

"Songwriters have no right to criticize. If they don't like America, they don't have to live here," she said as I rifled through a notebook, trying to find a quotation I'd written down.

"Perhaps they criticize because they DO love America," my son suggested.

"Listen to what J. B. Priestley once said: 'We should behave toward our country as women toward the men they love . . . do anything except stop criticizing and trying to improve him. We should cast the same affectionate but sharp glance at our country. We should love it but also insist on telling it all its faults.'"

Cause Still Unknown In Meniere's Disease

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What is the cause and treatment of Meniere's disease?

A — Although the cause is unknown, such factors as allergy, the stress of modern living, and hardening of the arteries or other disturbances of circulation in the inner ear appear to be important factors. A wide variety of drugs has been used to treat this disease, including diuretics, antihistamines, nicotinic acid, vitamin B-12, betahistine hydrochloride (Serc) and streptomycin. Limitation of the fluid and salt intake is recommended because waterlogging of the inner ear is believed to be the underlying mechanism causing the symptoms. In the treatment of patients with severe dizziness, surgical destruction of the inner ear may be necessary.

Q — Since last September I have been having dizziness and nausea. My doctor says my left ear is causing the trouble. Is there any cure for this?

A — You Probably have Meniere's disease. For the treatment see the previous answer.

Q — Over a year ago I developed chronic labyrinthitis. My doctor prescribed nicotinic acid, a tranquilizer, antibiotics and a capsule for stomach spasms. Can all these drugs be taken safely?

A — Not all of them were given for your labyrinthitis, a condition closely related to Meniere's disease. They can be taken safely if your doctor adjusts the dosage to your individual needs as judged by your progress in controlling your symptoms.

Q — My doctor says I have labyrinthitis. He is giving me Antivert but he said the disease would eventually go away. How long should this take?

A — If the inflammation in your inner ear (labyrinthitis) is an acute process associated with a virus infection, it could clear up within two or three weeks. But if it is a chronic condition due to an allergy or hardening of the arteries, it will not clear up spontaneously.

Q — Our doctor says my husband has some trouble with his heart valve and advises transplanting a valve. How successful is this operation?

A — Plastic valves to replace diseased heart valves have proved very successful.

Democrat Pickups

The first thing that happened to a former Sedalian when he came here on a visit from Florida was to get a parking ticket. Putting a quarter in an envelope he gave it to his son, told him to put it in the little parking meter box, and added that there were a number of them around.

Well, the boy and his brothers wandered down the street looking for a parking meter box but all they saw were round, open top containers on the meters.

"The people here certainly must be honest," commented the boy as he finally dropped the envelope in the little round container on one of the meters. "you would think someone would take them out of there."

When they got back to where their dad was and told him about the little containers were not for the meter envelopes, they were flag holders. So the boy went back, got the envelope out of the flag holder and looked until he found a meter box to put it in. — H.L.

Ann Landers

Cuddling Couple, A Highway Hazard

Dear Ann Landers: Drunk drivers get fined, speeders get fined, people who drive without a license get fined, but nothing is done about teen-age sexpots who can't leave each other alone long enough to let a fellow drive a car.

I am not a crabby old lady. I am 24 years of age. I love my husband very much, but I wouldn't dream of kissing him or running my hands through his hair when he is at the wheel.

Last night we were on the highway and noticed the car ahead was weaving from one side of the road to the other. My husband said, "That guy must be drunk." As we got closer we saw the driver was a boy of about 18. At first it looked as if he were alone in the car. Then another head appeared. Ann, the girl was sitting on the boy's lap kissing his neck.

Why is there no law against this sort of thing? — FUMING

Dear Fuming: According to Chief Nicholas Ferri of the Illinois Secretary of State's office, there is a law against reckless or negligent driving. There is also a law against interfering with a driver's ability to control a vehicle. Chief Ferri said a staggering number of accidents occur because kids insist on making out at high speed. He asked me to suggest that kids from coast to coast cool it. So do like the man says.

Dear Ann Landers: How long does a mother have to keep still? Forever?

My husband is a kind and gentle man. We raised our children to be thoughtful and considerate. I never recall my husband losing his temper with me, although I am sure I deserved it.

The problem is that our darling daughter is married to a man who is so mean and abusive it breaks our hearts to be around them. Our son-in-law takes sadistic delight in insulting and hurting this poor girl. She keeps a neat and comfortable house and has raised two fine children. Everyone loves her.

What mystifies us is that she takes this punishment and never opens her mouth to defend herself. Yesterday we were there for dinner and he let fly some foul language for no reason whatever. What is the matter with him anyway? — WE NEED AN ANSWER

Dear Need: Your son-in-law is obviously immature, short-fused, and he probably feels woefully inadequate for reasons which go a long way back.

The real question, however, is what's the matter with your daughter? Why does she tolerate this shameful abuse? When she is able to face up to the answer to this question she might find a solution.

Dear Ann Landers: Please stop knocking fortune tellers and calling them fakers. I can attest to the fact that a tea leaf reader has added years to my life by warning me to stay out of planes, helicopters and motorcycles. In the last five years I have lost two friends in plane accidents, a cousin in a helicopter crash and my neighbor was killed last week in a motorcycle accident. If it hadn't been for the fortune teller I might have been with them. — SIGN OF THE SAPPHIRE

Dear Sign: Did the tea leaf reader warn you against taking a bath? Thousands of people are injured every year getting in and out of bathtubs.

'Money Game' Author Suffers Tax Irritation

NEW YORK (AP) — George Goodman, exposed as the "Adam Smith" who authored "The Money Game," an hilarious and instructive treatise on winning and losing at stocks, is now hung up on another game.

It really isn't the kind of game Goodman likes to play, for it involves taxes, and taxes are not, as he defines game, "sport, play, frolic or fun." The frolicker, if there is one, is Uncle Sam—not Goodman.

To Goodman, a gamesman whose playground is the best seller list right now and whose book is expected to retail at least 250,000 copies, meaning at least $150,000 to him, an author can't win in the tax game.

"The laws discriminate against the author," he said the other day, implying he would be happy to come away with his sense of humor and a couple of copies for his kids after the tax men get through with him.

"I'll make as much as a good second rate institutional stock salesman," he said, setting down his pipe and running one hand over thick grey hair while flipping with the other through the Internal Revenue Code.

For those who don't know Goodman, his only other association with Adam Smith was as a reader. The real Adam Smith lived in the 1700s and is famous for enunciating theories of free enterprise. Goodman, seeking anonymity, simply borrowed the name. Then he, also, became too famous to keep his cover.

For the record, he is editor of an influential monthly called The Institutional Investor and works in an office at the edge of the financial district. He is 37, married to actress Sally Brophy, and is father of a son, 5, and a daughter, 4. He commutes from Princeton, N.J.

Goodman is a Harvard graduate, magna cum laude. He was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford for two years, has managed a mutual fund, and has written three novels, two of which, "The Wheeler Dealer" and "A Time for Paris," were made into movies.

He wears black-rimmed glasses and projects the aura of an intellectual who is thoroughly relaxed and happy in the commercial world, although still a bit curious and amused by the antics he observes.

Goodman's tax irritation primarily concerns capital gains, which are taxed at no more than 25 per cent. But authors don't qualify. Their earnings are taxed as straight income. If an author writes a best seller, he can be taxed very heavily for two or three years.

To prove injustice, Goodman pointed to a section of the tax code.

An inventor, it appeared from the code, can treat income from the product of his mind as a capital gain, but the offspring of the author's imagination is specifically excluded.

This Goodman maintains, doesn't make for a fair game. As he sees it, an author is little different from inventor Chester Carlson, who was able to capitalize his rights in Xerography into stock worth at least $35 million.

"If the laws were so written — and they aren't — I would dearly like to capitalize my earnings," said Goodman, giving way momentarily to the fantasy that authors should be able to sell stock in themselves and take a tax break.

Well, maybe not a fantasy at all.

"If you and I were to start an ad agency," he said, "We could issue stock and sell it at 20 times the earnings of our writings." Which, he claims, means that "writing for a corporation is 20 times as profitable as writing for a publisher."

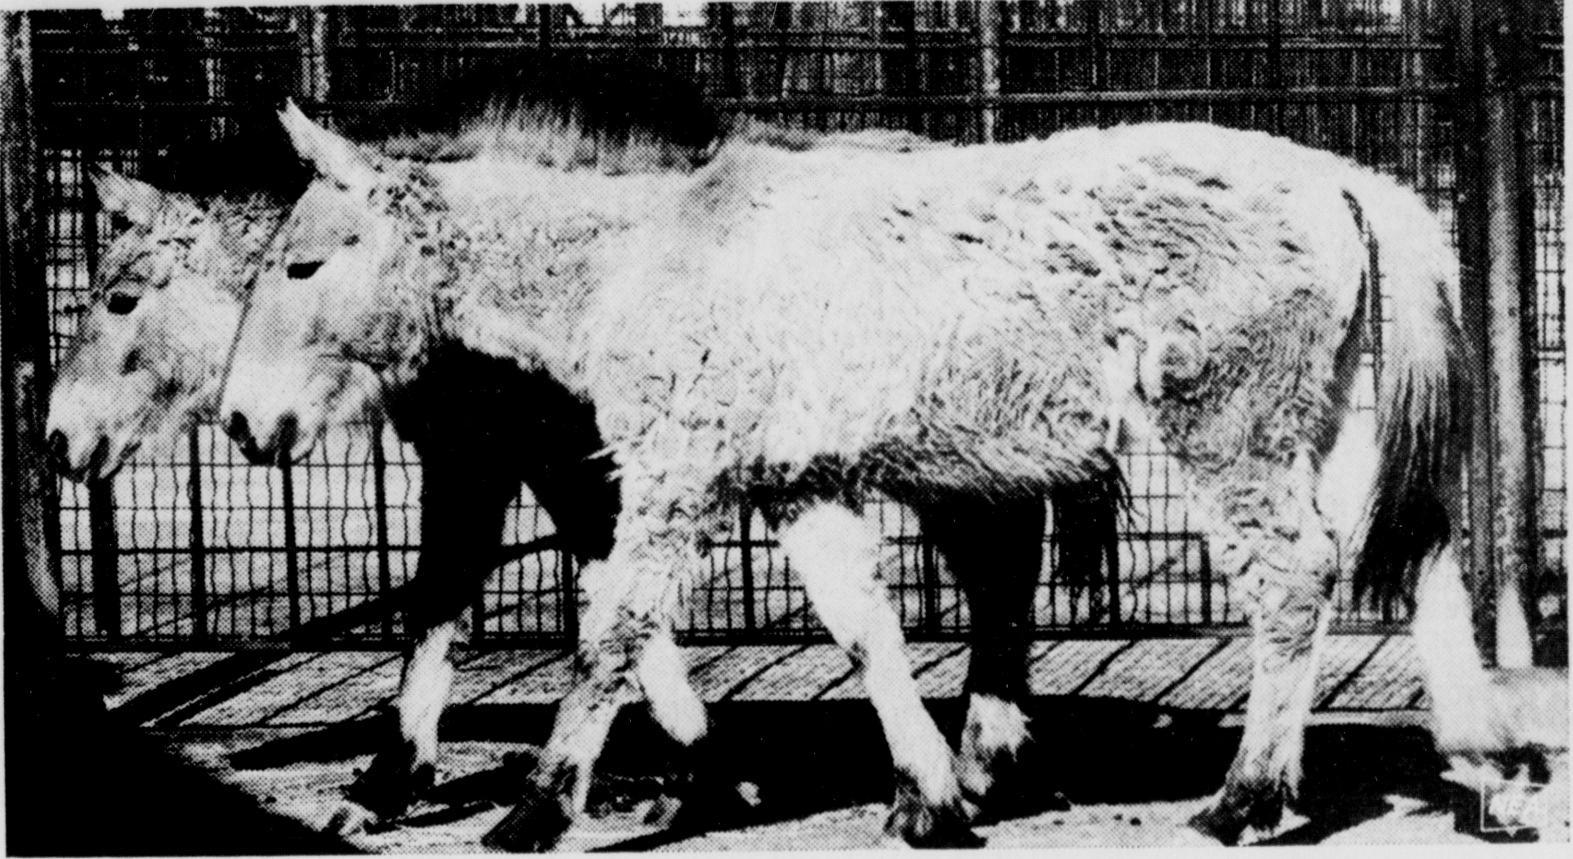

But for a poor author going it on his own, he continued, it can be rough.

"The guys down here," he said in reference to the money men in nearby Wall Street towers, "think I made a lot of money. They want me to invest it in oil. They want to introduce me to their oil driller."

"Why?" he asked. "Authors don't tell oilmen to write books," implying that no good author would deign to tell an oilman to drill for money in authorship.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35c in coin.

SHAGGY HORSES are Przewalskis, the only existing species of truly wild horse. The breed hails from a small area of Mongolia, near the China border. Less than 200 are in captivity; these two are at New York's Bronx Zoo. Dun-colored and with stiff black mane and thin, bristly tail, the Przewalski resembles to a great degree the likenesses of horses painted on caves by stone-age hunters.

Amateurs Produce A Winner

By LINDA DEUTSCH

Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When

a painter becomes a director and a housewife turns film producer, what can the end result possibly be.

In the case of "C. Soutine," it's an art film about an artist, and it has walked off with this year's Venice Film Festival's prized Golden Lion for best documentary.

"C. Soutine" chronicles with stunning impact the life, work and thought of Chaim Soutine, a Russian-born painter who influenced the Paris school of impressionists and post-impressionists.

The move was the brainchild of Rita Morrison, a Los Angeles doctor's wife who studied film at UCLA.

"I had always wanted to make a film," she recalls. "Finally I just said, 'Today is the day.'"

For her subject she chose Soutine, a painter whose reputation lagged behind his contemporaries. He was the "painter's painter."

But now, 25 years after Soutine's death, there was to be an exhibition of his work at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. Curator Maurice Tuchman set out for Paris to ferret out Soutine works hidden in attics and cellars of the artist's friends. With him went Rita Morrison.

In Paris they found one of Soutine's mistresses. Mrs. Morrison quickly hired a camera crew and filmed an interview with the petite Mile. Garde who spoke no English but said softly for the cameras: "J'adore Soutine."

Back in Los Angeles with her film, Mrs. Morrison recruited Jack H. Lieberman, 38, a one-time painter and lecturer in the humanities. As a film director he had several documentaries to his credit. Also, he had studied at the Barnes Foundation which holds the largest American collection of Soutines.

Lieberman brought in Ken Plotin, young innovative cinematographer, and Fred Haines, screenwriter who had worked on the film "Ulysses."

Edward G. Robinson, a Soutine admirer and art collector, agreed to narrate.

"In researching Soutine's life," says Lieberman, "I found that he was haunted by a childhood experience. As a boy, he witnessed the Jewish ritual slaughter of a chicken."

Examination of Soutine canvases further revealed tortured visions of dying animals—bleeding chickens, hulks of butchered cattle.

The film opens in a slaughterhouse—intestines of cattle pouring onto the screen.

Then all is filmed in dark sepia tones — Peltin's idea. It gives the effect of viewing a very old photograph album. A dark-headed boy—Lieberman's son, Joshua, 8,—watches an aged, bearded man slit the throat of a fluffy white chicken. The child, who had been given no script, reached instinctively to his own throat as the blood spilled.

There is a brief black-and-white sequence when Tuchman brings Soutine's paintings to the museum for the art show.

Then, again in color, the film returns to Paris, 1943. Chaim Soutine's death, of a perforated ulcer, is depicted with a closeup view of open-stomach surgery.

Runs the Orioles Out of Ball Game

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rod Carew might be the American League's top hitter, but to the Baltimore Orioles he looks more like the league's leading runner—bad knee and all.

Minnesota's All-Star second baseman ran the Orioles out of a ball game Thursday night and left them standing still in their chase after league-leading Detroit, which was idle.

Carew, who left the first game with a sore left knee after Baltimore scored three fifth-inning runs for a 4-3 victory, entered the second contest of a two-light doubleheader as a pinch hitter for Bob Allison in the eighth inning.

The score was tied 1-1 and hits by Rich Reese and Tony Oliva put runners on first and third with one out. Carew grounded to shortstop Mark Belanger, whose throw to second baseman Dave Johnson forced Oliva. But Carew, shaking off his leg miseries, barely beat the return throw to first base as Reese scored the winning run for a 2-1 triumph and a split.

In the only other games, Boston blanked the Chicago White Sox 3-0, California beat Washington 3-1 and Oakland slipped by the New York Yankees 4-3.

In the National League, St. Louis stomped the Chicago Cubs 8-0, Pittsburgh nipped San Francisco 2-0 and Houston downed Philadelphia 3-2 in the only games.

Carew, hitting .305, helped the Twins to a 3-0 lead in the first game against Jim Hardin when he singled in the first of three runs in the opening inning. Frank Quilici later doubled in the other two.

After that burst, the Twins and Carew folded. While Hardin, 15-8, held them scoreless the rest of the way and completed a six-hitter, the Orioles jumped on Dean Chance, 11-11.

Bill Utz Expects To Be In Thick Of Fair Racing

Regardless of whether it's cars, horses, or jumping frogs, it takes two to make a race.

Last week, Gordon Woolley of Waco, Texas, who came in second-best in one of the greatest automobile speed contests ever seen at the Missouri State Fairgrounds, told auto racing officials here that he felt this was his year to win the big one.

This week the driver who beat Woolley, Bill Utz of Sedalia, left little doubt that he'll be one, if not the driver Woolley will have to contend with.

"Winning that race on the mile (in 1966) in my home town was my biggest thrill in 10 years of racing," Utz said. But he added, noting that since 1955 when the series started, only Bobby Grim has been able to win two of the classics. "I'd sure like to win it again."

Utz failed to finish the Missouri Futurity last year and Woolley was sixth, but in the feature of the weekend before, the pair tied up in another one-

Brooks Robinson started the comeback with a disputed home run, his 14th, in the second inning. The ball appeared to hit the left field wall but Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver protested that a fan had pushed it back onto the field and the umpires upheld his claim.

Then Larry Haney slugged his first homer to open the fifth and a hit by Don Buford, a double by Belanger and Curt Blefary's sacrifice fly followed. Third baseman Quilici let the throw from the outfield get away after Blefary's fly and the decisive run scored.

Carew pulled up lame two innings later, and rested his knee until the eighth of the nightcap when he turned on the speed.

Jim McGlothlin, 8-10, stopped the Senators on four hits in California's victory. After he gave up an unearned run in the first on two hits, an error and a double play. Tom Satranio put the Angels ahead with a two-run single in the second against loser Frank Bertina, 4-12.

Oakland jumped on Mel Stottlemyre, 15-10, for four runs in the fifth inning as Jim Pagliaroni hit a solo homer and Reggie Jackson a two-run shot, his 22nd. But the Yankees came back in the sixth on Mickey Mantle's 15th homer with two on, and only clutch relief pitching by Jack Aker and Lew Krausse held them off.

Aker stopped the Yankees with a man on second and one out in the seventh, and Krausse worked out of a bases loaded, none-out jam in the eighth and a man-on-second, one-out threat in the ninth.

Gary Bell, 10-8, worked out of jams in the first and second inning and then retired 19 consecutive hitters en route to a four-hitter in Boston's triumph. Carl Yastrzemski singled in two fifth-inning runs and Ken Harrelson drove in his 99th run with a hit in the seventh for the needed support.

Bill Utz

two duel that ended with Utz besting the Texan.

Like Woolley in Texas, Utz has had a successful 1968 season in the Midwest, winning at Granite City, Ill., and posting a number of second- and third-place finishes.

Also like Woolley, he drives a Chevy-powered sprinter built by famed car constructor Don Edmunds of Anaheim, California.

Both will be part of the 40-car field which will launch the 1968 Mo. State Fair at one p.m. Saturday, Aug. 17. The Futurity will be contested over the 50-mile distance at 11 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 25, in a program that also includes five 10-mile heat races for a total of 100 miles of racing.

Modified stock car racing is scheduled Saturday, Aug. 17 and Friday, Aug. 23, and late model stock cars race Sunday, Aug. 18 and Saturday, Aug. 24 to round out the fair's 1968 speed offering.

Murphy In Westchester Golf Lead

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Murphy is a cocky, confident young man, built along the lines of a miniature Jack Nicklaus, who holds a one-stroke lead going into today's second round of the $250,000 Westchester Classic Golf Tournament.

"Cocky?" He repeated the question after firing a blistering, eight-under-par 64 in Thursday's opening round over the sun-splashed Westchester Country Club course, a 6,648 yards, par 72 layout.

"I guess you could call it that. God gave me a good body, a good swing and a good mind. I think I can do things with them. If that's cocky, then I'm cocky."

Veteran Dan Sikes who finished second in last year's inaugural of this richest of the pro tournaments, had a 65 for second place. A former Masters champion Art Wall, Jr., had a 66 and defending champion Jack Nicklaus 67.

Murphy, 25, a former amateur and national collegiate champion, is in his rookie year as a pro. He didn't take up golf until he was 18, and that because of a football injury. He had hoped to make a career for himself as a baseball pitcher.

So far this season, he's made $23,828 on the tour.

His blistering assault which included an eagle, when he chipped in from 25 yards out, seven birdies and one bogey—on the 13th when he was in the deep rough twice—was the biggest battering given the course as par took a terrible beating.

Sikes had nine birdies—half his holes—in his round, on putts ranging from 6 to 30 feet. He had bogeys on Nos. 2 and 3, each time in a trap.

Following Nicklaus at four under par 68 was a group of six, including Gardner Dickinson, head of the players group now locked in a bitter dispute with the PGA; Bobby Nichols, Dudley Wysong, Bob Stanton of Australia, lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand, and Australia's Bruce Crampton.

There were 13 at 69—three under-par—including Masters champ Bob Goalby and U.S. Open Champion Lee Trevino, each of whom had to rally to make it.

Arnold Palmer had a 71, but was well back in the pack as 56 in the field bettered par and 22 more matched it.

The field will be cut to the low 70 and ties after today's round—and it's barely possible that it may take par to do it.

Tigers Put Through Paces In Practices

Workouts for the Smith-Cotton Tigers got underway Thursday at the practice field north of the Jennie Jaynes Stadium. Nearly 80 boys from the Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes were put through the traces the first day by Coach Chuck Shelton and his crew of assistants.

Practice sessions begin at 9 a.m. to 11 and the evening session is from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Football equipment was issued on Wednesday so all boys would be properly equipped for the beginning.

Coach Shelton commenting on the first two practices remarked "the boys appear better than any group I have started out on the first day of practice. They appeared in better physical condition than I have seen so many boys as a unit."

Continuing he remarked, "the boys have a lot of enthusiasm, they are much lighter than expected, but make up for weight in their alertness and quickness. I expect we will have the lightest team of all our opponents this season, but this

The roar of racing engines will echo through a brand-new grandstand Saturday afternoon as the rapid speedway cars launch seven programs of auto racing thrills for Missouri speed enthusiasts.

The sprinters will be followed in close order drill during the day by the super-modifieds, which race in a series of elimination heats to determine finalists for next Friday night's 15th annual Missouri Modified Stock Car Championship classic.

And, finally rounding out the opening weekend Sunday, will be late model stock cars in a seven-event program capped by a 50-lap feature.

Times for the afternoon races are 1 p.m. daily, time trials, and 2:30 p.m. first race. The modified racing program Saturday night opens at 8 p.m.

Four more races for the same cars are slated the last weekend of the fair.

Entry lists for all events have been bulging for more than a week. Among 48 speedway entries are those of such past standouts as Bill Utz of Sedalia, Gordon Woolley of Waco, Tex., and Benny Rapp of Toledo, Ohio, plus such fireball newcomers as Norm Paul of Auburn, Calif., and Ron Perkins of Bethalto, Ill.

In the modifieds, Utz again will be a top contender, along with Ray Lee Goodwin of Kansas City, Knoxville, Iowa, national champion; Roy and Russell Hibbard of Marshall and Slater, respectively, and Bob Williams of Kansas City, defending state champion.

In the late models, Ernie Derr and Ramo Stott, both of Keokuk, Iowa, and driving a '68 Dodge Charger and a '68 Plymouth Roadrunner, respectively, are favored but are expected to get a stern challenge from Leon Bowman of Topeka in a '68 Mustang and Lennie Funk of Otis, Kan., in a '66 Ford. A dark-horse hopeful will be Ralph Bowlin of Marshall in a 1968 Mercury Cyclone.

A number of track records, which stood through last year's sprint car assault will be in jeopardy, as will those in the two other divisions. In the late model division record breaking has been a habit, but no modified record has fallen since 1964.

The modifieds appear a cinch for new marks, with the superb new lighting system certain to benefit drivers' vision and ability. Viewing is further enhanced by the new stands which offer 8,200 first class seats.

doesn't depress my staff or myself. If they advance the rest of the practice sessions between now and our first football game, then we will be trouble for our opponents.

"These youngsters in the first two sessions on Thursday were quick to put things together. As of now we are right happy with them, but as time rolls along we'll know better what to really expect under the pressure of the game," Shelton concluded.

The coach reported he expected six or seven more boys to report, who we know have been and are on vacation. These boys worked all summer getting themselves in condition according to the report.

The Marshall Owls are the first opponents to be met and the game will be played on Friday Sept. 13 at Marshall.

Ralph Bowlin

More Than Casual Interest In Bowlin's Performance

When Ralph Bowlin wheels his 1968 Mercury Cyclone onto the Missouri State Fair track Sunday to compete in that afternoon's late model stock car races a considerable portion of the crowd will have more than a casual interest in Bowlin's racing performance.

"I don't know how many people," the 41-year-old Marshall auto race promoter said this week. "Have come up to me on the street at home to wish us well in this racing venture and to offer help—I including financial help—in getting the car ready to race. And all they want," he added,

"is just the satisfaction of knowing they helped in some way to get the car on the track."

Bowlin, a soft-spoken father of six whose wife and youngsters "are the biggest race fans in the country," has operated Sportsman Speedway at Marshall the past five years, but has driven modified stock cars "off and on since 1952, when I took my first ride at Newton, Kan." This year, though, marks his first excursion into International Motor Contest Association late model racing.

Bowlin bought the Cyclone this summer as a badly wrecked car and took on as a partner Maurice Moore, Marshall police sergeant, who until a couple of months ago, when he came around to help Ralph install an engine, had never been close to a race car.

Together, they've put the car into first-class racing condition and have high hopes that it—and Bowlin—will turn in the same kind of performance that the Mercury Cyclones have achieved on some of the big speedways in the South.

"The town has really stood behind me and racing," Bowlin declared. "They're all pulling for me to win, and I sure aim to get out there and try."

Duel In Batting Last Competition

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The duel for the batting lead between Matty Alou and Pete Rose seems to be the last remnant of competition for a National League top position now that St. Louis has turned back the late challenge of the Chicago Cubs.

Only three points separate Alou and Rose today while the first-place Cardinals are 14 games in front of the runnerup Cubs.

Alou, 1966 NL batting king, cracked two hits in four tries Thursday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates blanked San Francisco 2-0 behind Steve Blass' four-hitter. The Cards walloped the Cubs 8-0 and Houston edged Philadelphia 3-2 in the only other National League games.

There was more action in the American League where Boston blanked Chicago 3-0, Baltimore split a doubleheader with Minnesota, winning the opener 4-3 and losing the nightcap, 2-1. Oakland downed the New York Yankees 4-3, and California beat Washington 3-1.

Alou's safeties raised his average to .330. Rose leads with .335 while another Cincinnati Red, Alex Johnson is third at .321.

San Francisco's Willie McCovey has a commanding lead in homers and runs batted in with 30 and 77, respectively, while Juan Marichal, another Giant is a solid frontrunner in most pitching victories with 21.

Alou triggered a two-run Pirate first inning that carried Blass to his 10th victory against five defeats. Matty singled and later scored on Donn Clendenon's one-bagger. The second run came home when third baseman Jim Hart erred on Manny Mota's grounder.

Blass was in trouble only in the third inning when Jay Alou, Matty's brother, singled and moved to second on Hal Lanier's single. However, Blass got losing pitcher Bob Bolin, 6-4, on a pop foul and fanned Bobby Bonds and Ron Hunt. The setback ended the Giants' five-game winning streak.

Mike Shannon and Nelson Briles starred for the Cardinals. Shannon belted the first grand slam homer of his career and drove in another run with a single. Briles pitched a seven-hitter in recording his 16th triumph against seven losses.

Ken Holtzman, 8-9, was knocked out of the box in St. Louis' four-run first. John Edwards' two-run double capped the rally. Shannon's bases-filled homer greeted Bill Stoneman in the second. Stoneman relieved Jack Lamabe after Briles' single and two walks.

The four-game series in Chicago's Wrigley Field drew a total of 121,750 spectators.

Doug Rader's eighth inning run-scoring double broke a tie and gave the Astros their victory over the Phillies. Houston trailed 2-0 in the sixth, but Jim Wynn's 16th homer tied it.

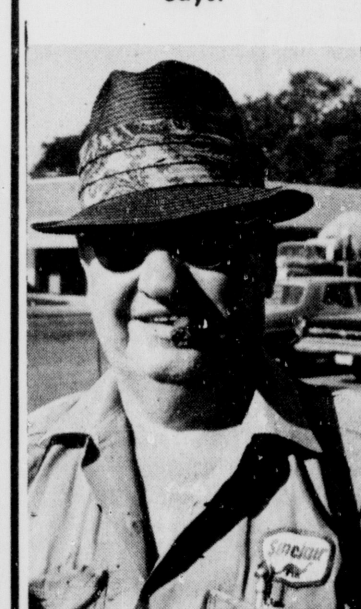

The Phils had taken a 1-0 lead in the opening on Tony Taylor's double, an infield out and John Briggs' double. They added their second run in the fourth on singles by Briggs and Richie Allen, a walk to Tony Gonzalez and Cookie Rojas' sacrifice fly.

Rojas had a chance to win the game for Philadelphia in the ninth. However, reliever Danny Coombs fanned him with runners on second and third and two out. Dave Giusti, 7-12, was the winner. Dick Farrell, 3-5, working in relief of Woody Fryman, was the loser.

Inter-Zone Play Opens In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — "This is the big one for us—if we can defeat Spain, we should go on to take the Davis Cup from Australia," says Don Dell, rookie captain of the U.S. team.

"That's the way it looks on paper anyway," he added as the inter-zone matches with Spain opened today on the fast Harold T. Clark courts.

Spain's Manuel Santana, 30-year-old super-star, met hometown product, Clark Graebner, 24, a husky powerhouse player, in the first singles contest.

Juan Gisbert, 26, faced U.S. ace Arthur Ashe, winner of seven tournaments this year, in the second singles battle.

Each victory is worth one point.

A doubles match will fill Saturday's session, with another pair of singles winding up the series Sunday.

The winning team will take on the West Germany-India winner this fall. That winner will play in Adelaide, Australia, Dec. 26-28 for possession of the Cup.

The Americans have advanced through the inter-zone challenge series by downing teams from the Caribbean, Mexico and Ecuador.

Dell decided on the quick-reacting Ashe, 25-year-old Army Lieutenant, earlier in the week but waited until just before Thursday's draw to pick Graebner over Charlie Pasarell.

The only mild surprise was the choice by Spain's veteran captain, Jaime Bartoli, of Gisbert over Manuel Orantes, 19-year-old southpaw, to handle the single along with Santana. Santana was a cut and dried choice.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Young and Old Gain

By Helping Each Other

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I compose a letter to you nearly every time I iron, then have a guilty feeling as I do not get them written. I am quite concerned when reading of suicides among young mothers. This loss seems needless and the trauma to their children, especially teen-agers, is immeasurable. Often what such people need is only the chance to talk things out with someone not too emotionally involved. Older acquaintances in the neighborhood are often an untapped source for this. Maybe the young do not realize that loneliness besets many middle-aged-plus women and they would welcome the chance to help even though not professionally trained.

My daughter did a couple of things that were of mutual help to her and an active woman nearly three times her age. During the canning season, this woman enjoyed helping by snapping beans for my daughter. Then, during the apple harvest, the older woman made her famous pie crust for pies to be put in the freezer. When "grandma" wanted to she frequently went along on errands and stayed in the car with the children. This saved time for the young mother and also gave her older friend a chance to see things other than those immediately surrounding her. The idea that a youth needs a friend outside his own home can be expanded to all ages. Conversation flows naturally while doing something together. Also the younger couples do not realize what a short visit or even a telephone call can mean to the older ones.—ELIZABETH

DEAR POLLY—A precious glass becomes nicked, and the nick with size 00 emery paper wrapped around a spoon. Rub gently and carefully until smooth.—SZENDI

DEAR POLLY—To remove nicks from her fine goblets Nancy could use emery boards such as she uses for manicuring her nails. Rub the board along the rim of a goblet, on each side of the nick, until the edges are smooth and level. Test carefully with the ball of the finger for smoothness.—MRS. R. L. E.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I would like to clean my light green sectional sofa that has foam rubber cushions but wonder if the cleaning would harm the foam cushions.—FRANCES

Enthusiasm In Little League At Traditional High

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—While major league experts argue over baseball's lack of hitting, slump at the turnstiles and nonexistent pennant races this year, enthusiasm is at its traditional high in this Little League headquarters city which hosts its 22nd World Series beginning Tuesday.

Five of the eight berths in the series, which has become the highest dream of thousands of youngsters, will be filled in regional playoffs Saturday. The competition takes place in the North, South, East and West United States and Canada.

Teams from Chindangea, Nicaragua; Wakayama, Japan, and a U.S. Air Force team from Wiesbaden, Germany already have won regional playoffs, and will complete the series field.

This year's series will be played in a new, $300,000 stadium, which will be dedicated before the championship game Aug. 24. The 4,500-seat structure will replace temporary bleachers that have been used the past 10 years.

Hal Boyle's Column

We All Want the Truth But Not Quite So Plainly

NEW YORK (AP) — We all say we want the truth, but rarely do we want it put to us too plainly.

For the truth, like any other bitter medicine, is more palatable when sugar-coated.

That is why we so often have to resort, in communicating with one another, to double-talk: It enables us to dole out conversational sugar to another person without disturbing him with reality.

Engage In Celebrity Scramble

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Zsa Zsa and Eva Gabor come out for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. Sen. Eugene McCarthy counters with a pair of well-known Allens—Steve and Woody.

Leonard Bernstein backs McCarthy. Humphrey has Robert Merrill.

After the scramble for delegates, recruiting big names from the entertainment world appears to have a high priority in the Humphrey-McCarthy competition for the Democratic presidential nomination.

A third candidate, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, entered the race only last Saturday and apparently hasn't had either the time or inclination to comb the dwindling ranks of stage, movie, television and concert performers still uncommitted.

The McCarthy camp fielded scores of performers in a series of rallies across the nation Thursday night, with Harry Belafonte sharing billing with the candidate at the main one in New York's Madison Square Garden.

The Humphrey headquarters jumped in shortly before those performances with an announcement—"for immediate release"—that the "Fifth Dimension" musical group had joined the Entertainers for Humphrey Committee.

With Simon & Garfunkel already enlisted on McCarthy's behalf, his forces managed to survive the opposition maneuver.

The McCarthy camp includes performers under the broad heading of "Arts and Letters."

The approach brings together Brooks Atkinson, Polly Bergen, Red Buttons, Betty Friedan, John Kenne, Galbraith, Robert Goulet, Jean Kerr, Bob Newhart and Igor Stravinsky, among many others.

In his more compartmented approach, Humphrey has an entertains committee (Danny Thomas, Jerry Lewis, Soupy Sales, Al Hirt, Jane Morgan and Peter Duchin, to name a few) and a separate Arts & Letters listing.

Michelangelo designed the costume of the Vatican's Swiss Guards in the 1500s.

The ability to use double-talk is the hallmark of maturity and adulthood. So is the ability to recognize double-talk — and not be fooled by it.

For the beginner, here are a few typical examples of double-talk followed, in each case, by their literal translations:

"This job has unlimited opportunity."

—The pay is lousy.

"It's a lovely apartment. It even has a view of the river from the kitchen."

—But you have to stand on the stove to see it.

"All I want from you is your honest, unbiased opinion."

—If you don't agree with me, shut up.

"Frankly, I recommend our chicken a la king today—it's superlative."

—The chef cooked so much of it the day before yesterday we haven't been able to get rid of it.

"Your fiancé must be awful rich, or crazy in love with you, to give you such a beautiful engagement ring."

—Poor thing, I'll bet she had to pay for it herself.

"It's not because I have four kids to clothe and feed that I'm asking for a merit raise—it's because I feel I deserve one."

—It's the four kids.

"That diet really has worked wonders for you. Since you took off those 20 pounds, your face looks a lot thinner."

—And twice as wrinkled.

"It's heartwarming to see a young fellow like you get ahead in the organization so fast."

—It's even more heartwarming to know that it's not my job you're after.

"Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. We can always count on you, boss, to come up with a new one."

—My old grandpappy used to like that joke, too, but it sounded funny when he told it.

"Don't stay up for me, honey. I'll probably have to work late at the office tonight."

—Unless my secretary has a date with another guy.

Contest's Winner Preferred Apple

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Nine-year-old Kevin Boehme of Taylorville won the pie eating contest at the Illinois State Fair Thursday by eating his cherry pie faster than any other contestant. He said afterward that he doesn't like cherry pie. "I really wanted apple pie," he said.

Negro Nuns Meet On Racial Issue

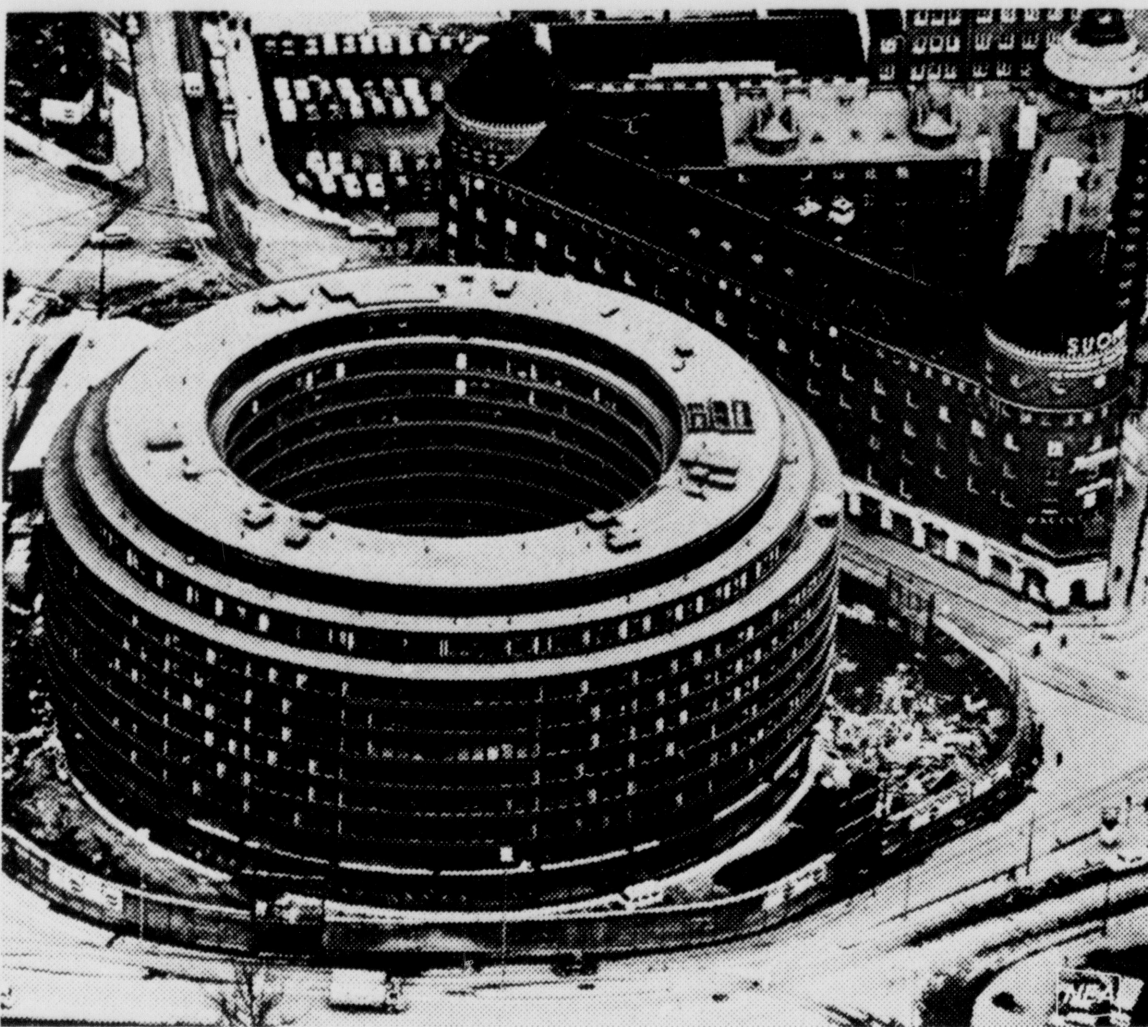

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A group of Negro nuns will meet here for a week, starting Saturday, to discuss ways they can help solve America's racial problems.

The nuns hope to form a new religious sorority—the National Black Sisters.

Sister Martin Deporres, who developed the idea for such a group, said 160 Negro nuns would attend the conference, sponsored by the Religious Sisters of Mercy, at Mount Mercy College.

She said she planned the conference after attending an April meeting of Negro priests in Detroit.

Hold Meeting Of Symphony Directors

The board of directors of the Sedalia Symphony Society met recently at the home of Mrs. Adolph Scott, president.

Mrs. Donald Barnes and Mrs. Jack Herndon reported on the progress of the Artist's Committee for the 1968-69 season. It is hoped that a prominent hometown talent will be available for the Oct. 21 concert. The Feb. 10 concert will feature the Choraleers from the University of Missouri at Kansas City. Bill Bob Long, a Sedalian, is a member of this highly professional group. Christine Wieneland and Margaret Ling, duo harpists and members of the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra, will be featured artists on the April 21 concert.

Mrs. Donald Barnes, chairman of the new Historical Committee, is assembling materials for the History of the Sedalia Symphony Society since 1935. Any information from interested persons concerning the Symphony Society since its charter year 33 years ago will be appreciated.

Discovery on Moon May Delay Landing

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A mass concentration of dense material found beneath the surface of the moon could delay the first man landings, two scientists report.

The discovery of lumps the size of cities 30 miles below the surface of the moon was reported Thursday by two scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Mathematicians Paul M. Muller and William L. Sjogren said they detected the mass concentrations of dense material—called mascons—in a study of unexplained speed changes in the flight of Lunar Orbiter 5, last of a series of photographic survey ships.

The researchers said the mascons caused the craft to speed up when it flew over them. They said this could make a landing craft miss its target by several miles.

Things 'Humming' In Event at Fair

Beeswax is important business to competitors in the Missouri State Fair's apiculture or beekeeping department. Beeswax, bees, candied honey and comb honey are some of the factors judges will consider when awarding the $643 cash premiums offered in this event.

Enclosed hives of bees, recipes for different varieties of honey, jars and jars of honey products and examples of honey cookery are all displayed for State Fair Visitors.

When judging bees, State Fair judges consider the uniformity of their markings, color, size and shape, the queen bee, and the hives. The number of cake cracks, color, cleanliness, aroma and texture are factors considered in judging beeswax.

Interestingly, honey may be substituted for molasses or sugar in almost any recipe. One cup of honey is equal to one cup of sugar and $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ cup liquid. Honey is acid and therefore soda should be used with it, about one-half teaspoon to each cup.

Lester H. Barrows of Jefferson City is the fair's superintendent of the apiculture department.

Missouri Mule Stages Comeback at Fair Time

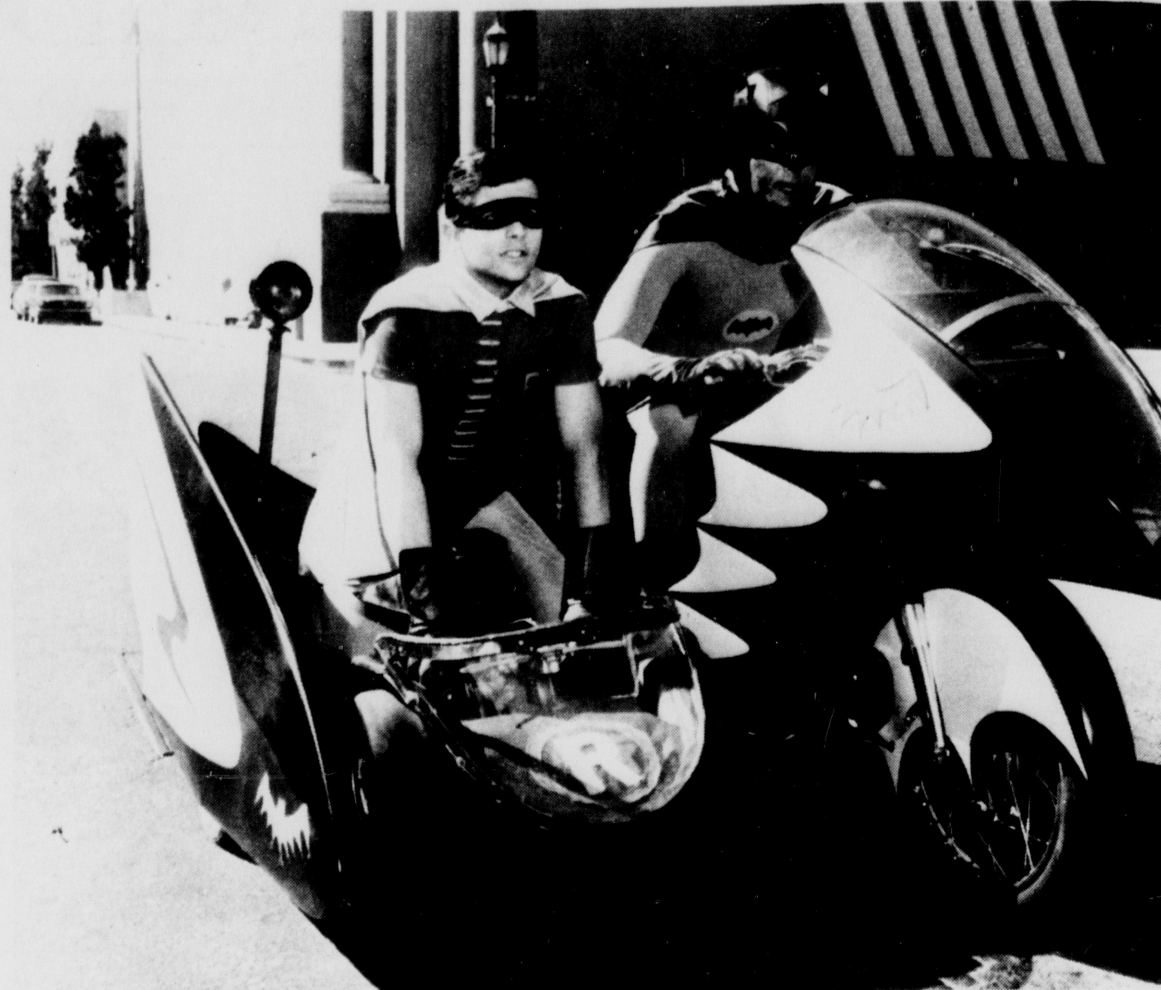

The Missouri mule, symbol of the state and its famed "show-me" stubbornness, is a rare sight on a modern Missouri farm.

Tractors have made the sturdy working mule an economic liability rather than an asset for the farmer of today.

But the Missouri State Fair mule show has not forgotten the value of the historical significance of the Missouri mule.

Nearly $4,000 in cash premiums will be awarded in 24 classes featuring the hardy animal at the 1968 Mule Show.

Probably more mules may be seen together in Sedalia during Fair Week than any other place or time during the year. And there is evidence that the State Fair may be encouraging the continued existence of the mule species. The 1964 Fair recorded 54 entries in the mule show. The 1967 show had about 75 entries and as many or more are expected at this year's showing.

Famous Car Show

Cars normally seen only on TV, like Batcycle pictured above, or the covers of car magazines will be a feature of the National Custom Car Show at the Missouri State Fair. The 'Fire Truck,' cover car for July issue of 'Car Craft' magazine; Tommy Ivo's national champion dragster, clocked at 239 miles per hour in a quarter mile; the Silhouette, bubbletop futuristic roadster made famous by Lloyd Bridges in 'Wonderful World of Wheels;' and Pulsator, a Bonneville lakester clocked at 322 miles per hour, will be among the amazing vehicles on display.

Varied Exhibits for the Fair

Practically all available commercial exhibit space for the 1968 Missouri State Fair has been leased "to the most unusual and varied exhibitors the fair has ever had," Superintendent of Concessions Charles Thompson reports.

Not only is fair concession revenue well over last year's figure but fair visitors will be able to see everything from traditional vaudeville to a 38-foot frozen whale to sea lions and alligators to a Zeppelin," Thompson said.

The internationally famous Schaffner Players created by Toby and Susie of 1920's vaudeville fame will reawaken vaudeville and the folk theater at the 1968 Missouri State Fair. James and Juanita Davis maintain the charm of old vaudeville with stars like Ann B. Davis, Bert Dexter and Leo Casca.

Jerry Malone Productions will exhibit a 20-ton, 38-foot whale quick-frozen in liquid nitrogen. The whale, nicknamed "Little Irvy," was caught July 2, 1967, off San Francisco and immediately frozen for display.

In the past the Missouri State Fair has offered helicopter and airplane rides. This year fair visitors can get a 'balloon's-eye view' of the Fair grounds also.

The balloons, brought to the Fair by Robert Hanson of Downey, California, are filled with 30,000 cubic feet of hot air and can lift up to four people over tree-top level. The Marine Wonderland exhibit sponsored by Universal Animal Attractions will bring live sea fish and marine animals to the otherwise land-locked fair. Trained dolphins, sea lions and harbor lions, penguins and alligators make up the Marine Wonderland cast.

In addition to these usual exhibits the 1968 Missouri State Fair will have the largest farm implement display ever, Thompson said. Seventy-five implement companies purchased the 170 sections of implement display space early in March. In past years the same amount of space usually hadn't been sold until the end of June.

Young and VanDyke Scheduled

Faron Young and Leroy VanDyke will star in a free admission Grand Ole Opry Spectacular at the State Fair on Aug. 25.

VanDyke and Young, top country and Western artists, will appear on the State Fair stage with the Country Deputies, the Auctioneers, George Morgan and Linda Flanagan. Other Grand Ole Opry stars that will accompany Young and VanDyke to Sedalia include Billy Thompson and the Melody Ramblers, the Stoneman Family, Kathy Perry and comedian Bun Wilson.

Leroy VanDyke, a native Missourian, was a newspaper reporter who wanted to be an auctioneer and wound up becoming one of America's top country music entertainers. Beginning his rise to stardom with talent contest wins, VanDyke quickly stair-stepped to the Arthur Godfrey TV show Red Foley's Jubilee USA. Now VanDyke is recognized internationally as a "new breed" of star in country music.

Faron Young recalls that cattle were his first audience as a youngster. But shortly thereafter, while still in his teens, he had his first hit and was signed to an exclusive recording contract. Now Young's credits include radio and TV personality, recording artist, song writer, music publishing company owner, movie actor, newspaper owner and publisher and syndicated radio show owner.

VanDyke is famous for hits like "The Auctioneer," "Walk on By," and "Louisville."

Young's top selling records include "Hello Walls," "If You Ain't Loving, You Ain't Living," and "Riverboat."

The Grand Ole Opry Spectacular starring Young VanDyke will be staged in front of the State Fair's new 8,000 seat grandstand — all 8,000 seats free — Aug. 25 at 8 p.m. The other free admission Grand Ole Opry Spectacular at the State Fair will star Marty Robbins and Hank Thompson the first Sunday of the fair, Aug. 18.

In 1901 — when the Missouri State Fair gates opened for the first time — over 25,000 people paid 50 cents to see agricultural and commercial displays and fair entertainment.

Country Stars

Free admission Grand Ole Opry Spectacular at the State Fair will star Faron Young, left, Leroy VanDyke, right, and other country music stars on Aug. 25. The Grand Ole Opry will be staged at 8 p.m. in front of the fair's new 8,000-seat covered grandstand. All seats are free.

Several Rabbit Types At State Fair Event

Everybody has seen an ordinary cottontail rabbit. But how many have seen an American Checkered Giant, a Silver Fox, Flemish or Red New Zealand?

These are just a few of the varieties of rabbits that will be shown at the 1968 State Fair.

The Missouri State Rabbit Association will distribute free pamphlets explaining various breeds of rabbits at the show and a member will be available in the show room to offer information to fair visitors. Ed Lawson of Frankford, Mo., is president of the association.

The State Fair show will be governed by and run under the latest official show rules of the American Rabbit Breeders Association, Inc., of which the fair is a member.

In addition to $594 cash premiums, several special awards will be given. The Californian Rabbit Specialty Club offers three double streamer rosettes to stimulate the exhibition and improvement of the Californian rabbit. The American Checked Giant Rabbit Club offers several ribbons because the fair show is an official American Checkered Giant sweepstakes show.

The 1968 State Fair rabbit show is dedicated to Clarence N. Farley of Sedalia. Farley was instrumental in rabbits being accepted as an official division of the fair.

MFA Focus On Foreign Market

The Midcontinent and Missouri Farmers associations are cooperating with the Foreign Agriculture Service in an exhibit at the State Fair this year.

A section of the 80-foot long exhibit located in the air conditioned Agriculture Building was used in the United States exhibit at the Food Fair in Tokyo, Japan.

"One acre out of four is producing agricultural products for export markets," Fred V. Heinkel president of the MFA, explained.

Cash Awards to Artists Boosted at State Fair

Most Missourians are familiar with the internationally recognized work of Missouri's own artist Thomas Hart Benton. But many other talented contemporary Missouri artists are relatively unknown.

To better recognize the ability of the Missouri artist and develop appreciation of his work, the Missouri State Fair Fine Arts Department has increased cash awards for exhibiting artists, expanded and remodeled facilities and arranged two special exhibitions for fair visitors.

Cash awards for Missouri artists exhibiting at the fair have increased dramatically to $2,850 from less than $600 offered last year. Also, for the first year the fine arts department has established a $1,000 purchase prize.

Edwin G. Garner, professional potter and vice president of the Missouri Craftsmen's Council, will conduct a special lecture demonstration of the potter's craft Aug. 18, in the Fine Arts Building. Garner will be assisted in explaining and showing Missourians the art of the potter's wheel by his wife Sue, who is also a professional potter and shares studios in Springfield with her husband.

The Missouri Council on the Arts in conjunction with the Sedalia Council on the Arts will present a special children's art exhibit from Nagano, Japan, Missouri's sister state in Japan. The Japanese children's work will be displayed throughout fair week.

Fine arts entries at the 1968 State Fair have increased to about 700 from last year's total of 460. To accommodate the greater number of entries, the entire second floor of the Fine Arts Building will be used as gallery space.

James E. Seidelman, director of education of the junior gallery and creative arts center at the Nelson Gallery-Atkins Museum in Kansas City, will judge State Fair fine arts entries.

Mrs. Dorothy Hopkins, Sedalia, is superintendent of the fine arts department. Mrs. Barbara Cooney and Mrs. James P. Lamy, both of Sedalia, are assistant superintendents.

Cars to Compete

Sprint car action like the above will be featured at the Missouri State Fair as just one attraction in a thrill-filled series of racing and trick driving events. Big car auto races will open the series at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 17.

Motorcycle Race Now Recognized

For the first time the Aug. 25 State Fair motorcycle race will be one of 22 national championship races that determine national point standings for the American Motorcycle Association.

The promise of garnering national points toward the national point championship as well as the $7,000 State Fair purse is expected to draw more than 100 top motorcycle racers from all over the U.S., Don Scanlan, promoter of the event, reports.

"The Missouri State Fair track is one of the fastest in the country," Scanlan said. "Last year our racers would slide into the turns at 125 m.p.h. or better."

Under American Motorcycle Association rules it is illegal for racers to have brake shoes or any type of brakes on their machines. "This is where skill becomes quite important on the Sedalia track," Scanlan commented.

Tickets for the race are now on sale. Time trials begin at 2:30 p.m. and the heats start at 3:30 p.m. Aug. 25.

Blind Get in Touch With Mother Nature

By NOEL GROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A lively 18-year-old girl named Jeanette felt a cattail's tassel at the edge of a small marsh.

"Hey, wow!" she said, running her fingers along its cottony plumpness and down the stem to the knifelike leaves. "Hey, groovy!"

A boy named Percy ran across a meadow, his hands spread out in front of him like sensitive antennae. "That's it, Percy, there's the rope," someone called, and he pulled up short like a quarter horse.

Their faces exploded in big grins as by sound, smell and touch they looked at the world of the woods. Both Jeanette and Percy were blind.

The "Touch and See Nature Trail," a quiet, shaded path that winds through a variety of trees and shrubs and loops around an open meadow past a small pond, opened recently at the National Arboretum in Washington. A guide rope leads the sightless along the path, and at particular points of interest their hands encounter markers with explanations written in Braille.

"The ground under your feet feels soft . . . because it is carpeted by . . . fallen leaves that have . . . decomposed into brown organic matter," murmured Jeanette Gerrard of Takoma Park, Md., as her fingers glided over the raised dots.

"These decayed leaves enrich the soil . . . with nutrients needed by growing trees."

And later: "Here is a colony of blueberries . . . ground cover plants that protect the forest floor. You will have to get down on your knees to inspect them."

Jeanette Gerrard
"Wow! Groovy! Cool!"

The trail is about a third of a mile long. The staff of the Arboretum, which is administered by the Agricultural Department, planned, mapped out and prepared the trail.

with assistance from the Columbia Lighthouse for the Blind.

Away from the sound of traffic and other city noise, the walk is a sensual panorama for those who must rely on senses other than the eyes.

"It's like a Christmas tree," said Willie Mincey of Washington, as he touched the needles of a white pine.

"Hey, hear that bird up there?" said another. "Hear him?"

For Jeanette Gerrard, the biggest treat was a giant 80-year-old white oak. "Wow, cool man," shrieked the hip youngster, as she tried to stretch her arms around its wide girth. Unable to completely embrace it, she felt her way around, counting as she measured off a foot at a time with her hands. . . . 12, 13, 14 . . . Wow!

She liked the feel of young saplings, amazed that these too were trees and yet she could circle their trunk in one fist. But she squirmed at the touch of a decayed stump, despite the marker explaining that as a harbor for insects that likewise fed birds, it was an integral part of nature's balance.

"Oo, yech!" she said. "I don't like the dead ones, just the beautiful live ones for me. I'm for the world of the living."

For some, the open meadow is a treat. There a gravel walk replaces the guide rope, so the blind can walk unattached and yet not lose their way. For Percy Johnson, who left the path for the soft grass with the help of sighted friends, it was a chance to run free over open ground, the sun warm on his neck, the smell of a damp marsh drifting toward him, the sound of a young frog still in tenor voice bleating from the pond.

Jeanette Gerrard has been blind all except the first few hours of her life. This fall she will attend a Virginia music conservatory to prepare for a career as a voice teacher.

She had been led through wooded areas before, she said, but never with the same sense of freedom and personal discovery as this.

As she walked the trail, her hand following the guide rope bumped into another of the markers. Reach over the rope, it instructed, and she would find mountain laurel.

Her fingers went out, encountered the leaves, slid over them delicately, rubbed them between thumb and finger. "Hey, they're shiny!"

The fingers went on, explored their shape, traced the stem, examined the bark, returned to the leaves.

"Pretty," she said.

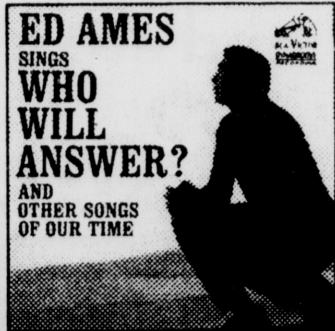

Then she straightened up, groped briefly for the rope, and continued down the path.

The 1912 Missouri State Fair premium catalog stated that "The Fair is a state institution and is managed along educational lines. . . . More can be learned at the State Fair in a week than anywhere else on earth at the same expense."

Nixon's Barb Answered By Attorney General

By MALCOLM BARR
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark has responded to Richard M. Nixon's threat to fire him if elected president by challenging Nixon to say what he means by the phrase "law and order."

In his speech accepting the Republican nomination last week, Nixon said "if we are going to restore order and respect for law in this country, there is one place to begin. We are going to have to have a new attorney general."

"The question is," Clark responded in a news conference Wednesday, "What do we do to bring about order under the law?"

"I think for the people to just repeat the phrase 'law and order' is not to educate anyone on the issues or on what needs to be done," Clark added.

He said it was important for Nixon to make his stance known on these issues, rather than saying "whom he is against."

Within hours after Clark's comments, the Nixon camp fired back from its campaign strategy base in California.

Robert Ellsworth, Nixon's national political director, said Clark's "record of performance in office marks him down as a reluctant warrior in the battle against crime."

Clark, meeting with newsmen in his oak paneled, red carpeted outer office, answered a wide variety of questions ranging from the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice of the United States—he defended it—to police pay—he thinks it should be increased.

But Clark dwelt on the acceptance speech by Nixon, publicly answering it for the first time.

Nixon, Clark said, attacked "personalities rather than principles."

The attorney general set forth some of his own principles and wondered aloud where Nixon stood on them.

He checked off his support of gun control legislation, including registration and licensing; stressed the need for a "professionalization" within police forces; voiced concern for mental health and alcoholism problems; remarked on the need for increased attention to juvenile delinquency; and urged a major boost in spending in the areas of prisons, probation and parole.

"I was interested in his (Nixon's) remarks about organized crime. It would seem that the Republicans are trying to make this their thing," Clark said.

He accused the most recent Republican administration during its eight years in power of "doing nothing" about organized crime.

In 1960, he said, 17 federal indictments were returned under GOP rule, while in 1967 he said there were 668 indictments, including 55 against members of the so-called Cosa Nostra.

Clark also said elaborate plans are being made to head off potential violence outside the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Clark emphasized, however, he did not expect any disorders.

Nor, he said, would the Convention be held "in an atmosphere of an armed camp" when it opens Aug. 26.

But should violence break out, he said, law enforcement agencies, including the Secret Service, would be ready for it.

Liberal Attitudes Reflected

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Recent Czechoslovak movies seen in the United States reflect the liberalization of the Prague Communist regime which has angered the Soviet Union and much of its European bloc.

The films, increasingly popular here, have contained a high degree of innovation and have tended to stress irony and humor in their handling of contemporary problems of everyday life.

They frequently have poked fun at the Communist party line and have played more on the frustrations brought about by Red policy rather than on its "accomplishments."

This is a far cry from the "socialist realism"—the idealization of life in Communist lands—which is the official dogma of the Kremlin.

Prime example of the "new" type of Czech film was "Closely Watched Trains," which won an Academy Award as best foreign language film last year. The tragicomedy tells a story of a young boy's sexual coming of age and takes place at a small railroad station during World War II.

Earlier this year, the magazine Soviet Culture, organ of the Soviet Ministry of Culture, singled out "Closely Watched Trains" as an example of a "negative" approach to communism. It called the movie a "re-treat from the traditions of realism" and said it "ignored the people's values."

The film was written and directed by 31-year-old Jiri Menzel, who also plays a role in the movie.

The year before, American audiences took to "The Shop on Main Street," which became the first East European film to win an Oscar. It is about the friendship between an old Jewish woman shopkeeper and an "Aryan" Czech assigned to take over her business during the Nazi occupation.

It has grossed more than $3 million in the U.S. market—adding a realistic reason to the political one that has kept the Czech government from any movie pre-censorship.

It was codirected by Jan Kadar and Elmar Klos, two highly respected filmmakers in the state-run industry.

In an Associated Press interview after accepting the Oscar for that film, Klos was asked what was behind the burgeoning Czech film industry of the past few years.

"It is because of the new cultural atmosphere that began about four years ago," he said then. "Since that time, 20 new, talented directors have graduated from the (film) academy and they are doing exciting things."

Kadar added: "Our country always has been superior in cartoons and puppet films. The freedoms we have enjoyed in the past few years has allowed us to catch up in other kinds of films. We have no supervision in the making of movies. There may be controversy after the film is made, but we have the freedom to make it."

Beats the Odds

Record-breaking and the unusual are commonplace at the Missouri State Fair. Last year a Holstein cow named Ollie defied odds of about 300 to one when she gave birth to twin heifers.

Ollie's owner, ten-year-old 4-H'er Richard Reaves King of Butler, Mo., modestly dismissed the phenomenon saying, "Ollie is a good old cow."

'Kicksville' Action Has Youth Appeal

Teens go where the action is and Aug. 17-25 it's at Kicksville at the Missouri State Fair.

Kicksville is a teen entertainment center featuring nightly dances with regional bands and daytime activities including fashion shows by Lockett's of Sedalia and karate demonstrations by the Shobu Academies of Judo & Karate, Inc.

This year, the administration of Kicksville was turned over to a Teen Council composed of Central Missouri youth. The council selected bands and chose exhibits of interest to Missouri teenagers.

In 1967, Kicksville, in its first year boasted an attendance of more than 700 teenagers each night.

Kicksville's 1968 schedule is as follows:

Aug. 16 — Plato and the Philosophers (from Moberly); Boonville Night, Terry Wolfe (in charge).

Aug. 17 — Chessmen (from Kansas City); Warrensburg Night, Jim Bonduant; during afternoon four amateur Missouri bands compete in battle of the bands; fashion show for teenage girls in afternoon by Lockett's of Sedalia; three afternoon karate shows by Shobu Academies.

Aug. 18 — Lavender Hill Mob (from Springfield); Columbia Night, Don Dalton; four amateur Missouri bands compete in battle of bands; fashion show for teenage girls (afternoon); three afternoon karate shows.

Aug. 19 — Wild Things (from Marshall); Sedalia Night, Thomas Lee Brown.

Aug. 20 — Winner, battle of bands; Tipton Night, Miss Ginnie Drake.

Aug. 21 — Kyks (from Marshall); Marshall Night,

David C. Rimmer and Miss Sarah Lile.

Aug. 22 — Broadway Clique (from Warrensburg); Clinton Night, Miss Sandy Wheeler.

Aug. 23 — Burlington Express (from Wichita, Kan.); Moberly Night, Bill Douglas.

Aug. 24 — Kyks (from Marshall); Chillicothe Night, Scott Hall.

The Skydiver ride will be a feature of the William T. Collins Shows on the State Fair Midway. Collins boasts of the "World's largest motorized midway," and has 40 attractions in his company.

Big Whale Frozen In Ice For Exhibit

The State Fair has a "whale of an exhibit" for its 1968 visitors. It's a real, 20-ton 38-foot sperm whale from the Pacific Ocean. Fair visitors can see in detail — even to its 42 ivory teeth — because it's frozen solid in liquid nitrogen.

The whale, named Little Irvy, was caught off the coast of San Francisco on July 2, 1967. A 35-ton crane, two fork lifts and a dozen men loaded the whale on a special truck and took it to a freezing station. Five days and 80,000 pounds of liquid nitrogen later, Little Irvy was frozen solid to zero degrees.

Why? Because Jerry Malone, 36, of Visalia, Calif., had talked to a man who owned a small aquarium and planned to freeze a shark in a block of ice. And this gave Jerry the idea to freeze a whale.

But first Malone had to get special approval from the U.S. government to catch the whale. Then he had to have a special trailer built — at a cost of $80,000 — to transport and house the whale. The he had to wait two months before a sperm whale the right size could be caught.

Since Little Irvy's successful capture and freezing, he has been on display all over the country. Visitors at the Missouri State Fair can see Little Irvy exactly as he came from the Pacific with a harpoon mark in his side, mouthful of ivory teeth and his assortment of scars. It should be a whale of a show.

Up, Over and Down

This is called a "T-Bone crash!" The stunt man drives the car at breakneck speed over the ramp, crashing into the side of a parked car — just like an intersection crash with a seat belt and helmet as his only protection. Stunts like this will be on tap Friday evening, Aug. 16, at the Missouri State Fair's Eldon Daniel's Auto Thrill Champions show. The Daniel's Show will kick off Fair Week, which runs through Aug. 25.

Hot Competition in Barbecue

Back yard chefs will get a chance to demonstrate their culinary skills publicly for prize money and trophies at the State Fair's chicken barbecue contest Aug. 22.

Any amateur Missouri barbecuer, 14 years old or older, is eligible to compete for the $100 first place prize and trophy.

Second place winner will receive $50 and a trophy. Third and fourth place winners will be awarded $30 and $20 respectively and trophies. Fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth place winners will all receive trophies.

Chickens will be furnished to competitors. But grills, fuel and any special sauce or seasoning must be provided by each competing chef.

The chicken barbecue contest, sponsored jointly by the Missouri State Fair and the University of Missouri Extension Division, is one of over 35 free attractions at the 1968 State Fair. Glenn Geiber and Walter Russell, both from the University of Missouri, are respectively, superintendent and assistant superintendent of the event.

Last year's winner — William T. Bodine of Sedalia — counseled that "distance from the charcoal is important. The poultry should be at a distance from the coals where you can hold your hand for three seconds or the length of time it takes to say '1-Mississippi, 2-Mississippi, 3-Mississippi'."

Recipe for 1967 Barbecue Contest Winner Bodine's sauces:

½ lb. melted butter
½ cup corn oil
2 tablespoons paprika
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 pinch of garlic powder juice of one lemon
Finishing sauce:
1 pint of prepared spicy barbecue sauce
¼ diced small onion
1 tablespoon chili powder
½ cup brown sugar
"A bit of water for viscosity"

Bodine basted the first sauce on the chicken quarters for one hour and then finished with the second sauce for 45 minutes or until done.

Nomination of Nixon Seen as Fortas Blow

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican bloc in the Senate thinks Richard M. Nixon's selection to head the GOP ticket struck a severe blow to President Johnson's Supreme Court nominations.

Basis for this is the belief that Nixon's selection blunted support of the nominations by Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen and other leading GOP senators.

Nixon has declared his opposition to letting Johnson make the nominations.

One member of the opposition bloc said in a series of telephone interviews Wednesday that Republican support "can be expected to go underground" when Congress reconvenes next month.

"Would Everett Dirksen be willing to lead the fight against his own party's nominee?" said another source.

Dirksen was outspoken in his support last month of Johnson's nominations of Abe Fortas as chief justice and Homer Thornberry to become an associate justice.

During one session of the Senate Judiciary Committee he criticized the term "lame duck" being applied to Johnson as "entirely improper and offensive."

And he strongly took to task Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan who heads the opposition forces.

But a Dirksen aide said Wednesday that the Republican leader does not plan to actively pursue support of Fortas and Thornberry.

"I'm sure he will not force the issue," said the aide, adding, however, that he did not regard this as a change in Dirksen's position.

One question mark among Republicans backing the nominations is how Kentucky's Thurston B. Morton will vote now.

Morton was one of the original signers of a petition circulated by Griffin which declared Johnson was a "lame duck" president and had no right as such to make the nominations.

Morton later withdrew his name and declared he was for the nominations. Now he has announced he will join the Nixon campaign actively after Labor Day.

He could not be reached for comment.

Congress is to go back in session Sept. 4. With Griffin's forces indicating they are ready to filibuster confirmation of the nominations, it could be a long session.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield has said he'll keep the Senate in session all year, if necessary, until the nominations are confirmed.

Balloon Rides For Visitors

A balloon airship — like the one originally designed around 1900 by Count von Zeppelin — will give 1968 Missouri State Fair visitors a balloon's-eye-view of the fair's 336-acre grounds. The balloon, brought to the fair by Robert Hanson of Downey, Calif., is 60 feet tall, 40 feet in diameter and contains 30,000 cubic feet of hot air. It will carry up to four passengers in its gondola and rise to over tree-top level. Rates for balloon rides will be based on the weight of the passengers.

In 1907 — 61 years ago — the Missouri State Fair premium catalog advertised its own dirigible airship: "The Board of Directors has engaged the best airship in the U.S., which under charge of one of the most successful and intrepid aeronauts will make ascensions each day when weather conditions permit. This airship is manageable at any time when velocity of the wind does not exceed 12 miles per hour and will be circled and driven in any direction. This daring and sensational feature will afford the best opportunity ever offered State Fair visitors to witness the operations of the most perfect of all machines yet manufactured for navigating the air."

A Defense Of Record By Agnew

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew, Maryland's governor and the Republican vice presidential nominee, says that "any kind of racism must be repudiated. My record speaks for itself. I am not a racist. I have never been a racist. I have done more for the Negro than anyone who has ever held this office."

Charges of racial prejudice were hurled at Agnew by 18 Negro leaders in Baltimore. They are forming the Ad Hoc Committee for Good Government to oppose the Nixon-Agnew ticket nationwide.

Agnew, who has been traveling with GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon and campaigning on the West Coast since his nomination at Miami Beach, made the committee one of the first topics at the news conference that followed his arrival at Friendship International Airport.

"These people are actually endorsing violence. I feel very comfortable about being criticized by them," Agnew said.

"I very clearly repudiated white racism and I have called on the Negroes to repudiate black racism," he said.

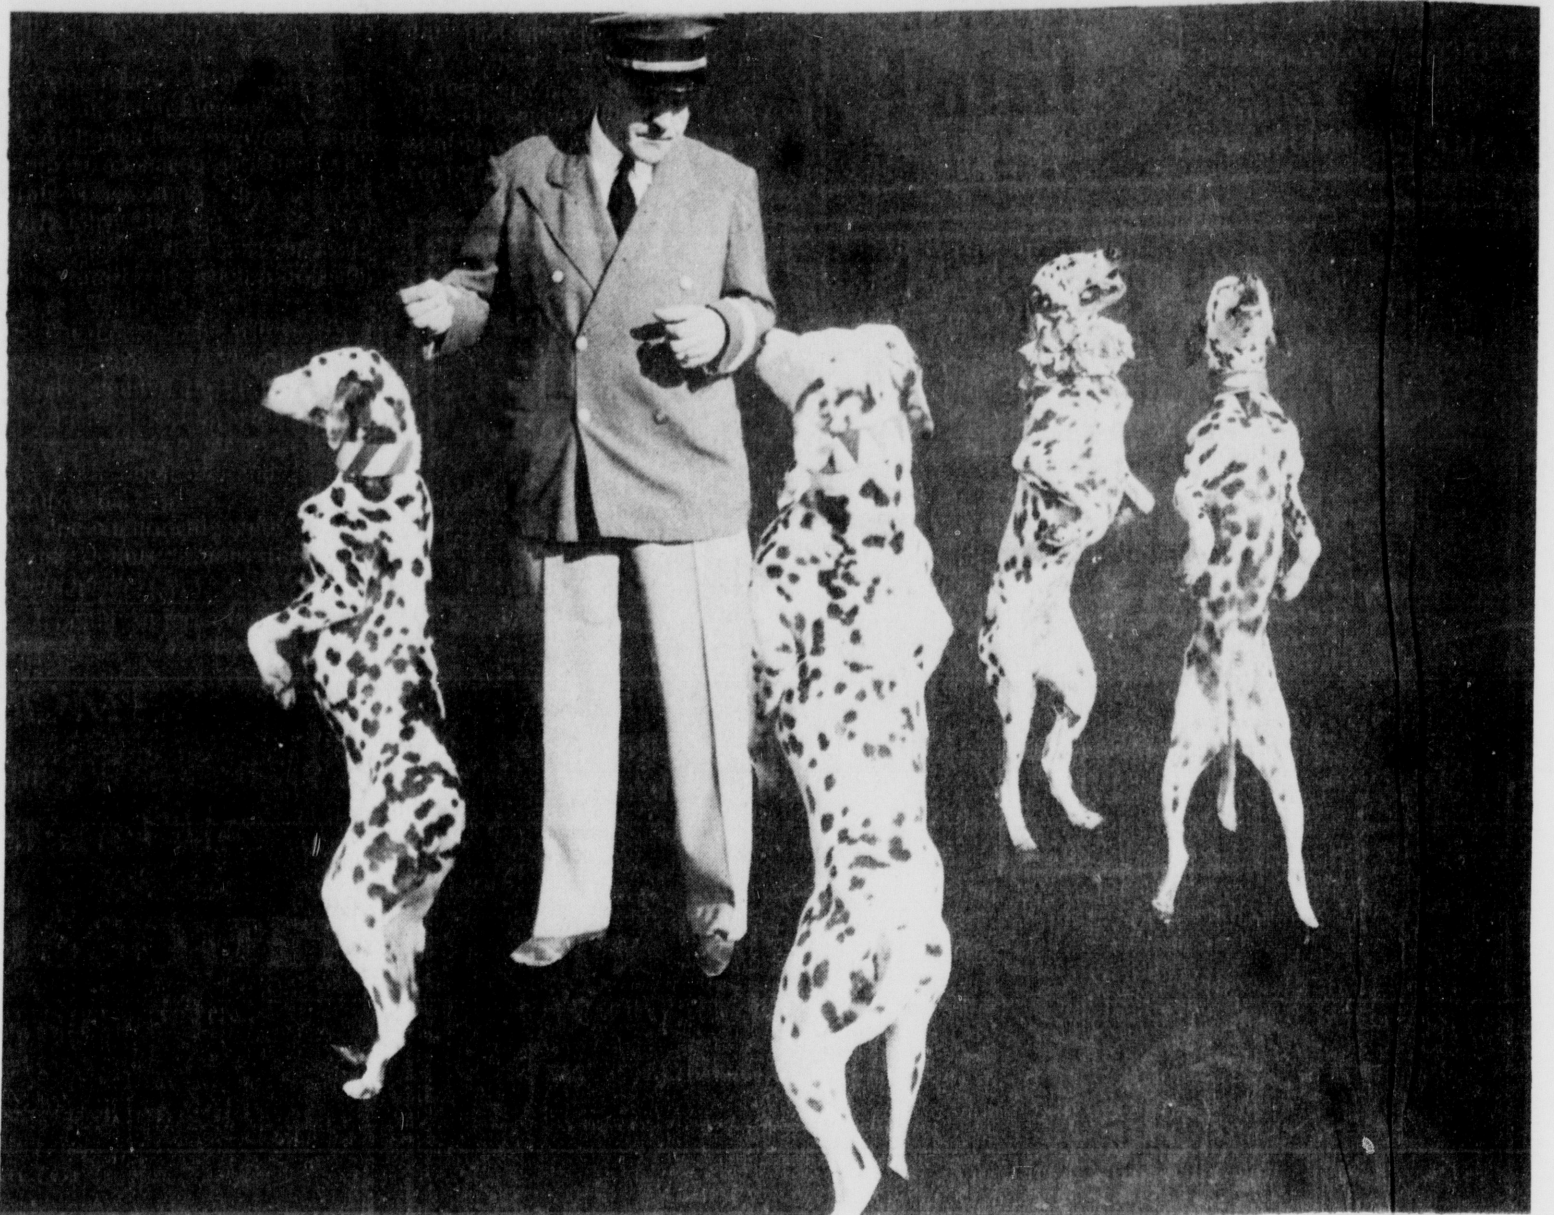

The governor said the Republican campaign would have a "back-to-moderation" theme "based on a desire of the American people for a return to the traditional principles of this country."

"The accent should not be on tearing America down, but on building up what's right about America," Agnew said.

Agnew denied that he was chosen as Nixon's running mate solely to campaign for the Republican ticket in the South. He said he was leaving Maryland again Friday to meet with Nixon and campaign in California, Michigan, Ohio and New York.

again be featured at the Fairgrounds. A large increase in most categories is reflected in "Showcase '68."

Midwest's Flour Mills Studied By a KC Firm

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Flour mills in the midwest are encouraged in a study by Midwest Research Institute to arrange new transportation facilities.

The recommendation was part of a study originally launched in 1964 on a multi-state level stemming from complaints that rail freight rate structures caused much of the decline of the milling industry in the midwest.

Maj. Gen. John P. Doyle, chairman of the Mid-America Governors' Transportation Committee, said the M.R.I. study "brings into focus many things that we thought we knew, but couldn't quite document."

Doyle is professor of transportation at Texas A and M College. His committee met in Kansas City Tuesday and Wednesday to hear several reports including the M.R.I. study.

The M.R.I. study said that if mills, singly or cooperatively could arrange new transportation to compete with the rail freight structure, they could force rates on flour into line with those for wheat.

The lower rates on wheat shipments, industry representatives have charged, gave mills in the east and southeast a competitive advantage over mills in the midwest.

Although the governors' committee appeared satisfied with the M.R.I. study, they did not officially endorse it as each member must report back to his state before such a decision is reached.

The committee also heard a report from Dr. Edmund A. Nightingale of the University of Minnesota dealing with the rail rate structure on grain products in both domestic and foreign shipments.

The Nightingale study, Doyle said, details options the shippers have.

Ronald Anderson of the Minnesota Public Service Commission was named by Doyle to head a subcommittee to work with millers and producers in an effort to reach solutions for mills in the midwest.

Upstart Travel Guide Makes Hit in Europe

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS—(NEA)—Every year hotel and restaurant owners are on tenterhooks when the travel guides come off the presses.

In the last decade, against the one and only venerable Michelin Guide, which has reigned supreme since 1900, a young upstart which called itself the Kleber-Colombes Guide has waged a minor cold war.

Its moving spirit is a dynamic Frenchman in his early 40s, Jean Didier. Didier started his business life in the publishing business. His first associate was Simon Arbellot, a newspaperman who also happened to be the president of the Academy of Gastronomes.

In 1954 they both decided that a more modern guide than the hoary Michelin was needed. As they went along, they added to their own guide book all manner of extraneous information but followed the practice of rating hotels and restaurants with a distinctive mark. To differentiate their listings from their competitors', the Kleber-Colombes guide used a new set of symbols other than the one-two-three-four stars of the Michelin.

Kleber's signature tune is the Gallic rooster and weather vane which adorn every church steeple in French villages. Hotels are indicated by keys—two crossed red keys surmounted by a coronet for a de luxe establishment, down to the single black key for a modest hotel. A red leaf indicates hotels for tired clients and a green one is a guarantee of perfect quiet.

As for restaurants, the scarlet rooster surmounted by the same coronet marks the superexcellent establishment and, down the line, the familiar, traditional housewife's "marmite" denotes the place can offer a few good dishes.

So popular has the Kleber-Colombes guide grown that the 1968 edition of 100,000 was sold out the first two weeks after publication. Still, despite the competition, Michelin stars carry a great deal of authority and hoteliers and restaurant owners are very unhappy when they drop a star in the listing.

Ever since the birth of the Michelin guidebook a couple of score of inspectors travel the length and breadth of France checking up (snooping, some call it) on hotels and restaurants to see whether they live up to their listing. These inspectors arrive unannounced, pay their bills like any other customer and only after they do they disclose their identities. Woe upon the proprietors whose kitchens or rooms are not up to scratch. Bad service, grubby uniforms and insufficient conveniences all get black marks.

Didier explained that the Kleber-Colombes guide operates differently.

"First of all, we have no inspectors as such. We base our listing on the appreciation of a great number of 'associates' everywhere in France. Some operate in small towns, others in different sections of a large city. We believe that they have the reactions of a 'client' and do not risk acquiring a 'tired' or 'satiated' palate.

Jean Didier, publisher of the guidebook Kleber-Colombes, talks with Raymond Oliver, owner of the de luxe restaurant, "Le Grand Vefour," and well-known television personality.

"We also receive a vast number of letters from readers who will point out an unknown establishment or underline anything out of line in our listing. Our files are extensive and the documentation very thorough because we aim to cater to all social classes."

There are 5,000 hotels and restaurants listed in their guidebook. "And," said Didier, "we do not always see eye-to-eye with the Michelin. As a matter of fact, it has sometimes happened that they have followed us a year or two later so far as little-known places are concerned."

Another innovation of which they are proud is that all of the 20 French departments of the book are represented by easy-to-read road maps, along with indications of hotels and restaurants on the way. A special slim brochure deals with 500 Paris hotels and restaurants, along with prices of rooms and meals. This, said Didier, represents the best selection of all.

A special chapter is devoted to "unlistable" places, such as the relatively new Drug Stores on the Right and Left Banks, discotheques, snack bars, bistros and caves which are "in" with the international jet set but not necessarily reputed for their cuisine. Also indicated are a few taxi-drivers' pull-ups where the wine is known to be unadulterated and the fare humble but good.

Finally, something which definitely is not in the Michelin guidebook is a list of hotels and restaurants in the Common Market capitals, with the British Isles included.

While the Guide Michelin is still a best seller, it is well known that "gastronomads" (traveling gastronomes), as well as Parisians, consider the Kleber-Colombes Guidebook a "must." Incidentally, neither of the publications carry any publicity.

The rather cumbersome name of Kleber-Colombes represents an enormous combine manufacturing automobile tires and plastic goods, while the Michelin tire, of course, is known the world over.

Because the name is un-euphemistic, the 1969 edition will drop the Colombes and appear simply as "Guide Kleber."

Ponder Meaning of Viet Lull

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — U.S. efforts to find out in some official way whether the lull in Communist attacks in South Vietnam is intended by North Vietnam as a peace gesture apparently have bogged down.

American officials at the Paris peace talks say that as far as they are concerned the question is still open. But they now put major emphasis on their contention that North Vietnam is preparing for an offensive by pouring troops and military supplies into the South at a high rate. "The disposition of the North Vietnamese forces indicates that major military attacks are in preparation," U.S. spokesman William J. Jorden told a news conference Wednesday after the weekly session of the talks.

"If North Vietnam wished to convey to us some meaning (about the purpose of the lull), they could do so readily, directly or indirectly, and so far we have had no indication whatsoever."

Jorden did not say whether U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman has ever asked Ambassador Xuan Thuy or his deputies whether the lull has significance. U.S. officials say the question has not been put directly in any of the formal sessions, but they decline to say whether it has been raised in private conversation with the North Vietnamese during the coffee breaks at the meetings.

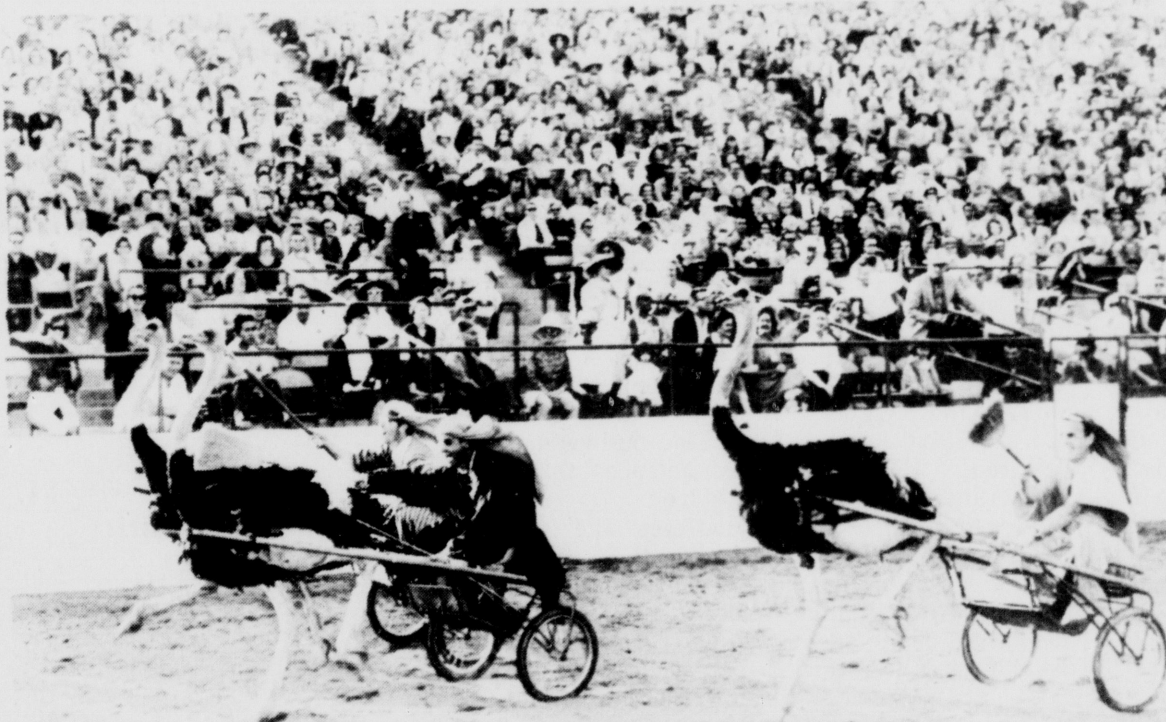

Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman, declined to be drawn into discussion of the issue. When he was asked whether it came up in the 22-minute coffee break Wednesday, he said he only had time to drink tea. To another query on the same subject he said: "The United States continues to intensify the war in Vietnam."

Le at his news conference kept hammering at the point that "we are going to keep insisting" that the United States must stop bombing and "all other acts of war" against the territory of North Vietnam before anything else can be accomplished in the Paris talks.

He seemed intent on stressing that his government's stand on the bombing issue, including its refusal to promise a parallel scale-down of military action, is absolutely firm.

The 17th session of the talks, now in their fourth month, lasted four hours Wednesday, and the statements by both Harriman and Thuy followed a hard line. Each accused the other's government of intensifying the war while talking peace. Each said the talks had made no progress because the other side was unwilling to move realistically toward peace.

Western diplomats in Paris generally believe that Hanoi's leaders may be convinced that domestic political consideration will compel Johnson to call off the bombing without any concessions from North Vietnam.

There They Go

Ostrich Racing will add variety to the Missouri State Fair racing bill. The Gene Holter Wild Animal Show includes racing ostriches, racing camels, elephants, cheetahs and many other exotic animals.

Treating Sunburn

A bad sunburn requires special treatment. If it has a coating of sand or dirt wash the area carefully with soap and warm water. Then apply sunburn ointment to keep the skin supple. When peeling starts, use a washcloth and soap to gently wash off dead skin. Follow up with ointment, and repeat this routine daily until the burn is completely healed.

Horse Show entries at the Missouri State Fair are up over 250 last year's record number. This Class A event runs all nine days of the fair, Aug. 17-25.

Premiums For Judging

Cash premiums will total $12,134 for 10 categories of swine judging at the 1968 Missouri State Fair swine show. Agriculture Commissioner Dexter Davis has announced.

Last year's State Fair swine show recorded 2,806 entries. Fair Secretary W. C. Askew says entries for the 1968 Fair have exceeded this number.

The 10 categories of swine competition including breed barrows, on-foot carcass barrows, Durocs, Polands, Yorkshires, Hampshires, Spots, Berkshires, Chester Whites and Landrace will be judged Aug. 17-21.

Superintendents and judges for the 1968 swine show are: R.K. Leavitt, Columbia, superintendent; John Waddall, Curryville, assistant superintendent; Jimmy Nutter, Wellsville, assistant superintendent; Johnny Davis, Ash Grove, assistant superintendent; Albert Kennett, Columbia, assistant superintendent; Bill Waddell, Montgomery City, assistant superintendent; Francis Callahan, Milford, Ill., judge; Allen Christian, Ames, Iowa, judge; Harvey Richardson, Elmore City, Okla., judge; Dr. Harold Hedrick, University of Missouri at Columbia, judge; Prof. Glen Grimes, University of Missouri at Columbia, judge.

MODERN ART, perhaps, but this little girl found it a source of great fun as she crawled in and out of an exhibit at a London art show.

Singing Stars

Free admission Grand Ole Opry at the Missouri State Fair will star Hank Thompson, left, and Marty Robbins, Aug. 18, in Sedalia. The Grand Ole Opry will be staged at 8 p.m. in front of the fair's new 8,000-seat grandstand. All 8,000 seats are free.

Marty Robbins and Hank Thompson will star in a free admission Grand Ole Opry Spectacular at the Missouri State Fair Aug. 18.

Thompson and Robbins — both top country and western personalities — will be backed by such Grand Ole Opry stars as LaVonne Lear, Alec Houston and the Plainsmen Quartet. Other familiar country and Western faces that will accompany Robbins and Thompson to Sedalia are the Nashville Belles, Bobby Sykes, Don Winters, Curtis Potter and the Brazos Valley Boys.

Both Robbins and Thompson have a history of unflinching success in the country and Western music field. Hank Thompson, recording with his Brazos Valley Boys, has sold more than 30 million records and has been voted America's Number One Western Dance Band repeatedly. As testimony to his popularity, Marty Robbins possesses six Golden Guitars, two Gold Records and the Triple Crown Award from Billboard.

Robbins has added new styles to country and Western music. His list of hits utilize traditional country, Sanish, gunfighter, narrative, ballad, Hawaiian, oques and gospel styles.

Thompson's band has struck more closely to traditional country and Western styles. His band is heavy on rhythm, but emphasizes strings for the ballad numbers. Some of Hank Thompson's largest selling records have been "Wake Up, Irene," "Wild Side of Life," "Blackboard of My Heart," and "Yesterday's Girl." Marty Robbins is famous for such hits as "Devil Women," "Don't Worry," "El Paso," and "A White Sport Coat."

The Grand Ole Opry Spectacular will be staged in front of the State Fair's new 8,000-seat grandstand — all 8,000 seats free.

A Boys' State Fair School was founded at the Missouri State Fair in 1913 with one boy from each county. The boys devoted half their time to duties around the grounds and the rest to receiving instruction about the exhibits.

Street Gang Leader Gets Prison Term

CHICAGO (AP) — The leader of the Blackstone Rangers street gang, Eugene Hairston, 24, has been sentenced to three concurrent terms of 5 to 15 years in prison for solicitation of murder.

Judge Louis A. Wexler imposed the sentence Wednesday in Circuit Court after hearing a South Side businessman and a clergyman appeal that Hairston remain free.

"You were the leader in a crime which to say the least was a vicious one," said Judge Wexler.

Hairston was convicted May 29 of paying six teen-agers $1 each to shoot three men sitting in a parked car Sept. 12, 1967. Leo McClure, 33, was killed and two companions were wounded.

The gang leader was acquitted of one charge of murder and two charges of attempted murder. He has been free on $20,000 bond since the trial. The Rangers were the target of a recent investigation by a Senate subcommittee. The probe gathered testimony on the disposition of nearly $1 million granted by the Office of Economic Opportunity for use in the South Side neighborhoods where the gang operates.

Before his arrest last September, Hairston was a $6,500-a-year assistant for a federally financed job training program on the South Side.

dentally, the favorite model of Jon Haggin, a Negro designer who is skilled at creating sophisticated couture with African feeling.

Roan summed up her feelings this way. "It's not so much how anyone does with her hair, or what she has on outside her. Making black beautiful is to feel it inside and to stand straight, and look the world straight in the eyes."

Nigerian Advances On Rebels

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigerian troops advanced today on the temporary Biafran capital of Aba with both prongs of a pincers movement reported making progress toward the secessionist headquarters.

A high officer said a commando column led by Col. Benjamin Adekunle had crossed the Imo River 15 miles south of Aba and occupied Akwete, a settlement on the northern bank.

The lead column of the other pincer was believed across the river at the Imo railway station, 22 miles from the city.

The drive appeared aimed at bringing the 13-month-old secession of eastern Nigeria's Ibo tribesmen to a quick military end. But the Biafran leader, Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, has pledged that his people will retreat into the bush and wage guerrilla warfare.

An estimated 6,000 troops from Nigeria's 3rd Marine Division were reported committed to the attack on Aba. The city some 40 miles inland is the largest of the three major towns still in rebel hands.

Ojukwu's secessionist army now holds only about one third of the 29,000 square miles he proclaimed independent in May 1967.

In Addis Ababa, the deadlocked peace talks switched to discussion of relief supplies to starving war refugees. There was no indication of any progress in the session Wednesday night, but various sources voiced expectation of a break soon.

Informed sources said Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie would sound out both sides on a compromise proposal for funneling in the supplies. Diallo Telli, Guinean secretary-general of the Organization of African Unity, said an agreement might be reached by the weekend.

Swiss diplomat August Lindt of the International Red Cross said the Biafrans have proposed establishment of a neutral airstrip on Biafran territory under control of the all-Swiss Red Cross committee. "I expect an answer very soon from the federal government in Lagos," said Lindt.

He said all such flights must be under Red Cross control. Other organizations would have to lend their planes to the Red Cross, he said, "but they will get full credit."

The Red Cross suspended its mercy flights last week when the Nigerians began shooting at them, but a few planes chartered by Caritas, the Roman Catholic charity organization, have continued to run the blockade, flying at night.

A Swedish pilot who said he established a new route into Biafra that avoids Nigerian anti-aircraft guns reported Wednesday that in two landings last Sunday he delivered 18 tons of relief supplies.

Electrical Repair Work Causes Closing

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — The home of Thomas A. Edison, inventor of the electric light bulb, will be closed to the public for six months for electrical repairs.

A spokesman for the National Park Service announced Thursday that the inventor's home, Glenmont, which is preserved as an historical site, will be shut down Monday until Jan. 17, 1969.

Thomas Jefferson designed Monticello, his home.

Tony Martin

Vocalist Will Sing At Show

Tony Martin, nightclub performer, recording artist, motion picture star and radio personality, will star in the Missouri State Fair's Aug. 21 free admission grandstand show.

Martin, known as "Mr. Show Business" in the entertainment world, will headline on the fair's showcase stage with Woody Herman and his orchestra, the New Christy Minstrels, Rich Gibson and Rich and Willy Necker's Dalmatians.

A headliner for over 25 years, Martin first became familiar to radio audiences as Gracie's boyfriend on the Burns and Allen Show. As a motion picture star, he appeared in over 20 pictures including "Cabash," "Show Boat," and "Here Come the Girls." Tony also has one of the biggest collections of gold records in the business including "Begin the Beguine," "I Get Ideas" and "To Each His Own."

But Martin gained his international reputation as a nightclub performer. Tony is unusually successful at reaching nightclub audiences and, as a result, holds attendance records all over the United States and Europe.

Couple Pulls Girl Scouts to Safety

HOLDERNESS, N.H. (AP) — A Pennsylvania couple pulled two Girl Scouts to safety Thursday after the youngsters became stranded on the face of Rattlesnake Mountain, state conservation officers reported.

The officers said George Corson of Windsor, Pa., lowered his wife down to grab the wrists of Connie Manville of Center Harbor and her companion, Mitzi Ruel, then lifted the youngsters to safety.

Darkness No Longer A Handicap

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Roan Nesbitt discarded her straightening comb and had her thick, kinky hair cropped closely to emphasize ethnic features.

Myrna Stephens, a shade lighter with small features and hair that refuses to frizz, has bought a woolly wig which she wears from time to time to highlight her African heritage.

both are high-paid models for Eileen Ford, one of the nation's top modeling agencies. A few years ago both girls would have been too dark to model. Today they are in demand because they are dark.

A few years ago they might have minimized their racial appearance to increase their prospects for success. Today that is not only unnecessary, but undesirable.

The black beauty has come into her own.

Carbon copies of white beauty are not enough to lure black buying power. Some Negroes scoff at the use of tea-colored, caucasian-featured, Kenneth-coiffed manikins in advertising as token gestures towards racial equality. Militants ridicule these models as "Aunt Junes" urging Negro women to reject all white-oriented styles and to appreciate that "black is beautiful."

Thus the black beauty wears her hair natural, or Afro, as the look is called, and a minimum of makeup. She may tie a buba and lapa around her body and a turban around her head and jangle with Nigerian jewelry. She carries herself tall, for her look symbolizes black identity and racial pride.

Boutiques specializing in authentic African fashions, fabrics and jewelry, or African-inspired styles which have sprung up in Negro communities during the past year are doing more business with each month. Orders for Afro-style real hair wigs designed by entertainer Leslie Ugams are coming from every part of the nation, while Reid-Meredith, makers of synthetic "Black Power" wigs, say responsible to their product is "fantastic."

Acceptance ranges in degrees from those who wear the look as a badge of convictions to others who regard it as a fad. Not every woman who has gone natural is a Black Power advocate and not every Negro who has ignored the trend is without racial loyalty. To many it is just doing your own thing.

Born in St. Thomas, Myrna who is adept at white-originated vogues, false eye lashes and eye makeup, is proud of her family's African origin. But she feels the African influence in fashion should be blended in, adapted to the Western world. She is, inci-

Police Dogs Perform

4-H Youths Big Part of Fair

4-H club members throughout Missouri are again expected to play a large part in this year's State Fair. With prize money amounting to $15,876, fair officials expect an increase in the number of 4-H exhibits from the nearly 4,000 shown at the 1967 fair.

The prize money which will be divided among the 23 classes of exhibits, is an increase of over $2,300 since last year's fair. 4-H Clubs are voluntary groups of young people 10 to 19 years of age. They develop an informal educational program under the guidance of volunteer leaders, and in cooperation with the County University Extension Centers and the University of Missouri Extension Division. There are 4-H Clubs organized in each county of Missouri with a membership of nearly 40,000.

Some of the classifications for 4-H exhibits include: electricity, woodwork, forestry, entomology, photography, foods, clothing, home management, child care, home grounds, money management, livestock, dairy, drops, and vegetables.

There will also be a sweepstakes trophy awarded by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to the county in Missouri which makes the most outstanding exhibit of livestock and dairy in the 4-H division. Quality, quantity, distance for the State Fairgrounds and attractiveness of the stalls will all be considered.

Demonstrations by boys and girls in the newly remodelled, air conditioned Electric Theater in the 4-H Building is one of the featured 4-H activities during the fair.

The demonstrations are held several times daily.

The judging program for 4-H livestock and dairy is as follows: Aug. 17 — 8 a.m., Beef Heifer Show, Coliseum; 8 a.m., Swine Show, Swine Barn; 1 p.m., Barrow Show, Swine Barn; 1 p.m., Sheep Show, Sheep Barn; 1 p.m., Baby Beef Show, Coliseum.

Aug. 19 — 8 a.m., Dairy Show, Coliseum.

Herman Will Play At Fair

Woody Herman, internationally famous for his cool clarinet and big band jazz, will appear with his orchestra in the Missouri State Fair's free admission grandstand show three nights — Aug. 20-22.

Special guest stars will appear nightly with Woody Herman and the New Christy Minstrels during the three-night Showcase of Stars '68 series. Ed Ames will star in the fair's free grandstand show Tuesday, Aug. 20. Tony Martin will be the headliner Aug. 21. King of the Trumpet Al Hirt will be the fair's special guest for the Aug. 22 free grandstand show.

Woody Herman

Woody Herman and his orchestra are a part of jazz history. They have played to capacity crowds at Carnegie Hall and all over the world.

Woody himself triples between his famous clarinet, alto sax and vocal numbers.

Ghost's Ghost Believes in Them

By DICK KLEINER

NEA Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — It is only fitting, after all, that the star of a new television series called The Ghost and Mrs. Muir believes in ghosts.

Edward Mulhare is the believer. He's playing the ghost, opposite Hope Lange's Mrs. Muir, on NBC's new entrant. And, although he's never seen a ghost, he thinks they're for real. "I believe," he says, "that there is a lot that we don't understand. Ghosts may not necessarily be human in form — perhaps it is just some kind of left-over emotion — but I do believe that there is something there."

Mulhare, the tall, handsome, supersuave Irishman, may not have ever seen a specter, but he has seen something he can't explain. It happened during World War II, when he was stationed in Northern Ireland, in a very old, spooky house.

"There had been a seance there," he says, "and for days afterwards there was something abroad in that house. There was furniture that moved around, unexplained rappings, that sort of thing. We all turned ice cold, for no earthly reason."

As for the series, Mulhare is playing his ghost benevolently — "gruffly benevolent," he says. He's excited about the series. He hadn't done a film for two years "because I'd gotten in a bad rut, playing heavies that had no dimension to them."

"This gives me a chance to be romantic for the first time in an American film," he says. "And I feel that there is a romantic side to me."

To which most girls would agree.

The Virginian has a new sidekick this year and he's a big one. David Hartman is 6 feet 5 and he's tall even out of the saddle.

The Virginian's gain is American industry's loss. Hartman, after attending Duke University and doing his time in service, was faced with a big decision. He had offers from 32 major companies — including IBM and Kaiser and people like that — or he could have gone into professional baseball — he was a slugging first baseman — or he might prefer acting.

He took two weeks to mull things over. And, he says, he came to the conclusion that he might as well do what he really wanted to do — give show business a whirl.

"One thing that influenced me," he says, "was my father's experience. He had been a Methodist minister for 14 years when he left to do what he really wanted — go into business. And he was very successful at it."

Hartman grew up in Pelham, a fashionable New York suburb. He acted and sang and danced in off-Broadway musicals, then was in "Hello, Dolly!" and "The Yearling" on Broadway. Universal signed him and brought him west last year, and he's been in several features and television shows for that studio.

He hopes The Virginian will gain him recognition, so that he can go back to doing what he loves best — musicals. But he's so determined to make good on the western that he's even taking roping lessons, and very few actors are that dedicated.

LONDON (AP) — British playwright Peter Shaffer, author of the London and

SHAFFER AS LYRICIST

Broadway hit, "Royal Hunt of the Sun," says he wants to write a musical.

Shaffer, 41, told a newsman: "I have never had any desire to write an opera. All the emphasis is on the music."

"But I like the idea of a musical with Shaffer lyrics and Burt Bacharach music."

Lucy Show to Be Family Affair

By JOAN CROSBY

NEA Entertainment Editor
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The boy is 15½, very handsome and serious. The girl is 17, pretty and a natural comedienne. They are a pair of nice kids having lunch in their mother's office and mother is just not a good enough actress to keep the maternal glow of pride out of her blue eyes.

Spend some time with them and you hear mother-children conversations such as go on all over the world. The boy sneezed. The mother rose from her chair, walked around the table and felt his forehead.

"Are you getting a cold?" she asked. He said he wasn't. "Are you telling me the truth?" she wondered. "I don't think he is, mom," the girl said. "I'm all right, really," the boy said.

Temporarily the concern was eased, but you knew that next time the boy sneezed, mother would worry again.

And that is the kind of mother Lucille Ball is, a good one, a careful one, a protective one and a very proud one. Her children, Lucie and Desi Arnaz, are joining her when she returns to CBS-TV in September in a new format, Here's Lucy.

The change was necessitated when Lucy sold Desilu Studios and its programs to Gulf and Western Industries. Rather than work for another producer, Lucille Ball Productions created Here's Lucy, retained Gale Gordon and added Lucy's own youngsters to the cast.

Lucie, who acted in high school plays and who appeared in a small role with her mother last season, and Desi, who performs with the Dino, Desi and Billy trio, were basically unknown talents.

"At first we were not sure we were doing the right thing," Lucy said. "They didn't want to discourage me or I them, so we all worried quietly. I didn't want to put any unfounded worries in their minds. I didn't have to worry. I am delighted to say they have both gotten every laugh we wrote into the script, plus about 18 or 20 others. And the audience which watches us do the show has caught their enthusiasm."

Both youngsters are being privately tutored while appearing on their mother's show, because Lucy thinks this is a good chance for them to learn about show business. "They don't need schools for social life or to see what is out there in the great world. I think it's a good idea for all kids to get a chance to try careers while they are young."

Lucie, whose natural sense of comedy and delivery is reminiscent not of her mother, but of Carol Burnett, is pretty certain she wants to remain an actress.

"I would love to win an Academy Award," she said. "An Emmy would be nice, too."

"I want to be a dramatic actor," Desi added. "At 15½, I'm getting laughs, but wait until I'm 20. I'd like a western movie, too, but everybody wants to do a western."

Lucy interrupted, "This is letter-to-Santa-Claus time."

Ask Lucie and Desi if anything surprised them about their new careers and they are pretty much in agreement. "When we just watched the show," Desi said, "we didn't know that much work went into it."

"It's the attention to detail, and the make-up and those time-consuming things I hadn't thought about," Lucie said.

For the first time in the history of Missouri, the four state Shrine Temples have joined together to hold an All-Missouri Shrine Ceremonial scheduled for next Friday at the Missouri State Fair. During this state-wide activity of the Shrine, the Imperial Potentate of the Shrine of North America, Chester A. Hogan, will make his official visit to Missouri. Imperial Potentate Hogan will also participate in the initiation of an expected 500 Novices in a class dedicated to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, a member of the Moolah Temple in St. Louis. Imperial Potentate Hogan is a member of Afifi Temple, Tacoma, Wash.

Imperial Sir Hogan was elected to the highest office in the Shrine, that of Imperial Potentate, at the last Imperial Session held in Chicago last July. The Missouri visitation is one of his first since the Chicago session. His wife, Helen, is a former Missourian from Springfield and is expected to accompany him to the Missouri Ceremonial.

The four temples participating and their Potentates are: Abou Ben Adhem Temple, Dr. F. T. H'Doubler, Jr., Springfield; Ararat Temple, Richard W. Farris, Kansas City; Moolah Temple, Charles F. Wurtzler, St. Joseph; and Moolah Temple, Walter T. Smith, Jr., St. Louis.

The temples will put on a free grandstand show on the race track starting at 1 p.m., Aug. 23. It is expected that over 1,000 men in the uniform units of the four temples will participate in the parade, which will precede the Shrine Show. The show will be climaxed by an ostrich race that will feature the four Potentates of the state. The prize money offered by the State Fair will be given to the St. Louis unit of the Shriners' Hospitals for Crippled Children.

Shrine bands will furnish the music for the show and Ceremonial.

All branches of Masonry will be represented and will be guests of the Shrine, riding in the parade and participating in other activities.

Shrine Day will be climaxed with the ceremonial at which time an anticipated class of 500 Novices will become members of the Shrine of their respective temples and become honorary members of the other three temples.

Governor Hearnes will be the honored guest of Imperial Sir Chester A. Hogan at the Ceremonial.

Another honored guest for the Shrine Day activities will be William R. Denslow, Grand Master of Masons in the State of Missouri.

Both the York Rite and Scottish Rite bodies of the state have cooperated with the four Shrine Temples by having special classes so the Shrine could anticipate this large class.

Members Of Team Back HHH

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A five-man team of "old pros," with two members already committed to a candidate and the other three ostensibly neutral, will run the Democratic National Convention that opens in Chicago a week from Monday.

The two who have taken sides are backing Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the No. 1 spot on the ticket. Two others are long-time supporters of President Johnson but haven't announced for anyone yet.

The lineup drew charges of a stacked deck from the forces of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy when it was announced by Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey.

But the McCarthy people, already digging in for tough battles over credentials and the party platform, are reluctantly accepting the convention officers.

Here is the lineup:

The two who have endorsed Humphrey are Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, who will head the platform committee, and Sen. Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii, who will keynote the convention and serve as temporary chairman.

Both Rep. Carl B. Albert of Oklahoma, the permanent chairman, and Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, who will head the credentials committee, were strong Johnson supporters but have stayed uncommitted since the President's withdrawal.

So has Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro of Illinois, who was named as chairman of the rules committee less than a month after he took over as governor following Otto E. Kerner's resignation to become a federal appeals judge.

Albert, 60, takes over as permanent chairman from House Speaker John W. McCormack, who asked to be relieved of the post he held four years ago and was named honorary chairman.

J. Joseph Trower

To Conduct Protestant Services

J. Joseph Trower, Jefferson City, will conduct Protestant services at the Missouri State Fair in Sedalia on Sunday, Aug. 18.

Mr. Trower, field director for CROP and Church World Service, will conduct services in the Grandstand at 8 a.m. Mr. Trower served pastorates in Kirksville and Memphis, Mo., before becoming field director for CROP in 1966. Prior to this appointment, he served as stated clerk of the Presbytery of Kirk and also was moderator for a year. He is now recording clerk of the Synod of Missouri.

He has traveled to 13 countries in Europe, the Middle East and Africa where he observed the efforts of Church World Service at work in aiding refugees and in self-help projects.

Mr. Trower is a member of the county Board of Directors for Red Cross, the county University of Missouri Extension Council and the county Association for Retarded Children.

In 1928 what is now known as Governor's Day at the Missouri State Fair was called Politicians Day.

Members Of FFA Compete

FFA members from all over the state will be bringing their best livestock and crop entries to the State Fair in an attempt to win some of the $15,876 in prize money being offered in the seven different categories.

In addition to the agricultural exhibits, the FFA members will again operate the Childrens Barn with a wide assortment of domestic animals. Watching chicks hatch in a glass incubator, petting the lambs and seeing cows being milked are just a few of the attractions for the younger members of the family at this colorful special attraction.

The Future Farmers of America is one of the largest organizations of boys in the country with over 12,000 members in Missouri alone. Active membership includes boys from 14 to 21 who are studying vocational agriculture in public secondary schools.

Last year FFA members exhibited 1,200 head of livestock, 68 field crop exhibits and 201 pieces of farm equipment constructed in vocational agriculture shops in public schools.

As an added service to the fair, FFA members will again serve as ushers for the grandstand events.

FFA judging will be in the following classes: beef breeding cattle, steers, dairy cattle, sheep, swine, farm mechanics and field crops.

Czech Students Show Maturity

(EDITOR'S NOTE: NEA managing editor Robert Cochran returned recently from a tour of Czechoslovakia.)

By BOB COCHNAR
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Marine guards at the U.S. Embassy in Prague were preparing for a siege. The great gates of the old stone palace near Hradcany Castle were closed and embassy personnel clustered in a room opposite the street side of the building.

And then the students came, waving Get Out of Vietnam placards, yelling anti-American slogans. It was all part of "Solidarity Day" demonstrations last spring in which young people marched on U.S. embassies throughout the world.

Somebody tossed a rock through a window and the several North Vietnamese students among the Czechoslovakians managed to pull down the American flag which hung above the entrance.

"But the Czech students didn't think this was right," an embassy attache told me. "It was one thing to demonstrate against the war, they felt, but quite another thing to deface the flag of another country."

So the next day, a small delegation of students called on the ambassador—and presented him with a new flag to replace the one destroyed by the North Vietnamese students. "It was," said the attache, "a very nice gesture."

To be one of the more than 100,000 young men and women studying at Czechoslovakia's 41 colleges and universities is to experience an onslaught of change.

And, unlike students in other nations who have demonstrated and rioted for a new society, Czechoslovakians have approached matters calmly and, in the words of a professor at Prague's Charles University, "with a great deal of political maturity."

"For example," he continued, "before the overthrow of the Novotny government, Prague University students held a torchlight parade in Wenceslaus Square. Their complaint was minimal. For three months a power failure had kept the dormitories without light and the students merely wanted to call attention to that fact."

"So the signs read, 'We Need Light to Study,' 'Give Us Light, Comrade Novotny.' Well, the government sent in troops to break up the demonstration . . . and break a few heads, too."

"What did the students do? Nothing. They waited and a month later Dubcek took power. And do you know the interior minister of the new government is still apologizing to the students?"

Now that Czechoslovakia's decision to seek "democratic socialism" has received the grudging approval of the Kremlin, students are bound to exercise their new freedom with even greater verve.

Several months ago young people began publishing a weekly paper called "Student," which is probably the most invigorating, free-swinging newspaper in Czechoslovakia. "I hear," a Student editor told me, "that Dubcek reads Student before anything else."

A recent issue included this comment by Prof. Ivan Svitak of Charles University:

"If we examine the results of the three-month-old rebirth objectively and critically, we have to conclude that, with the exception of the temporary lapse of censorship, no structural changes have taken place in the mechanism of the totalitarian dictatorship."

"In Czechoslovakia, one party still has a monopoly in political life and, at present, there exist no procedures, such as common in a democracy, to express the political will of the people."

Strong words, yes, but understandable. Says an American embassy official:

"I'm sure the new leadership doesn't expect less of the students. After all, they have not lived through the years of occupation, the years when their country was given to the Germans by the Allies, the years when Thomas Masaryk established the Czechoslovak democracy. Consequently, they aren't impressed when their elders say 'things are better now.'"

And now that students can freely read all western literature (including the international editions of Time and Newsweek), they know what's happening. "It's our country, too," a blue-jeaned, shaggy-haired humanities student said. "The old people have made a mess of things for too long. Now we are going to be heard."

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Another major change in the Roman Catholic Mass went into effect today, with priests given the option of using any of three new canons.

The canon is the central part of the Mass and contains the consecration, which the Church teaches is the transformation of bread and wine into the body and blood of Christ.

The long litany of saints has been dropped from the new canons, and the language has been modernized to go with responses from congregations in the vernacular.

One canon is about the same length as the old one, but the other two are considerably shorter.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — President Francois Duvalier has pardoned his son-in-law, Col. Max Dominique, who was sentenced to death last year after the president accused him of plotting against the Duvalier regime.

Informed sources said Wednesday Dominique now would be welcome to return from exile in Europe. Duvalier sent his daughter, Marie-Denise, and Dominique away in June 1967 after a purge in which 19 military officers, several of them friends of Dominique, were executed. The death sentence for Dominique was decreed in absentia in September.

LA CORUNA, Spain (AP) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Cabinet has decided to raise the ceiling on salaries, frozen since the Spanish peseta was devalued last November.

Information Minister Manuel Fraga Iribarne told newsmen after Oct. 1 salaries can be boosted a maximum of 5.9 per cent.

Iribarne also announced a new decree raising the minimum wage from $1.37 to $1.45 a day starting Jan. 1.

For Both Parties

INKSTER, Mich. (AP) — Julian Nowak of this Detroit suburb was elected as both a Democratic and Republican precinct delegate in Michigan's Aug. 6 primary. State election officials say there is no law prohibiting Nowak from serving as a delegate for both parties.

Dairy cattle entries at the Missouri State Fair have increased by 50 per cent for Showcase '68. All State Fair livestock divisions report greater interest for the exposition.

There will be 60 additional acres of land for parking and camping at the 1968 Missouri State Fair.

Sneak Preview

This was a typical scene around the State Fairgrounds today as workmen pieced together the thousands of pieces that make up one of the most attractive midway shows ever seen at the fair.

State Fair Opens Gates To 'Showcase' Saturday

The Missouri State Fair, "Showcase '68," is all set for the grand opening Saturday morning, at which time Missourians will see a fair that has already broken records and is expected to break more before the nine-day exposition concludes.

A preview of the fair will be held Friday evening, when several hundred members of the news media will be given a tour of the grounds and entertained by stars who have already arrived.

The newsmen will be served a buffet dinner on the lawn of Secretary of the Fair Wilbert C. Askew, who, with Commissioner of Agriculture Dexter Davis, will host the affair.

Something new has been added for Friday night before the opening, when a thrill show will be staged on the race track in front of the new half-million-dollar grandstand. The gates will be open to the public so they can get a glimpse of the grounds and also see the midway, which will be in full swing.

The opening day program includes judging of 4-H and Future Farmers of America livestock and exhibits, honey cooking, dairy products, farm crops and seeds in the Agriculture Building. A gladiolus show will be held in the Floriculture Building, and breed barrows will be shown in the Swine Building.

Many free features will be ready for the opening, more than at any previous fairs, in addition to the hundreds of exhibits in the various fair buildings.

Saturday afternoon Big Car auto racing will be held on the half-mile track in front of the new grandstand. Saturday night the Jalopy races will be run on the half-mile oval. Also opening Saturday night will be the Horse Show at the Coliseum.

Two of the most interesting exhibits are those of the Kansas City and St. Louis Police Departments, both of which have police dog demonstrations.

Secretary Askew pointed out, "It is almost unbelievable, but this year we have an increase in just about everything. Livestock entries are heavier in the open classes, beef cattle and the carcass steer class are up, there are more goats, while sheep entries are about average in the open class. The 4-H and FFA livestock entries are up over last year.

"The chicken show has a definite increase and the rabbit show is larger than in previous years.

"E. F. Strickler, superintendent of the Horse Show, reports entries in the over-all show include at least 400 more horses, this includes both the society, saddle clubs, and registered quarter horses. Harness horses in the trotting and pace races as well as running horses have entries which are 150 more than last year, making it necessary to house many horses under tents with portable stalls.

"Commissioner Davis and I are most happy over the response to the fair this year," Askew said.

Additional improvements have been made on the grounds in new buildings. The new fire station with a two-bay arrangement to house fire fighting equipment has been completed for the volunteer fire department; several new sanitary food concession stands have been built; a new (safety) lighting system on the half-mile oval for night time racing has been installed; several new rest room buildings are up; the Home Economics Department has been expanded; a Consumer Building for the Department of Agriculture has been built; new stable barns for 200 horses in the horse show department have been built, which is still short in accommodating additional entries this year, and a floating flower garden on the lake in the infield of the race track has been added.

The recently-acquired additional 60 acres for the fairgrounds has been developed, with power lines being erected, permitting trailers to be parked during the fair with electrical hook-ups and water lines. Rest rooms and showers have been installed in new buildings for men and women. A portion of the land has also been set aside for parking area. "This area," Askew said, "takes the place of the old White City which was on the fairgrounds in the early days. There is even an area where campers can pitch a tent."

Fair officials reviewing the new grandstand reported there are 12 "A" supports which contain approximately 80 tons of concrete and their bases are set in solid rock from 12 to 16 feet in the ground. The precast concrete flooring and seating area for the entire stand weighs more than 6 million pounds. There are 482 box seats and the grandstand has 36 rows of redwood bench type seats. There are 50 miles of cold drawn tensile wire in the concrete. There are tons and tons of structural steel throughout the concrete beams, and the metal hand rails placed end-to-end, would reach nine-tenths of a mile.

The grandstand from ground to the top is 60 feet high. Concrete asphalt pavement was laid this week and the amount used would pave a 24-foot roadway four inches thick for a little more than a mile.

The fairgrounds are in excellent condition for the opening and now Secretary Askew and Commissioner Davis are looking for clear skies and sunny days for the nine days starting Saturday.

California Delegates Mostly Uncommitted

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California will send more uncommitted delegates to the Democratic National Convention than any other state, despite recent vote-hunting forays by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

An Associated Press tally of the state's 174-vote delegation, second biggest at the Chicago gathering, showed Thursday only 32 firm first-ballot votes for any candidate. The other 142 are uncommitted to anyone right now.

The latest AP nationwide survey showed 96 undecided Illinois delegates as the next largest uncommitted bloc from any single state.

Strong emotional ties still are obvious among the Californians to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who beat McCarthy in the June 4 primary election only to die by an assassin's hand on June 6.

Leon Ralph, a Negro state assemblyman whose district includes part of riot-plagued Watts in Los Angeles, summed up a widespread feeling when he said: "I was prepared to vote for Kennedy on 21 ballots if we had 21 ballots." Now, he says, "I may go for McGovern or someone else reflecting Kennedy views on the first ballot, but I won't vote for either Humphrey or McCarthy."

Among those willing to state a definite first-ballot preference, McCarthy led with 18, followed by Humphrey with 9 and South Dakota Sen. George McGovern with 5.

In a June poll, right after Kennedy's assassination, McCarthy had 13 firm delegates and Humphrey six.

Secretary Clifford Makes Statement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford made plain Thursday that the key to a full bombing halt over North Vietnam is some guarantee of safety for Americans stationed near enemy territory.

Clifford also told a news conference the administration still awaits a "clear signal" from Hanoi that the current lull in fighting may represent a change in attitude.

Uncover Weapons Complex

Troops Make Discovery In Mekong Delta

SAIGON (AP) — In operations to upset a new enemy offensive, Allied troops uncovered a Viet Cong arms-making complex in the Mekong Delta, the U.S. Command reported Thursday. More weapons were found nearby in abandoned fortifications pounded by eight-engine B52s.

U.S. reconnaissance planes spotted the Viet Cong complex Wednesday 73 miles southwest of Saigon. U.S. helicopters landed South Vietnamese troops who found a booby trap plant, two metal shops and a blacksmith shop.

Searching through the buildings, they found 4,800 hand grenades and 400 grenade molds, a large stock of ammunition-making and construction material and stores of metal.

Nearby other South Viet. (See UNCOVER, Page 4)

Lacking this, or some indirect sign that would give the lull more significance, Clifford said the United States assumes on the basis of intelligence information that a third major offensive is in the works.

There have been rumors President Johnson might stop all bombing of the north as the Democratic National Convention gets under way, but Clifford's comments seemed to scotch that idea in the absence of some move by the other side.

Clifford said President Johnson decided March 31 to continue bombing North Vietnam's narrow southern panhandle because to stop then would jeopardize U.S. forces just below the demilitarized zone.

"I think that reason still holds," he said.

"I believe the President feels strongly that it (the bombing) should be carried on until we get some kind of arrangement.

Musical Group Will Perform At Breakfast

The New Christy Minstrels, a musical group appearing at the State Fair, will furnish the entertainment at the Old Missouri Country Cured Ham and Bacon Breakfast at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Originally, fair officials had scheduled Dizzy Dean as a guest speaker, but Dean has notified officials he is unable to meet the schedule.

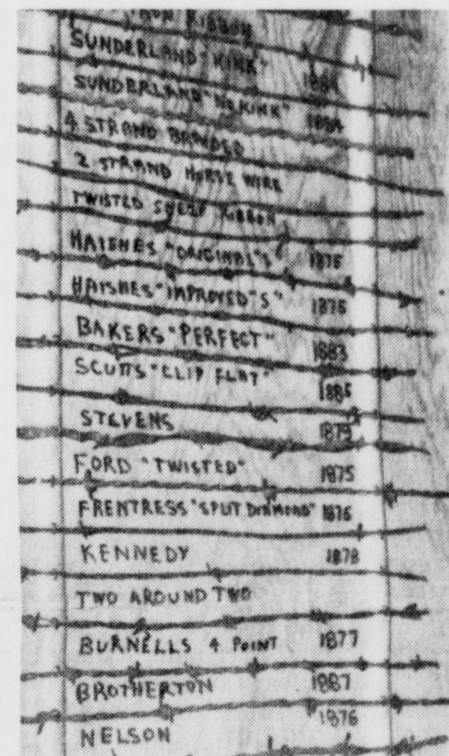

Numerous state, county and city officials have indicated they will attend the breakfast.

Big event of the breakfast will be the auction of the Grand Champion Ham, the Grand Champion Bacon and the reserve champions of each.

Tickets are on sale at the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce office and at the Fair.

Make New Donation

BERN (AP) — The Swiss government has made a new donation amounting to $460,000 to the International Red Cross committee for victims of the Nigerian civil war, raising its total contribution to $1.4 million.

Barbed Wire Collector

Eureka Springs, Ark. — The "wire that fenced the West" for a few cents a foot has gone up in price considerably because of persons like E. W. Beck of Eureka Springs. Beck is one of the more 5000 barbed wire collectors in this country. Beck, who has been collecting barbed wire for years, now has 342 different kinds, all cut to 18-inch lengths and mounted for display. (UPI)

Humphrey Tries To Step Apart From Nixon On War

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey campaigned in vote-rich New York and New Jersey Thursday and tried to draw a distinction between his and Republican Richard M. Nixon's views on Vietnam.

Humphrey, appearing confident of winning the Democratic presidential nomination, announced he would open his campaign Labor Day in New York — thus breaking with the tradition that Democratic candidates start their drive from Cadillac Square in Detroit on Labor Day.

Humphrey wooed labor leaders, plunged into sidewalk crowds to shake hands, and happily posed with New Jersey's Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes, often boosted as a Humphrey running mate.

Speaking from an open car to a crowd of several hundred in front of a Newark hotel, Humphrey called Hughes the "greatest governor in the United States."

In Newark, where 27 persons died in racial rioting last year, Humphrey delivered a plea for "order and justice."

The vice president told a luncheon audience that they are going to hear a lot about the law and order issue from others

"who will try to use it to divide America."

Humphrey argued that the residents of slums "are as anxious as anyone else for better law enforcement — perhaps even more so since the rate of crime in their neighborhoods is higher."

The vice president, during an appearance on the NBC-TV "Today Show," acknowledged that both he and Nixon, the GOP presidential nominee, "have taken the stand that the basic commitment of three presidents on Vietnam was a sound commitment in terms of our own national interest."

However, Humphrey said, differences between his and Nixon's views would "crop up as we go along to debate the issues."

Nigerian Commandos Push Toward Biafran Town

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigerian commandos pushing toward Abia, Biafra's largest remaining town, have occupied a village 10 miles south of it, informed sources said Thursday.

However, other elements of Col. Benjamin Adekunle's 3rd Marine Commando Division were reported running into stiff opposition five miles to the east on another road to Abia, the communications and administrative center of the secessionist regime.

Coupled with the military activity was another Nigerian rejection of proposals to fly relief supplies to the starving in the besieged rebel section of eastern Nigeria. The military government insisted supplies must go in by land.

Usually reliable sources said Adekunle, at a meeting in Lagos with other military leaders, urged that troops guarding the northern line in Biafra be sent into action to relieve the pressure on his drive from Port Harcourt in the south.

Two commando columns reached the Imo River Wednesday in the northward push, which could be the start of an all-out offensive in the 13-month-old civil war.

The fighting stepped up as peace talks lagged at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

Diplomatic sources in the Ethiopian capital said Emperor Haile Selassie has called on Nigeria to declare a unilateral cease-fire and invited the heads of both Nigeria and Biafra to a face-to-face meeting there Monday.

Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon.

Nigeria's chief of state, was expected to meet with his advisers to discuss the Nigerian response.

Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, Biafra's chief of state, announced last week that Biafra was willing to observe a truce during the peace parley.

Change on Grant Bids By Regional Commission

WARRENSBURG — A change in policy regarding the approval of requests for community improvement grants was made at the Show-Me Regional Planning Commission meeting in Warrensburg on Wednesday night.

Previously, the commission executive committee considered all such requests at their next meeting after the request was received. Now, all requests for approval of projects must be in the hands of the committee 30 days prior to the executive meeting to be considered. Otherwise the request must wait until the next meeting.

In other action the commission approved Paul Steinkuhler, mayor of LaMonte, as a member of the executive board, and approved the second phase of the comprehensive water and sewer plan for Pettis, Johnson and Lafayette counties, the three counties in the region.

A representative from General Planning and Resources Consultants, Inc., St. Louis, was present to discuss phase two of the plan prior to its approval.

Wednesday night's meeting was a quarterly general meeting to which the public was invited. Some 40 residents of the three counties attended.

Attending from Pettis County were Judge Henry Lamm, presiding judge of the county court; Mayor ISteinkuhler of LaMonte and Buell Clemons, mayor of Smithton.

Cubans Escape To US

Fourteen Flee Aboard Cargo Plane

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Fourteen Cubans fled to the United States Thursday aboard a poison-laden cargo plane that skimmed the waves of the Florida Straits in eluding radar nets. The refugees, including four armed men, requested asylum after landing at Homestead Airport, 200 miles north of Varadero, Cuba, where they said their flight began two hours earlier.

Aboard the plane were five men, five women, three children and a teen-age boy.

All were granted asylum and taken to Miami's Freedom House for questioning and to await resettlement in the United States.

A woman who did not give her name said everyone but the pilot hid in a sugar cane field near the Varadero airport Wednesday night and boarded the Russian-made yellow bi-plane when it taxied to the end of the airstrip shortly after dawn Thursday.

"We scrambled aboard and took off," she told police. "We were afraid we would be followed, but there was no pursuit."

During the 90-mile crossing of the Florida Straits between Cuba and Southern Florida, she said, the wheels of the single-engine plane came off.

How to drive a motor vehicle safely isn't as easy as it sounds during instruction courses in school or from parents or from older friends who have a license.

Many youngsters approaching sixteen are restless until they can get behind a steering wheel. In their over eagerness they are apt to discount the emphasis placed on safe driving. While watching dad and mom, older brothers, sisters and friends, the manipulation of an automobile seems so easy.

Gauging distances and speed appears elementary in relation to the ease of power steering and power brakes.

Admitting, however, the possibility that all boys and girls may be taught in school to drive a car, the fact remains that this is no insurance they will not meet a crisis on the road sooner or later. To prevent an accident they will require all the knowledgeable skill accumulated.

But there is another aspect to this driver-learning and vehicle owning business that needs more exposure than it has been getting in the schools and at home. This includes how to budget either the operation, the ownership, or both, against other necessary family expenditures.

Sometimes it seems that persons can operate an automobile more safely than they can handle budgets and credit.

Making this charge is S.C. Patterson, president of the National Foundation of Consumer Credit, which reports that an estimated $500 million evaporated from the economy last year as 192,000 "overextended Americans" flocked to the bankruptcy courts at the rate of more than one a minute.

Except for a hard core of perhaps 10,000 "credit drunks," who will never be able to handle their personal financial affairs, most of this 192,000 didn't get into trouble deliberately and they want to get out of debt honestly, says Patterson.

The average "Overextended American" is not a disadvantaged ghetto resident. He is a reasonably well-off blue collar worker who makes $500 a month. He is married and has two or more children. His indebtedness is in the neighborhood of $3,000. Generally, he is a man who simply got in over his depth unwittingly, bit by bit, or was pushed over the edge by an emergency which could have been planned for but wasn't.

Patterson believes that credit training at the high school level could have helped him avoid the pitfalls of overindebtedness. Acting on this belief, the foundation is providing texts for courses now being taught in some 3,000 high schools throughout the country and is designing new courses for junior high school, college and adult education levels.

Although 192,000 credit casualties may be more acceptable than 22,000 annual deaths on the highways despite the safe driving programs continuously emphasized, credit training may have unexpected far-reaching results. The discipline of safe and sane budgetary behavior in the home might induce safe and sane conduct behind the wheel of the family automobile.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Daniels Writes of FDR's Romance

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Jonathan Daniels, son of Woodrow Wilson's Secretary of the Navy, has written another book, "Washington Quadrille," giving more details of the secret romance of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It's an account of Washington society in the days of the Wilson administration, when young FDR served as assistant Secretary of the Navy under Jonathan's father (N.C.) Josephus Daniels.

This time Jonathan, now editor of the Raleigh (N.C.) news and observer, has done painstaking research to document a romance which could have changed history. More important than the romance, he has also told the story of Eleanor Roosevelt, who married her handsome cousin, FDR.

Daniels has dug up the dates of the gay yachting trips on the SS Sylph when the dashing young Assistant Secretary of the Navy took Lucy Mercer for weekend house parties down the Potomac. Eleanor Roosevelt was in Campobello, Washington summers, especially during 1917, the first year the U.S. was fighting in World War I, were both lonesome and romantic.

Lucy Mercer, then 25, daughter of an aristocratic Maryland family, had become Eleanor's social secretary, a later Navy yeomanette. There are two versions as to why she and FDR never married. One version is that Lucy, a Catholic, was unwilling to marry a divorced man. The other version is that Eleanor was firm in reminding her husband that he could never reach the White House as a divorced man.

My own knowledge of the romance came from Elsie Cobb Wilson, who later married Gen. Louis Little of the Marine Corps.

—Calm Mrs. Roosevelt—

Elsie, a close friend of the Roosevelts, told how the romance came to a crisis when Eleanor came back from a summer of 1917 in Campobello, and driving through the Virginia countryside, passed her husband and Lucy in a parked car.

Mrs. Roosevelt had an unemotional showdown with her husband, while Elsie had a talk with Lucy Mercer, advising her to step out of Roosevelt's life altogether.

It is not quite clear, either from Jonathan Daniel's book or from my conversations with Mrs. Little, whether it was Eleanor's confrontation or Lucy's decision to bow out that finally broke up the romance.

However, there are at least three subsequent chapters.

Elsie Little always blamed the Lucy Mercer incident for the fact that Roosevelt would not promote her husband to be commandant of the Marine Corps. Gen. Little, a brilliant officer, reached the No. 2 rank in the Marine Corps, but FDR never made him commander. According to Mrs. Little, he was irked over the part she had played in breaking up his romance.

Another chapter occurred during the closing days of World War II when Steve Early, Roosevelt's press secretary, told me that late one night he received a phone call from an editor in northern New Jersey telling him that the president's special train was on a siding near Allamuchy and he, the editor, wanted permission to publish the story.

In those war days, the whereabouts of the president was a military secret and could not be published without permission. Steve withheld permission. He said that he learned later that FDR, traveling north to New York, had ordered his train stopped near the home of Lucy Mercer, who had become Mrs. Winthrop Rutherford.

—FDR's Death—

The final chapter in FDR's secret romance is told poignantly by Daniels in describing the death of the President in April 1945. Mrs. Rutherford had gone to Warm Springs, taking along portrait painter Elizabeth Shoumatoff. He suffered a stroke while posing.

Mrs. Rutherford was spirited out of Warm Springs, and Bill Hassett, the president's secretary, deliberately omitted her name from the list of those who were with FDR when he was stricken. But Mrs. Roosevelt knew.

Daniels tells the story: "But Early blurted to him (Hassett): 'There's hell to pay, Bill. Mrs. Roosevelt knows that Lucy Rutherford was here.'"

"Even in the midst of the solemn obsequies there was on her heart a secret something she had to face," Daniels continues. "She made direct inquiries. Had Lucy Mercer come to the White House in the times she had been away? The truth could not be denied. Eleanor's resentment could not be dissipated. She announced that she was getting out of the White House immediately."

Daniels goes on to tell of Mrs. Rutherford's own death, July 31, 1948. "The world little noticed," he reported. "The New York Times obituary gave much of its attention to her dead husband."

Mrs. Roosevelt outlived Lucy by many years, and Daniels concludes his book by telling of Mrs. R's busy life, especially her life on July 31, the day of Lucy's death. She had taken a trip to Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where she dedicated a monument to her husband.

"The afternoon was growing late. The road she followed along the New Jersey-Pennsylvania line ran, as the twilight came on that afternoon, a little north of Allamuchy."

"There the word had come to prepare Lucy's place in the Rutherford family cemetery at Tranquility under the little mountains and not far from the pond where occasionally a blue heron stood as at val-kill. The big, old Rutherford house loomed, solid and heavy in the dark. It had given Lucy shelter. She had given it grace, affection, a warm heart and a blithe spirit. She was welcome to its earth. Her story was over as Mrs. Roosevelt on her lengthening journeys rode by, hurrying home — and to the world."

Taking a Better View

As the Good Book notes, where there is no vision, the people perish, and it is heartening to learn that somebody is doing something about it.

The Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association reports that there was an 84.83 per cent increase in the production of windshield washer concentrate in consumer-sized packages in 1967.

The total was 14,203,141 packages, a far cry from the measly 49,872 produced in 1961.

Traffic accidents haven't gone down, but at least more people are getting a better view of the car that runs into them on the highway.

Look-alikes on Foreign Policy

Nixon, HHH: Few Differences

NEW YORK (NEA)

Despite the competitive rhetoric of the election campaign, American voters will have to use a microscope to discover major differences in foreign policy between Richard Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, and his Democratic rival, Hubert Humphrey.

Both candidates, seasoned politicians, are hardly novices in the field of international relations. They are equally aware of the changes that have occurred in the Communist and non-Communist worlds in the last decade. Each is anxious, in his own way, to bring American policies in line with the realities of the existing situation.

Like Humphrey, Nixon has discarded his rigid hawkish position on Vietnam and has become at least a reluctant dove.

The GOP platform, which was tailored to help Nixon's candidacy, no longer calls for a clear-cut military victory in the Southeast Asian conflict. Instead of increased U.S. military involvement, the platform even calls for "progressive de-Americanization" of the war in Vietnam.

Like Humphrey, Nixon does not exclude the possibility of direct U.S. negotiations with the Viet Cong. However, he insists that such negotiations must have the approval of the Saigon government and should not jeopardize South Vietnam's independence.

In this respect Nixon and Humphrey differ sharply with Sen. Eugene McCarthy who has been urging the Johnson administration to include the Viet Cong Communists in a coalition government with or without the consent of Saigon and without any prior conditions or agreements.

Both Nixon and Humphrey urge the South Vietnamese people to take more of the responsibility in the conduct of the war. However, they equally reject what Gen. Eisenhower called a "camouflaged surrender" of the legitimate American or Allied interests. Both refer vaguely to a "peace with honor."

To be sure, the Democratic candidate, like his party, would be more generous with foreign aid than his Republican rival.

If Nixon adheres to the letter of the GOP platform, "Nations hostile to this country will receive no assistance from the United States." Humphrey believes that foreign aid could serve as a useful instrument of American foreign policy even if extended to hostile nations under proper conditions.

But this, after all, is a minor difference which will have to be evaluated and re-examined in accordance with changing international events.

On vital questions like NATO or U.S. relations with Russia and Red China there is indeed little difference between the views of Humphrey and Nixon.

The two candidates have made it clear that they continue to regard West Europe and NATO as the key to American security. Whoever is elected president will seek to reorganize and strengthen NATO and use his influence for greater European unity, including the admission of Britain into the Common Market.

Neither Humphrey nor Nixon believes that the Communists, whether pro-Russian or pro-Chinese, have abandoned their Marxist-Leninist dream of "revolutionary wars of liberation."

But they agree that Russia's quarrel with Red China and the wave of reform in Czechoslovakia and elsewhere in East Europe has considerably weakened what was once feared as an unyielding and indestructible "Communist monolith."

This, in the view of Humphrey and Nixon, has opened up possibilities for a fresh approach to Russia, China and East Europe and a new initiative in U.S. foreign policy.

There is a mistaken belief that a great bridge player can know where all the cards are. The theory is that if he doesn't, then he isn't an expert.

Quite often he will locate all the cards after a couple of plays, but at trick two he seldom knows more than a beginner would.

Here is another hand from the match between the Dallas Orange team and the California All-Stars to show this.

When the hand was shown on Bridge-O-Rama the audience noted that Dallas had bid four spades and gone down.

The bidding was that shown in the box. South's opening was a weak two bid, showing a good six-card suit and a hand just too weak for a normal opening. Two no-trump was a forcing response and the three-heart bid showed something in that suit, whereupon North jumped to the spade game.

The commentators predicted that the bidding would be duplicated and the audience watched as the commentators' predictions materialized.

Dummy's king of diamonds accounted for the first trick and the 10 of spades was led. East played low. He could do nothing else and the audience watched while declarer studied his play. The audience could see that if South played the ace of trumps and another one and then guessed where the ace of clubs was, that he would make his contract.

The commentators predicted that he would take the finesse. The explanation was that in this company East would not have covered the 10 with the king so that South could not know where the king was. Then, the percentage play had to be the finesse and experts are all percentage players. The 10 was allowed to ride. West took his king; led a second diamond for his partner to ruff and two aces left South down one for this, another tie board.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Regular Daily Exercise Most Helpful Procedure

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What causes angina pectoris? How can one avoid it? How do Peritrate, Cardilate and propylthiouracil help it? Is digitalis poisonous to the heart?

A — Angina pectoris is caused by a spasm or narrowing of one of the coronary arteries in the heart muscle. To prevent it you should avoid cigarettes, keep your weight below the upper normal limit for your height, have your doctor check your blood pressure and treat it if it is high, and get regular exercise every day rather than saving it up for the weekend or your vacation.

Peritrate and Cardilate are long-acting nitrates given to dilate your coronary arteries. Propylthiouracil is given to counteract excessive thyroid secretion. Any beneficial effect it would have on angina would be indirect.

Digitalis is given to produce slower, more forceful heart beats. If the dose is not carefully regulated, digitalis poisoning ushered in by vomiting will occur.

Q — I am 63 and have been advised by one doctor to take digoxin. Another advised digitalis. I took the latter for two weeks but stopped because it slowed my heart too much. Please explain the difference between these two drugs.

A — Digoxin is a purified derivative of digitalis leaves. It is preferred to digitalis because it is effective in much smaller doses. Both drugs must be taken under medical supervision.

Q — What is arteriosclerotic heart disease with hypertension? Is it serious?

A — This is hardening of the coronary arteries with high blood pressure. It is serious because without skillful treatment a coronary heart attack is certain to occur.

Q — What is cor pulmonale with congestive heart failure? What can be done for it?

A — Persons with an enlargement of the right ventricle of the heart (cor pulmonale) usually have congestive heart failure (a damming back of the blood and waterlogging of the lungs). The treatment, which must be based on the individual needs of the victim, may include drugs to dilate the bronchial tubes, steam inhalations, digitalis and diuretics (water pills).

Q — I am a girl, 15. I always have cold hands even in warm weather. What causes this?

The National Geographic Society News Bulletin: Starlings. — Hawks and doves don't stand a chance in Washington, D.C. The starlings win without ruffling a feather. At dusk great flocks of the noisy birds return from the suburbs to roost on federal buildings.

Special wiring on many buildings shocks the birds. But they tend to regroup on the nearest unprotected edifice — or tree.

The White House uses more subtle measures. At twilight a shrill recording of a starling in distress is amplified over the vast lawn. The bogus cry usually keeps the grounds clear.

A well-intentioned philanthropist — Eugene Schefflin — imported the starlings from England as part of a project to bring to America all the birds mentioned in Shakespeare.

Unnumbered millions of starlings now inhabit North America. They have pushed north to Canada, south to Mexico, and west to California.

Democrat Pickups

Three weeks ago a young fellow bought a used car and he was real delighted with the way it consumed so little gas. He had filled it up and had been doing a lot of riding around but the gauge stayed at about half full.

One night recently the car decided not to go, so he tried to find out what was wrong. He wasn't too far from home and managed to slide it on down to the front of his house.

"What is wrong with it?" questioned his dad when he told of his troubles.

"How about gas?" asked his dad.

"I have a half tank" replied the boy. "I'll wait until Don comes, he will know what is wrong with it."

When Don arrived he looked at various things that could be wrong and found nothing.

"What about your gas tank?" queried Don, as he started to look for himself.

"I have a half tank" explained the boy.

"It's empty," Don told him. And so it was, no matter what the gauge said.

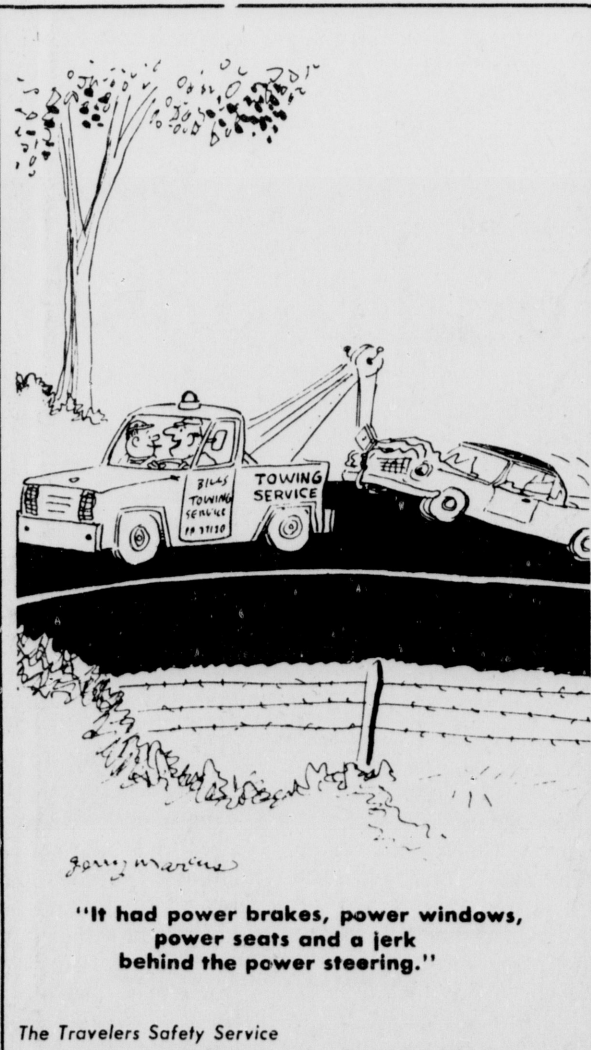

"You know," reminded the father with a grin, "no matter how old it is, you can't wear it."

Sends Packets of Sweets To Bolster GI's Morale

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My son in Vietnam is out in the field and lives on canned C-rations. He really appreciates it when I send him those shake-a-puddings. I also include an instant breakfast drink, different flavors for milk shakes and dried milk in containers. Each article is wrapped in a separate plastic bag before packing. In letters, I include a stick of gum, individual catsup and mustard packets, saved from trips to a drive-in, or a small salt container. He says these help the taste of the canned rations.—MRS. E. T. O.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Please, someone tell me how I can get my baby's plastic pants soft again.—MRS. L. C.

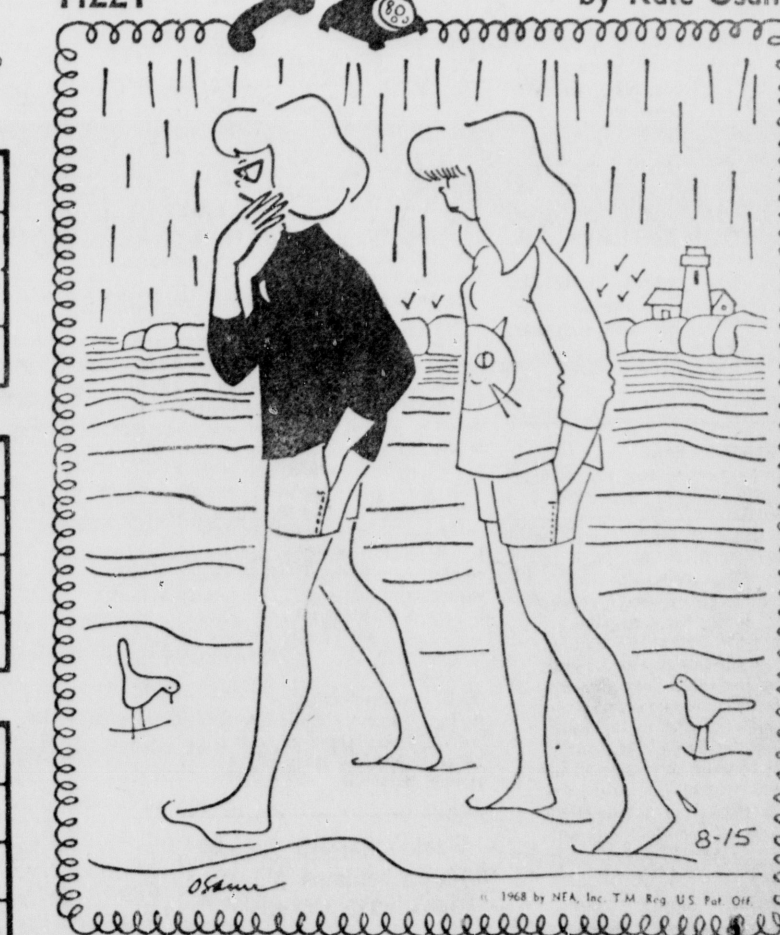

DEAR POLLY—I would like to tell the other ladies that I have made many braided rag rugs. I use a heavy, old electric iron to keep the rug from buckling while I sew the braids together. Keep the iron just behind where you are sewing and slide it forward as you go.—EDNA

DEAR POLLY—I would like to help Elsie get her rag rug started. I use clean cotton rags and tear or cut them into strips 2-to-2½ inches in width. When making a round rug, use a large crochet hook and begin with single crochet. Make the first row about eight inches long, then join the ends. As you begin the second row, use double crochet, add every so often and smooth out so the rug does not curl. (Polly's note—Work on a card table or other flat surface.) Continue until desired size is made. If the rug does not lay as flat as you would like, use a damp rag and press, or use your steam iron. Fold the rags in as you work so there are no ragged edges. For an oblong rug, begin with a longer single crochet piece, then crochet second row using double stitch as before. Be sure to add at the corners so the rug does not curl.—MRS. F. W., Jr.
